THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 113 OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, AUGUST 2, 1990 PER COPY 35¢

"GROVER'S CORNERS" is the name of the town in Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," which will be presented on the Garrett Community College stage August 8-11 by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. The good and the bad, the happy and the sad events in the lives of the people of Grover's Corners are the focus of the play, which has a huge cast of local actors and actresses. The production is under the direction of veteran actress and director Jane Avery, with technical and stage work being coordinated by Ben Sincell, GCC assistant professor of speech and theatre and also a 20-year stage veteran. The performances will all begin at 8 p.m. and reservations are encouraged. See story for details and see another photo of the cast in The Republican's "Summer Sensations II" which appears in today's issue.

Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" To Be Presented By GLAF Aug. 8-11

One of the best known dramas in the American theatre, Thornton Wilder's "Own Town," will be presented by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, August 8, 9, 10, and 11. Performances will be in the air conditioned auditorium of Garrett Community College each evening at 8 p.m.

Set in the small New Hampshire town of Grover's Corners, which could be any small town in the U.S.A., "Our Town" chronicles the good and the bad, the happy and the sad events in the lives of the people in the town, from births to marriages to deaths. It presents the universal message that people never fully appreciate the precious gift of life, and shows how life goes on, as each new day dawns. The play is being produced through special arrangement with Baker's Plays, Boston.

The cast of characters in the play will include persons from several different states, as well as from all areas of Garrett County. Robert S. Kleinedler, a native of Wheeling, W.Va., will play the leading role of stage manager who narrates the play and gives philosophical commentary on the characters and events. The role of Emily Webb, daughter of the town's newspaper editor, will be played by Jennifer Caramella, who recently moved to Garrett County from the West Coast.

David A. Burdock II, graduate of Southern High School and student at Garrett Community College, will appear in the role of George Gibbs, the town doctor's son. Cindy Wynne, a native of Tulsa Oklahoma, will play the role of Myrtle Webb, mother of Emily. Richard Hill, local graphic artist, will be seen as newspaper editor Mr. Webb. Sam

Swanton Man Seriously Injured When Pickup Truck Overturns

Maryland State Police investigated several accidents over the past week, including one in which a Swanton man was seriously injured when the pickup truck he was operating struck an embankment and overturned early Saturday morning.

Clifford Ray Bittinger, 29, Swanton, was southbound in a GMC Sierra Classic on the New Germany Road at approximately 2:20 a.m. when he ran off the left side of the road as he entered a curve. Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and the state police Medevac helicopter responded. Bittinger was transported by Medevac helicopter to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where he is in intensive care in serious condition, as of this morning.

A passenger in the vehicle, Terry Scott Beckman, 24, Swanton, was treated and released at Memorial Hospital.

Tfc. G.R. Chaney investigated the incident and charges are pending.

A 17-year-old Keyser, W.Va., youth was charged with failure to drive on the right half of the roadway and reckless driving after an accident which occurred Sunday at 5:56 p.m.

The youth was southbound in the Ford F150 on Westernport Road when a deer apparently ran into his path. When the youth swerved the vehicle to avoid the deer, the vehicle went off the left side of the road and

Study Reveals Economic Impact Of Garrett County Airport

The Maryland Aviation Administration recently completed an economic impact study of the 37 public use airports in the state. The analysis focused on the economic roles each airport plays, and economic impacts that each airport has on the communities it serves.

Garrett County Airport is a publicly owned general aviation airport located near McHenry.

Despite Garrett County Airport's size, the economic impact analysis suggests that the airport has "a significant and increasing economic value" to its local communities. The airport and employees pay taxes, and visitors on arriving aircraft spend money in the local economy. The airport also helps to attract business, the survey concluded.

In total, the airport is estimated to create: $500,000 in local annual economic activity; $154,000 in wages annually for area residents; and, approximately eight area jobs.

Garrett County Airport is used by visitors conducting business in the area, and by tourists who visit the Deep Creek Lake area. The proximity of the area to the residents of Baltimore, Washington, D.C., and Pittsburgh makes the boating and skiing facilities attractively accessible by air, the survey said.

Maryland's public use airports provide aviation services to local businesses and industry and create jobs and tax revenues. Aviation-related businesses make purchases in the local economy. The airports act as a stimulus to local economic development.

The "direct" impacts comprise the financial value of those activities that occur due to the provision of general aviation services. At Garrett County Airport, these impacts arise through the transient storage, flight instruction, and fuel service offered at the airport. In addition, flight instruction, aerial photography, air cargo service, and sightseeing flights are made available by Lakeside Aviation.

The "indirect" impacts that occur at Garrett County are a result of the regional expenditures made by the estimated 2,300 annual visitors to the area who arrive by air. Many of these visitors are tourists who remain in the area for several days dining at local restaurants and utilizing the tourist facilities in the area. In addition to

Green Glade House Leveled By Suspicious Fire

A fire of suspicious origin destroyed a double-wide home along Green Glade Road early Sunday morning, resulting in a loss of an estimated $80,000.

Volunteer fire fighters from Deer Park and Bittinger were called to the Robert L. Cunningham residence at about 3:40 a.m. and, upon their arrival, discovered the structure fully involved in flames. The Cunningham family was reportedly vacationing in Florida at the time of the blaze.

According to James Martin, deputy state fire marshal, the fire apparently started in the living room of the house. It was discovered and reported by three young girls who were sleeping outside in a tent at a neighbor's home.

Martin said that the cause of the fire has been labeled as suspicious and is still under investigation.

Also responding to the scene was the Southern Rescue Squad and the county air cascade unit presently being housed at Oakland's fire station. A crew from Oakland also stood by at Deer Park's station. Firemen remained on the scene for about three and one-half hours. There were no injuries reported.

Commissioners Seeking Flood Damage Funds For Two County Road Sites

The Garrett County Commissioners this week announced that a letter has been sent to the Maryland State Soil Conservationist Phillip H. Christiansen in an "attempt to secure funding and other assistance to repair flood damage to Spring Lick and Buffalo Run Roads" which, they say, "continues to present a threat to life and property in these areas."

Commissioner Elwood L. Grove II explained that recent heavy rains has caused considerable damage to sections of those two roads and the "ongoing problem has initiated a closer examination of those areas and possible resources for funding reconstruction or replacement of portions of those roads.

In the case of Spring Lick Road, which is located in the Swanton area and runs from Rt. 495 to Savage River Road, Groves stated, "The road is built into a shelf on a very steep grade, with a drop-off of approximately 100 to 150 feet into a creek for quite a distance. The creek keeps eroding the toe of the hill and slippage occurs."

The board recently met with Catherine P. Stevenson, Maryland State Water Resources Administration, who told commissioners that an Emergency Watershed Protection program exists and that funding through that program may become available. The commissioners' letter to the Soil Conservation Service was written in an attempt to pursue that funding program.

The board is presently considering whether relocating or replacing portions of the roads would be the better solution but will wait to see what funding is available, if any, for the projects.

Commissioner Ernest J. Gregg Jr. stated that, depending on the magnitude of the projects, the county still might not be able to afford even a 20 percent share of the cost.

Buffalo Run Road is located in the Friendsville area.

NHS Auxiliary Gym

Another letter was sent by the board this week, this one to the Garrett County Board of Education, recommending that the proposed construction of the Northern High School auxiliary gymnasium be re-bid.

The school board had unanimously voted July 12 to reject all bids for the projects following the discovery of a

Ohio Man Seriously Injured On Yough; Rugged Terrain Hinders Rescuers

A Canton, Ohio man is listed in fair condition this morning after sustaining a spinal injury in the Youghiogheny River Saturday. Scott Woodall, 29, reportedly dove from the riverside in the National Falls area, and struck his head on the river bottom. Phil Coleman, co-owner of Precision Rafting Expeditions, said Woodall was with a group of fellow firemen and paramedics from Canton, all customers of Precision. The group had stopped at one of the usual swimming areas for a break when the accident occurred.

Coleman said Woodall dove into the ten-foot water at the base of the rapids and came up struggling, saying, "I hit my head." He was obviously severely injured, numb from the waist down. According to Coleman, the firemen and paramedics had Woodall secured on a backboard within fifteen minutes of the accident, and removed him from the water. Two other rafters, one a physician's assistant and the other an emergency medical technician, stabilized him further. The victim remained conscious throughout the ordeal.

By this time, Coleman had contacted his partner at Precision Rafting, Roger Zbel, who notified emergency personnel. The Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department and the Northern Rescue Squad responded to the call, but were unable to reach the accident site quickly, as the rafting group was in rugged terrain. The Ohio firemen, Coleman, and other rafters then carried Woodall on the backboard for two and one half miles upstream, along a narrow trail. Lifeflight helicopter, based in Pittsburgh, also responded, but was unable to land any closer than approximately three miles from the accident site. (Medevac had initially been summoned by the Allegheny County Civil Defense, but was diverted en route to respond to a traffic accident.)

The Northern Rescue personnel met the rafting crew, carrying Woodall, on the trail, and were able to load the victim into the back of a truck. They secured him there, and drove slowly for another half mile to the waiting Lifeflight aircraft. Then, three hours from the time of injury, Woodall was transported to the Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown.

Coleman reported that the physicians at Ruby Memorial commended the entire rescue personnel on their efforts, but that the damage was done to Woodall's spine at the moment of impact.

"It was a freak accident," Coleman said. "We've been swimming at that area for 10 years, and nothing like this has ever happened." He added that the Precision Rafting Company "certainly wouldn't let people swim there if we thought it was dangerous."

Coleman and Zbel, who stated that this is the first serious accident in the company's history, have been inspecting the National Falls area since the mishap, in attempts to discover exactly what caused it.

Rabies Cases Now Total 27; Health Dept. Issues Warnings

The Garrett County Health Department this week announced the confirmation of two more rabies cases in the county, bringing the total thus far (since January) to 27. The highest number of rabies cases ever recorded in the county was 24 in 1984.

Health Department Sanitarian Tina Buckel reported that the two most recent cases involved rabid raccoons, one at the Wayne Green residence on Rt. 295 near Dung Hill Road and the other at the Chad Brown residence on Pig's Ear Road.

In each case, the rabid animal came into contact with a currently vaccinated dog, each of which has been re-vaccinated and is being watched for a period of 90 days.

The Garrett County Environmental Health Department has issued the following safeguards to protect residents from exposure to rabies which, officials state, has now reached record proportions in the county.

Make sure ALL household and farm dogs and cats have up-to-date rabies vaccinations. These shots should be given as soon as the pet reaches three months of age.

Stay away from all wild animals and unknown cats and dogs. Children in particular should be made aware of this precaution.

All pets should be confined to home or yard and should be walked only on a leash.

Wild animals must never be kept as pets. Even a baby skunk or raccoon born in captivity can be a rabies carrier.

Make your home and yard as unattractive as possible to wild animals. Feed pets inside house. Keep garbage inside tightly closed garbage containers.

Avoid contact with a pet which has been in a fight with a wild animal for a period of two hours. If medical treatment is necessary, wear gloves during this period.

Report the incident to the Environmental Health Services (334-8980) or Garrett County Emergency Management (334-1930) (453-3113) or (245-4114).

"Cats Only" Rabies Clinics Schedule Noted

The Garrett County Health Department will be conducting a short, three day series of rabies clinics for the vaccination of cats only beginning Monday, August 6 through Wednesday, August 8. The exact times and places for these special purpose clinics are as follows: Monday, August 6, 5-8 p.m., Grantsville Elementary School; Tuesday, August 7, 5-8 p.m. G.C.C. Maintenance Bay, McHenry; Wednesday, August 8, 5-8 p.m., Broadford Elementary School, Oakland.

These clinics are being offered to allow cat owners the opportunity to bring their animals to a low cost clinic without the fear of having them frightened by barking dogs. Cats and only cats will be vaccinated during this series of clinics.

According to Dr. Rex Archer II, Garrett County Health Officer, it is crucial that cats or kittens over three months of age be adequately protected against rabies. Since 1983, over 70 cats have been confirmed positive for rabies in Maryland. This far exceeds the number of

Alcohol & Drug Abuse Council Elects Officers

New officers were recently elected by the Garrett County Council on Alcohol & Drug Abuse for the June 1990-91 fiscal year. The newly-elected officers are: Floyd Baker, president; Tom Bratten, vice president; Jim Harvey, treasurer; Norma J. Rodeheaver, secretary; and Anna Bishop, member at large.

At the July meeting of the council, discussion of the publication of a Directory of Services for Garrett County determined that there is strong support in the county for such a publication. It was also noted that state funds are available to aide the council with such a project.

A decision was made to postpone adoption of the by-laws until further revision can be made.

The group decided not to operate a booth this year at the Garrett County Fair, but to place flyers at the Crime Solvers booth and the Republican party booth. Possible Autumn Glory participation was discussed, and a committee was appointed to formulate ideas.

A membership drive was initiated, and it was decided by those present to set dues at $5 per fiscal year. Persons interested in membership should contact any current member, officer or write to: Garrett County Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse, P.O. Box 10, McHenry, MD 21541.

The next meeting of the council will be held August 28 in room 154 at Garrett Community College. The public is invited to attend, and new members are welcome.

SENIORS RAISE FUNDS - Participants of the Oakland Senior Center raised a total of $182 in two fund raisers, and donated the money to the Area Agency of Aging (AAA) to help support the Senior Nutrition Program. The seniors worked on crafts for several months, providing not only a recreational activity, but also serving as a fund raiser. Their creations were sold during the months of May and June, netting $100.21. Under the direction of Mary Browning and Lorene Dodge, the seniors also sponsored a bake sale on June 30, and raised an additional $82.71. Pictured above are the Oakland Senior Center participants. Seated, left to right, are Edna Friend, Rachel Wolf, Mabel Cassidy, Nelle Browning, Chris Vischetti, Ruth Mateer, and Ethel Schlossnagle. Standing in the same order are Mabel Smouse, Wilda Davy, Nettie Peck, Edith Rodeheaver, Helen Henline, Gwen Sanders, Helen Schroyer, Betty Glotfelty, Mary Lambert, and Lorene Dodge. Below, Barbara Hornyak, Supervisor for Area Agency on Aging, accepts the contribution on July 17 from Mary Browning, Oakland Senior Center Manager.

Ruth Ryan's Name Omitted From List

The July 19 issue of The Republican carried an article concerning the Garrett County League of Women Voters' quest to collect questions from voters that would be presented to the various persons who are candidates in the September 11 primary election. It also listed the candidates; however the information received from the League omitted one candidate. She is Ruth H. Ryan, who is seeking a seat on the Garrett County Democratic State Central Committee. The League regrets the omission.

Charles Blake Garlitz, 48, received a six-month jail sentence and a $2,500 fine for the unlawful sale and possession of live foxes, as a result of his trial held July 19 in Buckhannon, W.Va.

Garlitz was the target of an undercover operation known as "Operation Red Fox," spearheaded by the Maryland Natural Resources Police. The 12-month covert operation revealed Garlitz was illegally taking, buying and selling live foxes in Maryland, and later transporting them to a buyer in West Virginia.

The covert operation of the Natural Resources Police resulted in 11 individuals being charged with approximately 135 counts of various hunting related violations.

Garlitz is free on cash bond and has 20 days to appeal the West Virginia Court decision.

The police say Garlitz has already paid $11,350 in fines for 67 counts of various wildlife law violations in Maryland.

Deer Park Man Cited Following July 7 Accident

Numerous charges were filed against a Deer Park man by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department after a three-week investigation of an automobile accident.

William T. Sachs Jr., 30, has been charged with driving while intoxicated, driving while suspended, unauthorized use of a vehicle, failure to control speed to avoid a collision and a seat belt violation.

Investigating officer Charles P. Nolan noted that the charges stemmed from a July 7 accident which occurred on Main Street in Deer Park.

According to police reports Sachs was being held in the Garrett County Jail on $250 bond after charges were filed.

Charges are pending in a separate fiery one-vehicle accident which occurred July 29 on a private road off the Audley Riley Road.

Two passengers were treated and released in the 7:35 p.m. mishap at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Injured were Todd Riley, 15, Hopewell, Va., and Rodney Swiger, 24, Oakland. Riley was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to the hospital while Swiger was taken by private vehicle.

The 17-year-old male driver of the 1983 Datsun and another passenger, Brett Hardesty, 29, Oakland, apparently received only minor injuries.

The mishap occurred when a deer reportedly crossed the path of the westbound vehicle causing the driver to swerve off the left side of the roadway. The vehicle struck a tree and overturned, coming to rest on its top in a ditch. The vehicle then burst into flames with the driver and passengers narrowly escaping serious injury.

Cpl. L.E. Gnegy is continuing his investigation in the accident.

Man Injured While "Tubing"

Christopher Moskot, 24, Baltimore, was injured Saturday on Deep Creek Lake while riding an inner-tube towed behind a motorboat. The Department of Natural Resources reported that Moskot sustained several fractured ribs when he lost control after crossing the wake of the boat.

The Northern Rescue Squad transported Moskot to Garrett Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

Habitat Kicks Off Fund-Raising Drive

Many local residents recently opened up their mail and found a letter addressed to them from Garrett County Habitat for Humanity. Over 800 letters were mailed to area residents and businesspeople, asking them to give financial support to the organization.

Habitat for Humanity is a family of volunteers of all ages, from all occupations, dedicated to helping needy families fulfill their hope of owning their own homes. The Garrett County chapter, one of the most active in the State of Maryland, has built 18 new homes for area families since 1984.

"Habitat receives no federal, state, or local government funding. We are dependent on contributions from local churches, businesses, and individuals," stated Duane Yoder, president of the Garrett County Habitat for Humanity.

"This year we plan to build three new homes for deserving families already selected. Our goal is to raise $165,000 toward this effort. At mid-year we have only raised $31,000. Therefore, we hope our neighbors will be very supportive of this direct mail program."

Habitat families are selected on the basis of need and their ability to make monthly payments on a non-interest mortgage. Family members help in the construction of their homes, done mostly with volunteer labor, and they provide a total of 300 hard-working hours of community service. Money received from the mortgage payments is placed in the Habitat building fund.

In addition to building new homes, Habitat is active in the rehabilitation work of older homes. Each summer the group sponsors three work camps specifically for this purpose. A total of 40 such projects have been accomplished in the last six summers.

"Habitat is continually working on fundraising projects to fulfill the area's need. However, a large portion of our budget is dependent on individual and business giving. Our Board of Directors hopes that our recent requests for giving will result in a strong boost toward our $165,000 goal," emphasized Yoder.

Persons interested in contributing to Habitat or finding out more about the organization should contact Yoder at (301) 334-9431, or mail a check to Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, P.O. Box 363, Oakland, Maryland 21550.

Let's Nip It . . .

With the unraveling of communism around the globe, and just when world peace seems to be within our grasp, the people of this earth are once again threatened by a power-hungry, perhaps crazed, leader who is flexing his muscles in the Middle East. The country of Iraq, under President Saddam Hussein, conducted a military invasion of Kuwait last night, quickly taking control of that oil-rich nation's government.

Militarily speaking, Iraq is by far the most powerful nation in the Middle East region, sporting an army of over one million and extensive weaponry. Hussein has also been known to utilize chemical warfare. He represents a far greater threat than did the Ayatollah Khomeini of Iran or Qaddafi of Libya, because he has far more strength to carry out his threats.

Because so much of the world depends on the oil provided by this region, this latest action must be of major concern to all of us. Without swift and firm action by the United States and other key nations, Hussein will undoubtedly continue his rampage, with Saudi Arabia possibly being his next target. President Bush has already taken diplomatic and economic action by freezing Iraqi assets in the United States, but a strong show of miliary force may well be necessary. Such action worked well in Libya and in Granada.

While we do not take much stock in the words of modern-day prophets and fortune tellers, the track records of a few are truly uncanny. Nostradamus, a fresh astrologer and physician who lived in the 1500s, accurately predicted the rise of Hitler in the 20th century. There is even some reference in his book, Centuries, to the assassination of President Kennedy. The same book also speaks of a man in the 1990s, who wears a green turban and who will attempt to conquer the world.

We don't know what Hussein's favorite color is and we do not believe one should not take drastic actions based just on predictions. But we do know that we can ill-afford another Hitler, and Hussein seems to be cut from the same mold. His aggression must be nipped in the bud.

To the Editor:

The 34th Annual Garrett County Fair will be August 12-18. As with all non-profit organizations, much volunteer work goes into making it a success. We feel this year will be Garrett County's finest fair.

While readying for the fair, several exhibits that were left from previous years have been found. These exhibits will not be kept after August 11. To make arrangements for pick up of previous exhibits, call 387-5400 or 245-4488.

A $5.00 admission ticket will provide the holder entertainment, carnival rides, and race track events. Weekly passes that DO NOT include carnival rides are on sale for $15.00. These tickets will be sold until August 13, at Arrow Head, Plaza Deli, Beachy Pharmacy, Friendsville Pharmacy, the Extension Office, and by fair directors.

Children's day will be Wednesday, August 15. There will be a baby crawl, pet show, and other activities for the little folks.

Senior Citizen day is Friday, August 17. All seniors, age 60 and over, will be able to enter the fair from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. free that day. There will be special activities for the seniors during this time.

The pony pull scheduled for Friday at 2 p.m. has been changed until 5 p.m. that day.

Musical entertainment will be provided nightly on the stage. Monday will be the Hollanders; Tuesday, The Beaver Creek Boys; Wednesday, The Pfiefers; Thursday, the Jubilators, sponsored by Cumberland Coca-Cola; Friday, Don Gabrill; and Saturday, Coke will sponsor the Gentlemen of Note.

Thanks to everyone who helps with the Garrett County Fair. See you all August 12-18.

To the Editor:

I am a concerned property owner in Nest Lick Acres. I purchased land in Nest Lick Acres several years ago. One of the reasons I decided to buy there is the restrictive covenants — no trailers and no commercial use of the property. I am just starting the process of building a home and I am having problems already.

A certain person (who I will not name), has a trucking business located in this neighborhood and also owns several vacant lots across from the lots I own. At the present time the following items are being stored on these vacant lots: 13-55 gallon drums (containing what, I do not know), 25 tractor trailer tires, one large drum 45" by 82" on a stand, assorted large metal objects, a one-gallon gas can and one to two trailers (tractor-trailer type).

I have contacted Garrett County Environmental Health, Maryland Environmental Health and the zoning board, all to no avail. The only other recourse I have is to have a lawyer take care of this matter.

I think it is a shame that any resident of Garrett County should have to pay a lawyer just to live in a decent neighborhood. I hope the county commissioners consider county-wide zoning so others do not have the problems I am having.

To the Editor:

The residents of Shallmar, MD, with a per capita income considerably below the poverty level, are faced with an age old dilemma, foisted on them by the Maryland Department of the Environment: Which comes first the chicken or the egg?

Question:

If your community (and its predecessor) have been drawing water directly from a mountain stream with no ill-effect for over a hundred years, and shortly after a farmer deliberately moves his fence line to allow his stock direct access to that same stream and it begins showing unacceptably high readings of fecal coliform, whom should the MDE come down on?

Answer:

The community using the water . . . if the MDE has its own agenda above and beyond its legislated directive to maintain the purity of Maryland's streams and waterways, as they seem to have in this particular instance.

Question:

If MDE's own samples taken at the head end of the spring fed stream mentioned above, are nearly pure before traversing the farm in question, and polluted thereafter, who should be penalized?

Answer:

The community using the water . . . if the MDE has its own agenda above and beyond its legislated directive to maintain the purity of Maryland's streams and waterways, as they seem to have in this particular instance. (Or, "Ditto above".)

Question:

What is the penalty to be imposed to support the MDE's overriding agenda alluded to above?

Answer:

The community shall cease, forthwith, availing themselves of FREE water they have always used from a normally pristine (but for the farmer's actions) mountain, native trout stream and use "exclusively" excessively priced, heavily treated and suspect as to proper and adequate treatment procedures.

The above is an encapsulation of the bureaucratic mindset we are faced with and on which we are all dependent for the solution to the chicken and the egg syndrome.

In a recent meeting with the Maryland Department of the Environment, Shallmar's representatives, of which I am one, were unabashedly told the MDE intends to destroy their old town water system again. This time they will do it right . . . properly; a euphuism for "legally" which they failed to do the first time, for which they need to be called to account.

Quotes worth remembering:

J.L. Hearn, Mgr., Water Management Div. MDE, "We intend to help and protect you whether you want us to or not; that's our job, that's what we do."

L.D. Brandeis, Associate Justice U.S. Supreme Court (1916-39). "Experience teaches us to be most on our guard to protect liberty when the government's purposes are beneficent."

To the Editor:

When I picked up this week's Republican and read that a certain local physician, who has admitted to misconduct, had his license reinstated and is returning to practice, I couldn't believe my eyes. Where is the justice? This man has admitted to sexual misconduct with numerous women, yet because he has promised to have counseling, said he was sorry, and has promised never to do it again, he is given back his license and allowed to take up where he left off. Do you really think this man's word is any good? He has already broken the oath he took when he became a doctor, over and over. How can a jury of his peers believe him?

In my opinion, the act he committed is on the par with murder. At least when someone commits murder, it's over for the victim. Unfortunately, for the local physican's victims, it's another story. The victim is robbed of her self esteem, her trust in her fellow man, nights of sleep because of recurring nightmares of the indignation, the feeling of being dirty and that somehow it was her fault, going over in her mind hour after hour trying to understand how this could have happened and why. These things occur with any women victimized; however, when the act is committed by your own doctor, someone you were brought up to respect and trust since infancy, the trauma must be devastating. She may never be able to walk into a doctor's office alone or leave her children alone with their doctor. What a terrible thought. God, help these victims; no one else seems willing to.

As long as our courts and society coutinue to treat such acts like they are some silly prank, they will continue, and since a doctor can get away with it, we'll probably see this activity on the increase.

Sincerely,
Mildred Crane

To the Editor:

If C.W. Newhall were accurate in his statements regarding Sierra Club activities, the people of Garrett and Allegany counties would have reason for concern. Fortunately, his interpretation is ludicrously far off the mark.

It should be pointed out that Mr. Newhall has a personal dislike for a few members of the Western Maryland Group of the Sierra Club. Now the entire organization is falling under his attack. In doing so, he chooses to misrepresent positions and fabricate quotations. Mr. Newhall was (as all of us know now), the 1987 Outstanding Mid-Atlantic States Tree Farmer. What he is NOT is a good listener.

I'm challenging Mr. Newhall to back up his statements with more than empty words. Prove to the readers that the Western Maryland Group of the Sierra Club has gone on record as opposing logging in state forests surrounding ALL state parks. (It has not. The controversy surrounding Herrington Manor is over a single case where recreation and natural values should have precedence over timber production).

I'd like Mr. Newhall — or anyone else — to defend the position that the proposed Herrington Manor cut is even in a State Forest. (The Garrett County tax map, Maryland Geological Survey maps, official state maps of the Park and even the maps given out at Herrington Manor State Park in several recent years indicate clearly that the proposed cut is within the state PARK, not state FOREST. The Garrett County Commissioners should look at their own maps before they yell, too).

Also, Mr. Newhall, nobody at the forestry forum we both attended ever remotely equated humans with ants. Rather, the speaker to whom you referred spoke about the fact that many people don't believe that all of Nature is there solely for the use or misuse of Man. I have the transcripts and articles to show that my statements are accurate. Care to take the challenge?

Yes, it is true that the Sierra Club is striking out at outdated forestry practices. We know, for instance, that there are timber production methods less destructive, than clearcutting and even-aged management, but equally productive, which should be emphasized on public lands. Many of today's forest managers were educated at a time when forests were viewed solely as timber production areas. This viewpoint is outdated in light of recognition of the vital benefits conferred by intact forest ecosystems.

The Sierra Club is deeply concerned that the marvelous diversity of living creatures which exists now not be lost. If current forestry methods were to endanger the ruffed grouse, the native bird to which Mr. Newhall refers, you can bet that both he and the Sierra Club would be kicking and screaming all the way to the Governor's office and beyond. The point is that diversity of habitat means diversity of species. The yellow-rumped warbler in Maryland, the red-cockaded woodpecker in the South and the spotted owl in the Pacific Northwest, as well as deer and other game species, all must have an opportunity to survive for our children and grandchildren to appreciate.

If we could take advantage of our 20/20 hindsight and step back in time, would we all allow the passenger pigeon to become extinct? Would the environmentalists be throttled for attempting to perpetuate this species, too?

Also, the Sierra Club has opposed and will continue to oppose zoning and planning that allow wholesale destruction of natural habitat to developers. We will also continue to work for better management of the land which we all own in common, our public lands. In fact, the Sierra Club was pleased to work with Mr. Newhall and hundreds of other sportsmen last year to save state lands in Garrett County for future generations to enjoy by repealing the so-called "land bank" law. In doing so, together we prevented the potential for much habitat loss.

Garrett and Allegany counties are blessed with beautiful private and public forests. A good proportion of those forests are rightfully managed for timber production. We recognize that the livelihood of many Western Maryland citizens depends on the industry, and no Sierra Club representative has ever said that all logging should be stopped, as Mr. Newhall mis-stated. Members of the Sierra Club live in wood frame houses and some of us heat with wood stoves, and I'd bet we all have wooden furniture. (We're not interested in styrofoam furniture. Too many CFC's). So understand the Sierra Club for what it is, a 100-year old organization dedicated to the exploration, enjoyment and preservation of our nation's scenic resources, and don't rely on the recent nonsense being spouted by a few malicious individuals.

Sincerely,
Joy B. Perry

To the Editor:

I would like to bring to your attention a tremendous opportunity for the people of Oakland to participate in the growing common spirit of the global community. Recent events such as the reunification of Germany, the growing openness in the Soviet Union, and the development of a Europe without frontiers have brought people and countries once closed and insular to the forefront of our ever changing view of the world.

Many Oakland area families will experience the joy and excitement of discovering the culture and customs of another country by opening their homes to an exchange student. EF Educational Foundation for Foreign Study sponsors high school students from 24 countries for an academic year in the USA. Unfortunately our local volunteers are not finding the interest one would expect in a year which marked the beginning of a truly interdependent worldwide society.

If you would like to help bring the world a few steps closer to global understanding the best place to start is in your neighborhood. Perceptions and attitudes based on personal experience tend to be the clearest and the longest lasting. What a wonderful opportunity to enrich the lives of the people around you by welcoming a student into your family and gaining a perspective on their culture and also seeing the American culture for the first time.

If you would like to be part of this year and share your home, family and culture and take the first steps toward greater global understanding, please call Nancy Bowling, 689-5064 or me at 1-800-447-4273.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

The problems of immorality, crime, abortion, terrorism, etc., are the result of demonic power that is at work all over this world. No legislative power will be able to stop it. The powers of darkness are our greatest threat. Only prayer will be able to defeat these powers.

As the world falls more and more under their influence, we will see more crime, immorality, suicides, and the abandonment of Biblical truth. One might ask, how can these forces move through our society so easily. You see there are millions of people that are caught up in the occult, some innocently and others by design. It is these people who are calling up more demonic powers. They come under various names and designs, but here are a few: ascended masters, spirit guides, crystal power, mediums, chantelling, holistic movement, astrology, paraphyscology, metaphysics, New Age Movement, higher self, visualization, witchcraft, transcendental meditation, and so forth; but all come from the same delusion: that man is god. These teach that man is good, and will one day evolve into god, becoming one with the great spirit the supreme energy. This is the same lie that the devil used to deceive Adam and Eve in the garden.

It is a fact that even in Garrett County there are mediums, chantellers, witches and others who hold to this lie. Some are in ignorance as to what they are doing while others are willfully calling up these demonic powers. They may not choose to call them demons, but calling them spirit guides or ascended masters, they are still demons. As these forces become more active, you will definitely see an increase in the suicide rate, crime will escalate, and immorality will become the norm. Demons power can only produce children of slavery, darkness and death. They teach peace, love, joy, freedom, oneness, but these will never come about.

Jesus said, "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life, and no one comes to the Father but by me." They teach many paths to God, but there is only one- and that is Jesus Christ. Buddha, ascended master, spirit guide, or even one's self cannot save. When darkness comes, and it will, only the light given in the Bible will be able to guide you over rocky ground. Those who refuse the truth that is given in the Bible will face this horrible judgment: God said that he would send them a strong delusion that they would believe a lie, for they did not love his word which is the Bible. The lie is this- that they believe they are gods, and with the lie they will perish into eternal fire and darkness.

RECYCLING WITH A COMPOST PILE
by Joan Oty Moran

America's landfills are filling up. Yard refuse, such as leaves and lawn clippings, is the second largest contributor to landfills. (The first is paper). Instead of throwing away yard refuse or burning it, why not recycle it by composting and at the same time enrich your garden soil? Kitchen garbage (such as spoiled vegetables and fruit, peelings, and egg shells) can also be used on the compost pile. Recycle it, too, instead of sending it to the sewer or the septic tank. Using many different materials will insure that a wide range of nutrients and minerals are present. Plant debris can be either green or brown. Do not use bones, milk products, animal fats or large pieces of wood since they do not break down easily.

Compost is simply organic matter that is made by letting vegetable and animal material decay until it looks like rich, black earth. To the gardener it is indispensable, not only for flower and vegetable gardening, but also for potting plants, starting seeds, and for planting trees and shrubs.

Fall is an ideal time to start a compost pile because of the abundance of leaves and garden debris. Select a location away from the house. A compost pile is usually built about five feet wide and five feet high. It can be as long as space and materials allow. Some people prefer to use wooden or wire bins to enclose the compost.

The best way to make good compost is to start with a layer of twigs to allow air to circulate, and then to layer organic matter, fertilizer and lime, and garden soil in the following proportions:

1. Six to eight inches of organic refuse
2. Two inches of fertilizer (5-10-10) or manure, mixed with lime
3. Two inches of garden soil

Repeat these layers until the pile is about five feet deep. The layers can also be added in stages as organic materials become available. A shredder for garden refuse and leaves is helpful (it speeds up the decomposition process) but not necessary. Commercial fertilizer, manure and lime can be purchased at seed stores.

Make a depression in the center of the heap to hold rain; a mounded pile will shed rain. It there is not enough rain to keep it moist, add water every two or three days. Let is sit for six weeks; then turn it over. This is easy if you use a pitchfork. After 12 weeks, turn the pile over again. The compost may be ready to use at this point; it usually takes from three to five months depending on materials and conditions. It is a rich, dark color when it is ready to use. Apply it liberally, by spading it into the soil when it is time to prepare the soil for planting in the spring.

Start a new compost pile when you are using the compost made the previous year. Some gardeners keep three piles going, in different stages. Once you use it you will wonder how you ever gardened without this "black gold."

The public library has many helpful books on gardening that have information on composting. Two of them are: Joy of Gardening by Dick Raymond, and Good Housekeeping Basic Gardening Techniques.

shortfall in funds for the Southern High School renovation project.

Commissioner John G. Braskey stated, "They (the school board) said they weren't going to do anything with the Northern High project until they heard from this office. They have now heard from this office."

Commissioner Groves added, "People perceive that there was a lack of commitment on our part on that project, and that's not the case. We remain committed to it."

Commissioner Gregg echoed that sentiment, stating, "The letter was sent as a clarification. Our point of clarification is that we have not dropped the Northern High gymnasium, contrary to the tone that seemed to come from the Board of Education." Gregg further stated that only one bid had come in for the NHS project, and he did not feel that was a "prudent" manner in which to operate the bidding process.

When asked where the money would come from if the project was re-bid, Commissioner Braskey stated, "We just need to see what the bid prices come in at."

Although Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage stated that he had not received the letter as of this morning, he did state that he would be "very interested in going ahead with the NHS project if the commissioners have the money for it."

County Administrator Robert J. Fousek stated that if bids for the project came in considerably lower than the original bid for approximately $450,000 to $475,000, the commissioners would consider "making money available" by possibly re-directing funds from the county's "designated special projects fund."

Among Who's Who For Third Year

For the third year in a row, Brenda Paugh, a student at Southern High School, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Only five percent of the nation's high school students are named to Who's Who each year and less than one-half of one percent are selected for two or more years.

Miss Paugh, daughter of Leon and Carol Paugh, Kitzmiller, is also a member of the Southern High School chapter of Quill and Scroll honor society for high school journalists and was nominated for a cheerleading award. She was nominated for the second year in a row as a finalist in the Miss Maryland National Teenager Pageant for 1990. She attends the Kitzmiller Assembly of God Church.

County Airport

these impacts, airport-related expenditures made by the regional residents and firms are included. For example The Buffalo Coal Company uses the airport extensively in connection with its coal mining operations.

The "direct" and "indirect" impacts represent increases in final demand for goods and services in the Garrett County area. Such increases, however, do not represent the total economic impact attributable to the airport. Rather, there is a "multiplier" effect, which is produced by the circulation of the money through the regional economy. This multiplier effect was determined using the U.S. Department of Commerce "Regional Input-Output Modeling System.

This study found that the Garrett County Airport does more than merely provide air carrier and general aviation services. By supporting the regional tourist industry and the local businesses, the airport generates economic activity, earnings and jobs.

The study concludes that all airports, even the smallest general aviation airports, are valuable to local economies.

Rabies Clinics

the lower overall percentage of cats vaccinated as opposed to dogs, according to Health Department officials. Another important reason is related to the fact that cats can be exposed to a rabid animal without the knowledge of their owner. Since the cat owner is not always aware of the exposure, appropriate control measures are not taken and the animals go on to develop the disease, say health officials. Human exposure often occurs when a cat becomes rabid and expensive treatment is often necessary to prevent the occurence of the disease in those individuals.

Rodney Glotfelty, environmental health, stated, "With the current record number of rabies cases seen in Garrett County wildlife thus far in 1990, the vaccination of domestic cats whether they be household pets or barn animals is imperative." Maryland law also requires that the owners of these animals have them vaccinated by the time they reach four months of age. All cats three months of age and older, pregnant or nursing, can be vaccinated at the Health Department clinics.

The cost for vaccinating a cat at the clinic is only $4. When coming to the clinics, cats should be confined in a wire cage, tightly secured box with air holes provided, or in the case of particularly wild animals, in a cotton sack or pillow case which is tied securely at the top.

John Hinebaugh Seeks Seat On GOP Committee

John E. Hinebaugh, P.O. Box 276, McHenry, has filed as a candidate for the Republican State Central Committee.

A native of Garrett County and life-long Republican, Hinebaugh states he has filed because he wants a more active and responsible role in serving the Republican Party. As a member of the committee has says he wants to "keep Garrett County the No. 1 Republican County in the State of Maryland."

He says he believes in early identification and recruitment of strong candidates to ensure the party has a full slate and a choice when voting for Republican candidates. Also important to Hinebaugh is the mobilizing and energizing of party members who want to be more active in the Republican Party with special emphasis given to the younger generations.

He says he "strongly believes we must all work with the younger generations to improve our governmental image, and to instill a better understanding of our county government, how it works, and their responsibilities in that regard," He believes the Republican State Central Committee can assist in this regard.

He also believes a competitive two party system in Maryland is "essential to good government and the Committee should so work to strengthen the Republican Party throughout the State of Maryland."

Hinebaugh attended Oakland High School, Texas A&M College, George Washington University, and the U.S. Navy Post Graduate School at Monterey, Calif.

Upon discharge from the U.S. Army Air Corps, he was employed in Washington, D.C., area in the Office of the Chief U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the Department of Defense Logistics Agency, and the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Logistics.

Upon retirement he returned to Garrett County to reside in the family homestead in Sang Run. In addition to farming, he restored and operates Friend's Store, which has been in the family for six generations.

FOREST MANAGEMENT TAPE PRESENTED TO LIBRARY — The Ruth Enlow Library was recently presented a VCR tape, "Crop Tree Management," by Marshall Stacy of Pinetum Tree Farm in Swanton. The tape, by Arlen Perke of Northeast Forest Experimental Station in Morgantown, W.Va., explains some management options and several objectives which a forest landowner can pursue. It also points out that timber production is not the only objective one can manage his woodland for and show different criteria used to determine crop trees based on the landowner's objectives. "I believe since man has caused serious stress on the forests, he has a responsibility to relieve as much stress as he can through good forestry management," Stacy said. Accepting the tape from Stacy is Librarian Sheila Hughes.

Look to the future of Garrett County...

and ask what county government can — and should — be doing to make this a better place to live and work

GEORGE BRODAK

GEORGE BRODAK believes

- It is time for county government and the commissioners to work for all the people!
- The future of Garrett County must be protected through fair and equal zoning laws that are enforced fairly and evenly!
- Taxes and user fees must be fair and equitable, so the rights of the individual are protected! Let's be honest about taxes . . . and stop trying to hide increases by changing valuations.
- The people of Garrett County deserve the best possible return on every tax dollar spent. County Commissioners have a responsibility to improve services, lead the war on drugs, control costs, and meet the needs of the people!
- Garrett County's future will depend on how well we meet future challenges and plan for tomorrow. The status quo isn't good enough.

GEORGE BRODAK for Commissioner.
Because it's time for the people to take charge in Garrett County!

By authority of Brodak for Commissioner, Ernest D. Colaw, Treasurer.

Among Who's Who For Second Year

Melissa Thomas, a student at Northern High School, has been notified that once again she will be listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students. Only 5% of the nation's high school students are included in Who's Who each year, and fewer than one-half of one percent are honored for two or more years.

Melissa is an active member of the volleyball, basketball, track team, and the Northern High School Marching Band.

She will serve as a 1990 Autumn Glory Princess and is Garrett County's representative appointed to the Governor's Youth Council for Drug and Alcohol Abuse.

Locust Leafminer Damage Not Fatal

Every summer the leaves of many black locust trees in Maryland turn brown. This browning is caused by feeding of the locust leafminer, according to the Maryland Department of Agriculture. The adult locust leafminer is a ¼-inch-long beetle, orange in color with a broad black stripe down the back. The head and appendages also are black.

Adult beetles spend the winter in leaves and other debris near the base of trees. When the black locust leaves appear in the spring, beetles emerge and feed for a short time. After feeding, eggs are laid in the undersides of the leaves. The immature stages feed on the leaf tissue between the upper and lower leaf surfaces for about a month and cause a characteristic circular blotch mine. Adults emerge in mid-July and feed on the leaves for three to four weeks. This is when most of the damage occurs. Once feeding stops, new leaves emerge and remain green.

Black locust trees are able to tolerate severe leaf damage from this insect with no tree death, the Department said. Since the tree can survive attacks from this beetle, control measures usually are not applied.

For further information, persons may contact C.L. Staines, Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Pkwy., Annapolis, Maryland 21401, (301) 841-5920, or a local county extension agent.

Garrett County Eliminated From Legion Playoffs

The 1990 season for the Garrett County Junior American Legion baseball team came to a close this past week without a berth in the state tournament.

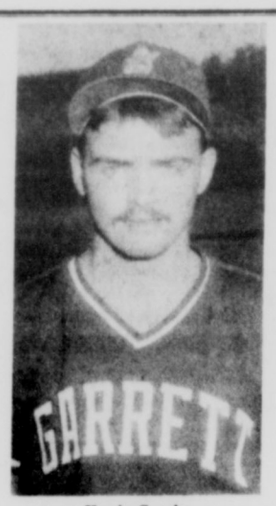
Coach Ed Wildesen's team had a real opportunity to win the bid in the state tourney when district-leading Frostburg Farrady Post 24 was upset by Cumberland last Thursday evening. However, in the meantime, Garrett County was also being upset by Victory Post of Westernport, 10-7. Had Garrett County won that game, they could have won the second half of the Mountain District season by then defeating Frostburg on Friday.

Although the Garrett loss automatically gave Farrady the undisputed season title, Friday's game was played anyway and Farrady edged Garrett, 3-2, to finish their regular season with an overall 16-5 record.

In Thursday's contest against Victory Post, the Garrett hurlers found themselves down 5-0 in the first inning and could never recover.

Chris Rice and Rodney Mongold each rapped RBI doubles in the first inning and Rice added a two-run double in the third to give Victory Post a 9-3 advantage.

Pat Dick and Jeff Oates each finished with a double and a single in Victory Post's 11-hit effort.



Kevin Combs
Stewart Funeral Home and Garrett National Bank Player of the Week

Buck Lough aided his own cause on the mound by recording two singles, as did Greg Whiteman.

Kevin Combs paced Garrett's hitting with two doubles and a single, while D.G. Largent added a double and a single.

Lough, who went the distance, yielded eight hits, struck out 10, and walked five.

Friday's contest against Farrady Post 24 went into the 10th inning tied at 2-2 before Clint Often connected for a single and scored on a throwing error to win the game for Frostburg in the bottom of the 10th.

Garrett County's Ryan Harman and Frostburg's John Cutter each went the distance on the mound, giving up eight and seven hits, respectively. Harman struck out 12 and walked five, while Cutter fanned 17 and walked five.

Frostburg took a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Scott DeHaven walked and scored on a triple by Shannon McKenzie, followed by a single by Rick Duckworth that plated McKenzie.

Garrett tied the score in the third when Charlie Plauger's two-run double scored Rick Martin who had walked and Kevin Combs who had singled.

It appeared Garrett County might go ahead in the eighth when they loaded the bases with no one out. Kevin Green led off with a walk, Harmand followed with a double, and Dave Yoder was intentionally walked. But Cutter struck out the next three batters.

Frostburg loaded the bases in the ninth with no one out, but Harman made a diving catch on a squeeze bunt by Cutter and completed the double play. Then he struck out the next batter.

Often scored the winning run on a sacrifice bunt by Lewis that was thrown away.

Combs paced Garrett again, this time with three singles, while McKenzie tripled and singled twice, Duckworth recorded three singles, and Often finished with two singles for Frostburg.

Combs, who went seven for 12 in the last three games for Garrett County, hitting a pair of doubles and scoring four times, was named the Stewart Funeral Home and Garrett National Bank Player of the Week.

Garrett County finished the second half of the season with a 5-4 mark and was 11-10 overall.

Oakland Pen-Mar Team Riding Backs Of League Leader, Tri-Towns

The Oakland Oaks are staying right on the backs of Pen-Mar League leader Tri-Towns as they won three of four games this past week and upped their record to 14-5. Tri-Towns is just one-half game ahead with a 14-4 record.

Oakland defeated Keyser last Wednesday night in Westernport, 6-4, split a doubleheader Sunday with Tri-Towns at Garrett Community College, and then topped Cumberland last night, 5-2, also at GCC. The Oaks were hammered in the opener on Sunday by Tri-Towns, 15-3, but returned the favor in the nightcap and won 12-4.

HR: Dean Marsico (Oakland).

Leading the Oaks' offense against Keyser were Dean Marsico, who homered, and Lawrence Nesselrodt and Terry Helbig, who each knocked in two runs. The game was called in the sixth inning because of a chemical spill at the Westvaco mill in Luke.

After recording a single run in the second inning, the Oaks made it 4-0 in the third on Marsico's solo homer and a two-run single by Nesselrodt.

Keyser came back to tie the score in the fourth on RBI singles by Mark Tysinger and Mike Eberly, at two-out steal by Randy Cirillo, and an Oakland error.

Helbig's two-run single in the sixth concluded the scoring and iced the win for Oakland.

Jim Farkas went the distance on the mound, giving up five hits, to gain the win over Bobby Orr. The loss dropped Keyser to 2-16.

In the opening game against Tri-Towns on Sunday, Wink Spitzer tossed an eight-hitter and aided his own cause with a three-run homer to give the visitors the win.

The Westernport team, which recorded 14 hits, put the game away in the fourth by scoring 10 runs. Chris Wilson finished with three singles, Steve Sites stroked a pair of doubles, Tony Whiteman and Charlie Wilson each added a double and a single, and Chris Miller hit two singles.

Tony Warner led Oakland's eight-hit effort with two singles and a double, while Rod Cooper rapped two singles.

Jim Farkas raised his record to 6-2 in the nightcap as he scattered six hits, struck out six, and went the distance for Oakland.

Tri-Towns took a 3-0 lead in the top of the first on a three-run homer by Spitzer, but Oakland came back with four runs in the bottom of that inning. Tri-Towns tied it at 4-4 with a single run in the third, but Oakland scored three in the fourth and five more in the sixth to win going away.

Cork Sweitzer led Oakland's attack with a two-run homer and a single. D.G. Largent added a double and a single and Cooper smacked a two-run triple.

Ryan Harman and Farkas combined on a six-hitter last night to lead the Oaks over Cumberland. Oakland scored all of the runs they needed in the first inning when they went on top 3-0. Further details of the contest were unavailable at presstime.

Aaron Zumpano Softball Classic Set For Aug. 24

The first Aaron Zumpano Western Maryand Softball Classic is scheduled to be held August 24-26 at Riverside Recreation Complex in Cumberland. The classic is a double elimination tournament with separate divisions for women, men over 30, men's class 'D' and a combined Industrial and Church division. Prizes and awards will be given and the committee is planning on this becoming the biggest softball tournament in the area.

Aaron Zumpano was a well-known local athlete who at 18 years old was killed December 5, 1988, in an automobile accident. He was a graduate of Northern High School where he was a three-sport letterman. "Aaron was an exceptional young man and Spoerl's Pontiac Cadillac recognizes the impact he had on the youth of the area and want to further his memory," stated a spokesman for Spoerl's. A scholarship will be given either from Allegany Community College, Garrett Community College, or Frostburg State University to a young person who exemplifies the qualities and character that Aaron had."

George Edwards, House of Delegates, referred to Aaron's death as "having a profound effect on the community." Ed Green, principal of Northern High School, added, "The ideals that Aaron attempted to live out while a student at Northen High School — pride, dedication, discipline, academic effort, a sense of fair play, and a love of other people — are those ideals which no student or adult need be ashamed of attaining." A teacher had this comment: "I saw Aaron as a leader-in-the making who was always surrounded by trusting and loyal friends, friends who recognized and appreciated his amiable, non-confrontational ways of making and keeping peace. Aaron could always win you over with a nod and a smile. All of us loved him."

The entry fee for the tournament is $125 per team and deadline for registration is August 18. For further details and registration form, persons may contact Polly Riffle, advertising manager, Spoerl's Pontiac Cadillac, Inc., 722-8300 or 800-526-6472.

Morgantown Vet Center Serving More Veterans

The Morgantown Veterans Center has announced that figures for fiscal year 1989 show over a 100% increase in the number of veterans and family members of veterans receiving services at the center compared to fiscal year 1988.

Steve Zohimsky, who directs the program at the Morgantown facility, stated, "During fiscal year 1988 the center provided services to 1,088 veterans and their significant others. In fiscal year 1989 the number of veterans who received services grew to 2,015, with an additional 324 significant others (relatives of veterans) receiving services. We at this center appreciate the community's support over the past year and we will continue to do our best to meet the needs of our veterans."

The Vet Center currently conducts 11 weekly therapy groups in addition to providing individual and couples counseling. The Center is responsible for providing services to veterans in 15 counties with a catchment area of approximately 9,000 square miles. The center has a full-time staff of three therapists, office manager/associate counselor, part-time DVOP, and one intern (master level).

The Morgantown Vet Center is located at 1191 Pineview Drive, Suite F, Morgantown, W.Va.; phone number 304-291-4001.

"Our primary mission is to provide readjustment counseling to a multitude of dysfunctions, most of which involve a family treatment approach," Zohimsky said.

COOL MELONS AT THEIR PEAK

One of the best things about summer is that it brings plenty of sweet melons. Containing 90% water, melons are some of the juiciest treats of summer. A bonus is that they are low in calories yet surprisingly nutritious.

FROM OUT KITCHEN TO YOURS

Magnificent melons bursting with naturally sweet flavor and the heady perfumes of summer offer simple refreshment for hot, sunny days. Here are suggestions for selecting the sweetest, juicest melon.

SELECTING MELONS

Avoid melons with soft, discolored spots, cuts, or punctures. Check for mold growth, particularly on the stem end, dark water-soaked spots indicate decay, which spreads quickly inside melons.

A melon picked before it fully matures does not ripen properly, it is also not as flavorful because the sugar content hasn't completely developed. A mature melon has a smooth, shallow basin at the stem end. If part of the stem remains or the stem scar is jagged or torn, the melon is probably not mature.

If you plan to use the melon within a day or two, select a fully ripe one. Buy a slightly underripe melon if you're not going to use it for a few days. The best guidelines are smell and touch. Ripe cantaloupe and honeydew melons have faint fragrant aromas, and the blossom ends are slightly soft.

Watermelon and honeydew have smooth, velvety surfaces that are slightly dull. When buying cut pieces, be sure they are from a ripe melon, because the melon will not ripen once it's cut.

Cantaloupe, generally available year-round, is sweetest and most fragrant during June, July, and August. As you pick through the cantaloupe display, look for a melon with an oval-shaped, gray-brown or taupe rind with lighter taupe netting.

The netting (the veinlike network of lines running randomly across the rind) should be thick, coarse, and well raised. The smooth, rounded depression, or stem scar, has a light yellow tint. When it is cut, the flesh, or meat, of the cantaloupe is salmon colored.

Named for its refreshing taste and color, the honeydew is abundant June through October. This large, bluntly oval-shaped melon in generally smooth with occasional traces of surface netting. Select a honeydew that has a firm rind ranging in color from creamy white to creamy yellow. A stark-white rind tinged with green indicates an unripe honeydew.

Watermelon is available May through September with peak supplies in June, July, and August. It is difficult to select a ripe whole watermelon. Round or oblong, a whole watermelon should be firm and symmetrically shaped, depending on the variety, the rind colors may vary from dark green to pale green, or they may be dark or light-green striped.

A yellowish underside where the melon touched the ground is a good sign of ripeness, although it may not always be totally reliable. If you are uncertain that the watermelon you have selected is ripe, ask the produce manager to cut it in half so that you can see the inside. A ripe, cut watermelon has firm, juicy, bright red flesh, free from white streaks. Pale colored flesh, white streaks, and whitish seeds are signs of immaturity; dry, mealy flesh or watery, stringy flesh indicates that the melon is overripe.

STORING MELONS

Fresh melons can be damaged by improper handling and storage, especially improper refrigeration. For your family to enjoy maximum flavor, serve melons within a few days after ripening. If the melons are firm when purchased, give your kitchen an attractive, homey feeling by storing them at room temperature in bowls or baskets on the table or counter.

After one or two days, the blossom ends will yield to gentle thumb pressure and the ripe melons should be placed in the refrigerator. Ripe cantaloups and honeydew will keep two or three days in the refrigerator; uncut watermelon keeps about one week, while cut watermelon keeps up to two days.

MELON SALAD WITH DILL DRESSING

1 (4-ounce) package sliced prosciutto or ham
¼ pound thinly sliced brick or Muenster cheese
2 medium honeydew melons or cantaloupes
1 small cucumber, unpeeled
1 cup fresh pineapple chunks
Lettuce leaves
Dill Dressing

Place one slice prosciutto on each slice of cheese, roll tightly, jellyroll fashion. Chill 1 hour. Cut into ½-inch slices, using a sharp knife. Cut honeydew melons in half, and remove seeds. Carefully scoop out melon balls, leaving a 1-inch-thick shell. Scallop edges of melon shells, if desired. Set melon balls aside. Cut cucumber in half lengthwise. Scoop out seeds with spoon. Cut into ¼-inch slices. Set aside. Combine cheese pinwheels, melon balls, cucumber, and pineapple in a large bowl. Line melon shells with lettuce leaves. Spoon salad over lettuce. Serve salad with Dill Dressing. Yield: 4 servings.

DILL DRESSING

½ cup plain yogurt
1/8 teaspoon dillweed
1/8 teaspoon white pepper
¼ teaspoon hot sauce

Combine all ingredients, stirring well. Chill. Yield: 1 cup.

MIDSUMMER FRUIT MEDLEY

½ cup water
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
¼ cup lemon juice
3 tablespoons lime juice
1 large cantaloupe
1 large honeydew melon
½ large watermelon
1 cup seedless green grapes
2 cups strawberries, halved
Fresh mint sprigs (optional)

Combine first 6 ingredients in a small saucepan. Cook, stirring contantly, until sugar dissolves, boil 5 minutes. Let cool and refrigerate. Cut cantaloupe and honeydew melon in half, and remove seeds. Carefully scoop out cantaloupe, melon, and watermelon balls. Combine with grapes and strawberries in a large bowl. Serve chilled citrus dressing over fruit. Garnish with mint sprigs, if desired. To serve, use a slotted spoon. Yield: 12 servings.

MELLOWED-OUT MELON BALLS

1½ cups cantaloupe balls
1½ cups honeydew melon balls
¼ cup amaretto
½ cup slivered almonds, toasted

Combine first 3 ingredients, toss gently to coat. Chill 1 hour. Spoon into individual compotes, sprinkle with almonds, and serve immediately. Yield: 4 servings.

CANTALOUPE MERINGUE PIE

1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
1 egg white, beaten
4 eggs, separated
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
½ cup sugar
2 cups pureed cantaloupe
1 cup sugar
¼ cup cornstarch
½ cup milk
¾ cup evaporated milk
¼ cup butter or margarine
1/8 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla extract

Prick pastry shell, bake at 450° for 9 to 11 minutes. Remove from oven brush immediately with beaten egg white to seal pricks. Let cool. Beat 4 egg whites (at room temperature) and cream of tartar at high speed of an electric mixer 1 minute. Gradually add ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating until stiff peaks form and sugar dissolves (2 to 4 minutes), set aside. Combine egg yolks, cantaloupe, and next 6 ingredients in a heavy saucepan, stir well. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and bubbly. Remove from heat, stir in vanilla. Pour mixture into prepared pastry shell. Spread meringue over hot filling, sealing to edge of pastry. Bake at 400° for 8 to 10 minutes or until golden brown. Let cool. Yield: one 9-inch pie.

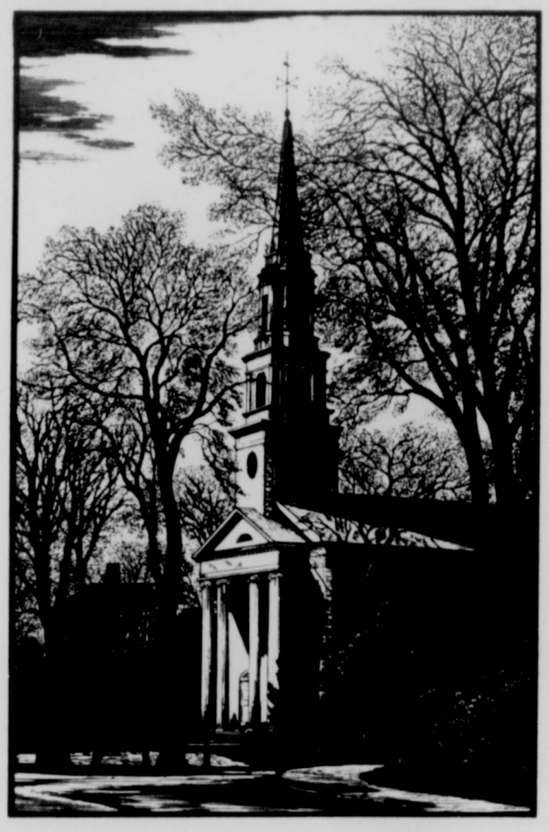
The Understanding Chair



When we are young, rocking is a game. When we are old, it can become a way of life. And in between, there are countless occasions when rocking fulfills a human need . . . to think . . . to relax . . . to reminisce . . . to dream.

It's almost as though the rocking chair understands people, turning their restlessness into calm and contemplation.

But there are deeper human needs that find no comfort in the rhythm of the rocking chair—intense spiritual needs met only by communion with God.

God's House really understands people. Its worship, its teaching, its community service, all provide expression for our spiritual needs. The soul's restlessness is turned into conviction and commitment. Visit there this week.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

TAKEN AT THE FLOOD

Background Scripture: Ecclesiastes 3
Devotional Reading: Matthew 6:22-34

When I was a student in the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, there were two brothers on the same faculty, Dr. Solomon S. Huebner, the father of insurance education in the USA, and Dr. Grover G. Huebner, professor of foreign commerce. Their divergent personalities and double initials gave rise to nicknames: Sunny Sol and Gloomy Gus. Sunny Sol was the personification of optimism and inspiration; Gloomy Gus seemed the congenital cynic.

I was one of Sunny Sol's many fans, but I never had any courses under Gloomy Gus. Still, I was told by other students who did that, although his style was not dynamic and inspiring as his brother's, he was nevertheless an excellent teacher whose pessimism could be as valuable as Sol's optimism. At the time, I found that hard to believe.

NEEDING BOTH KINDS

Over the years, however, I have found that in any organization —business, government, church —one needs both kinds of people and their influence must be balanced to bring the best results. We need dreamers to create new ideas, but we also need those who can analyze a new idea and be realistic about it.

So, although the Preacher is a card-carrying cynic and his repeatedly-stated conviction that "all is vanity" can try the faith of the most faithful, still he does have some important things to say to us from the depths of his cynicism. One of these is evident in Ecclesiastes 3: "For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven..." This is a concept that we often overlook or forget. In the midst of life, we tend to forget that death is every much a part of our destiny as was birth. God creates us with "a time to be born and a time to die" (2a). God created life in a seasonal manner and we must not forget that to be human means to experience all those seasons, even if we don't like them. So the breaking down, weeping, mourning, losing, rending, hating, and even war are all part of the human experience. We much prefer the healing, laughing, dancing, embracing, love and peace, but none of these are constant in a world of freewill.

LIFE IS SEASONAL

If the Preacher is saying that there is nothing we can do about these—and that seems to be what he is saying—I would not agree. I believe we can increase the experience of love, peace and joy in the world. In fact, that is what Christ calls us to do. My wife, Valere, and I do a great deal to promote and teach health and wholeness. Still, we acknowledge that eventually these bodies of ours will wear out, break down and die—for that is the way God designed and created us, all of us.

So there is wisdom in the Preacher's admonition to make the most of the time we have: "So I saw that there is nothing better than that a man should enjoy his work, for that is his lot" (33:22). Like that old saying, "Make hay while the sun shines," we need to make the most of the seasons God gives us. As Shakespeare puts it in Julius Caesar: There is a tide in the affairs of men, Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune; Omitted, all the voyage of their life Is bound in shallows and miseries.

Sonny Grosso uses his 22-year experience on the New York City police force to produce Top Cops, a new reality based show airing Wednesdays on CBS.

'Top Cops' recounts most dangerous moments

Show tells what officers endure

By Amy Schmidt

Top Cops, a new CBS series dramatizing the life-threatening, line-of-duty incidents of police officers across the country, each Wednesday features three real-life officers recounting their most memorable (and dangerous) experiences.

The show's premiere episode focused on John Snidersich, a New York City plain-clothes detective, Ron Malfi, a Secret Service agent, and Paul Ragonese of the New York City bomb squad.

Snidersich's story took place in August, 1979. He was shot in the chest in Manhattan by a gunman fleeing a bank robbery.

Malfi's story occurred in 1976 when, as a young Secret Service agent, he encountered "The Westies," a murderous New York gang. Malfi posed as a well-to-do street runner to expose them in a counterfeit-currency scam.

The first time Ragonese said he "felt mortal," occurred in 1986, when he led a team to dismantle a bomb wired with 15 sticks of dynamite, planted in an empty abortion clinic by a madman whose target was the bomb squad.

Executive producers of Top Cops are Larry Jacobsen and Sonny Grosso, who, as a policeman himself, broke the famous French Connection case with his partner, Eddie Egan. Says Grosso, "The one thing I think (people) are going to get out of this thing is not only entertainment, which I think is top-notch, and a 'gee whiz' kind of thing, is to see what cops of this country are doing for less than $50,000 a year."

Marlee Matlin takes request to Senate about new TVs

By Steven Alan McGaw

This sounds like a good idea. Congress is considering a bill to require all new television sets to come equipped with built-in decoders for closed-captioned programming for the hearing impaired. Oscar winner Marlee Matlin made an eloquent endorsement of the idea to the Senate communications subcommittee. I'll keep you posted...

Well, you can relax. Former L.A. Lakers' coach Pat Riley is no longer unemployed. (You were worried, weren't you?) Riley has signed with NBC to serve as studio host of the network's NBA coverage, beginning in November. Riley may also host several half-time and NBA-related special programs. (And, he's peddling around a script he co-authored about a romance, "set against an NBA backdrop." Oh boy...)

Vanessa Redgrave, Sam Shepard and Rod Steiger are in Texas, filming the long-awaited movie version of Carson McCullers' The Ballad Of A Sad Cafe. Simon Callow, who wrote the screenplay, will direct. Most encouraging, it's a Merchant-Ivory Production (A Room With A View, Maurice) and that means class...

Alan Arkin will be featured opposite Johnny Depp in Tim Burton's upcoming work Edward Scissorhands...

'Twin Peaks' returns in summer rebroadcasts

Mystery 'peaks' viewers' interest

By Amy Schmidt

Was Laura leading a sordid double existence? Did she find out that her erstwhile boyfriend, Bobby Briggs, was having an affair with a married woman? Why would well-respected businessmen scheme to take over the valuable Packard Sawmill property? Why is Catherine Martell so bitterly jealous of her brother's widow, the beautiful and imperious mill owner, Jocelyn Packard? If you missed out on any of these happenings you will be able to catch them again as Twin Peaks returns to television this summer.

World-renowned director David Lynch (Eraserhead, The Elephant Man, Blue Velvet) brings his incomparable visual artistry to Twin Peaks, a disturbing mystery about a seemingly typical small town set in the pristine beauty of the Pacific Northwest. But beneath the town's veneer lies a darker world.

Solving the mysteries are Kyle MacLachlan, who portrays FBI Agent Dale Cooper, and Micheal Ontkean, who plays Sheriff Harry S. Truman. Other Twin Peaks stars include Piper Laurie (Catherine Martell), Joan Chen (Jocelyn Packard), Dana Ashbrook (Bobby Briggs), and Peggy Lipton (Norma Jennings), making her television comeback.

TIME OUT

NFL's American Bowl goes to four foreign cities

By Steve Paschal

The National Football League will expand its international audience this year with four preseason games being played in foreign cities as part of its American Bowl series.

On Sunday, Aug. 5, the Los Angeles Raiders and New Orleans Saints will meet in the fifth American Bowl game ever held at Wembley Stadium in London. The game will be broadcast in the United States by NBC at 1 p.m. Eastern time.

The weekend of Aug. 4 and 5 offers two additional games abroad, with the AFC champion Denver Broncos taking on their Western Division rival Seattle Seahawks at the Korakuen Dome in Tokyo on Sunday, August 5. Because of the time difference the game will be televised live by ESPN at 10 p.m. Eastern time on Saturday, Aug. 4.

The inaugural NFL game from Germany will be broadcast by NBC at 1 p.m. Eastern time Aug. 11 from Berlin's historic Olympic Stadium and will feature the rising Kansas City Chiefs and the talent-laden Los Angeles Rams. The Rams will be making their third international appearance in four years after playing in London in 1987 and Tokyo last year.

The American Bowl '90 series also includes the Pittsburgh Steelers and New England Patriots in Montreal, Canada Thursday, Aug. 9. The 14-game NFL regular season begins Sunday, Sept. 9.

'Hiroshima' shows struggle to survive

By Mary Ann Townsend

There is but one message in the two-hour NBC movie Hiroshima: Out Of The Ashes—destruction of that magnitude must never happen again.

The drama airs Monday, Aug. 6, the 45th anniversary of the day the United States dropped an atomic bomb equivalent to 12.5 kilatons of TNT on the city of Hiroshima, Japan.

The film does not speak out either for or against America's use of the atomic bomb to end World War II, nor does it give hero stories. It simply follows the day-to-day lives of several people before the bomb, and their struggles to survive amid the chaos afterward. The drama follows the events that occur to a German Jesuit priest living in Hiroshima (Max von Sydow), two U.S. airmen who were shot down and imprisoned (Judd Nelson and Ben Wright), and several Japanese citizens (Kim Miyori, Pat Morita, Mako, Tamlyn Tomita and John Fujioka).

Several sources were used for the story, including the diary of a doctor who was in Hiroshima, as well as a book based on interviews with hundreds of survivors.

Hiroshima: Out Of The Ashes does not look at the city today, but rather shows the survivors discarding their prejudices to overcome the devastation.

"I think that the expression 'Out Of The Ashes' has less to do with 40 years later, what happened to these people, than it has to do with the triumph of the human spirit, the sense that in the midst of this very immediate hell, that we realize that there are no real different races, that we are all part of the same race, the human race." said Nelson.

Father Siemes, played by Max von Sydow, is one of many characters who have a change of heart. At first only concerned with his Catholic parishoners, he, too, changes his priorities.

"You see he is a man who has been brought up according to the rules and lived according to the book, he has been told that this is the way the world is and this is the way it should be. But suddenly this happens and he realizes that there is another kind of reality which he has to adjust to," von Sydow said of his role. "He has to go be a human being and he has to help whoever is there, whoever needs his help, whether it's a Catholic or, say from his point of view, a heathen. It doesn't matter. It's a suffering human being and he has to help them."

For actress Kim Miyori, participating in the film was a personal statement that this should never happen again. Born and raised in America, but from Japanese descent, she felt strongly about the film's message.

"I felt it was really important that I be involved in it, regardless of what the capacity was. I think it's important for us to heal old wounds. I think this is something that we have been heretofore unable to really look at, or unwilling to take a look at. And I think until we are able to do that, we will never really be able to heal those wounds from the past."

SOAP TALK

Marcy Walker did tie knot

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I have several questions about the people on Santa Barbara. First, I heard that Marcy Walker got married. Who did she marry and when? Second, who is the guy who plays Robert Barr on the show? He is one of the sexiest men I've ever seen. —A fan in Rapid City, S.D.

Dear Reader: Walker (Eden) was married Dec. 18, 1989, to Stephen Collins. This is the actress' third trip to the altar. Her first marriage was to Billy Warlock (Baywatch), and the second was to actor/musician Stephen Ferris. Walker and Collins have a child named Taylor Walker Collins, and they were actually married just a month before the child's first birthday.

Roscoe Borne (Robert Barr) has signed a 26-week contract with SB, so enjoy him while he's on. Borne previously portrayed Joe Novak on Ryan's Hope and Mitch Lawrence on One Life To Live.

Dear Candace: I want to know what happened to the original Max Holden on One Life To Live. He was the best. I have been watching One Life To Live forever, and I've never had a disappointment like this. —Debbie Roragen, Bejou, Minn.

Dear Debbie: Jim DePaiva (ex-Max Holden) left the show a few months ago to pursue other interests. DePaiva was a favorite of fans and with the departure of Andrea Evans, the show has definitely lost some of it's sparkle.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.

VIDEO BIJOU

'Heavy Metal' heavy on good animation

By Stephen Welborn

I've read Heavy Metal magazine for four years now, and let me tell you, it's weird. Not a bad weird, but weird nonetheless. Maybe that's why I love it so much, because I, too, am pretty weird. Because of my love for the magazine, I have been just dying to see the movie. Now, after years of waiting, I have seen Gerald Potterton's Heavy Metal, and I was just a little disappointed. I think that was due, however, to building up the movie in my mind to such a degree that no film in actuality could have matched it. Don't get me wrong; it was a good movie, especially if you like animation. Richard Corben and Berni Wrightson provide splendid art work. The movie features the voices of comic greats John Candy, Harold Ramis, Eugene Levy and Joe Flaherty.

Here's the plot: A green, glowing orb narrates at the beginning and ending of several stories which otherwise have no connection. One tale is of a scantily clad blonde woman's war against an invading army. Another is about a haunted World War II bomber. Still another is about a cab driver in a horrifying futuristic New York City.

Overall, I really liked this movie! Those involved in making the movie tended toward exploitation of women, but wisely didn't soar over the brink. The comedians are terrific as voices for the various and sundry characters. It was fun trying to recognize the different ones. Unfortunately, this film isn't available on video yet, so you'll have to catch it on cable television, or get a version imported from Japan, where it is available.

HOROSCOPE

August 5 through August 11

By C.C. Clark

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
Rekindle those dying embers of a romance. Your creative powers are released and you have the opportunity to vent some of those feelings you've been holding back.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Your prospects for job opportunities look great. Look toward a change in your appearance, whether it's a new diet or new wardrobe. The difference will make you shine.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Make the most of your personal qualities this week. The gift of speech is with you and you should be able to talk anyone into almost anything.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Tell the truth and stick to it no matter what you think the consequences might be. Financial and social rewards are coming your way soon, so be on the lookout.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Get everything cleared away that has been bugging you; you will be amazed at how good you feel afterward. Be tactful with suggestions to friends and co-workers.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
Imagination and ingenuity will bring about grand opportunities for the future. Watch spending habits closely; this is not a good time to buy extravagant gifts.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
This week it's important that you act like you know what you are doing, even if you are unsure of yourself. Some people will be judging you by appearance only.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
Don't let other people's bad news get you down. It may be depressing, but they are looking for support from you that they desperately need. Stay in touch with distant friends.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
If you are looking for money and recognition, speak up for yourself. It pays to be polite, even to those who rub you the wrong way. You never know how the tables might turn.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
Work will be crazy this week. It will seem like you are living in the Twilight Zone the first couple of days. But hold on, things will turn out to be for the better.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
This is the perfect time to start saving those pennies. Trim expenses and watch your impulse spending. Not every proposition is as straightforward as it seems.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Look up that wise friend for the advice that will do you the most good. Organization in your work or domestic environments will help make things go smoother for you.

NEWS & GOSSIP

James Garner saw to it gift was right

James Garner, in a recent interview with Dinah Shore, talked about his daughter's wedding to country music performer J.D. Hart. "Her girlfriends gave her a shower," he says, "and I had gotten her a gift which was quite large. It was a chainsaw. She had said, 'Daddy, we don't need pots and pans. We've got trees in the back and we need a chainsaw and fencing.' When she was opening it she said, 'Who's this for, me or J.D.?' I said, 'Honey, it's for whoever needs it first.'" True Garner logic.

Chiefs Want To Crack Down On Impaired Drivers

The International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP) is reviewing recommendations to expand the role of police officers in efforts to identify, arrest, and remove drug impaired drivers from the highway.

"Law enforcement agencies across the country are anxious to train their own people to recognize the drug impaired driver," stated Lieutenant Colonel Larry N. Thompson, chairman of the IACP Advisory Committee on Highway Safety. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service broadcast, Thompson said an alarming number of arrests for DWI or DUI involve more than one drug.

"In Los Angeles, studies have indicated approximately 30 percent of all the people arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol are also under the influence of some other drug as well," added Thompson. "Drug Recognition Technicians will be able to determine that an individual is under the influence of a drug. Based on those observations, the officer will be able to classify the drug or drugs into one of seven categories."

The 25 member IACP Advisory Committee on Highway Safety is comprised of law enforcement executives from several states including Maryland. In a recent meeting in Annapolis, Maryland, the committee recommended expansion of the DRE (Drug Recognition and Evaluation) training program into 23 additional locations around the country. Maryland is among the states under review for expansion of the DRE training and certification programs.

The IACP Advisory Committee on Highway Safety is also recommending more aggressive speed enforcement.

"Speed is a top priority of all highway safety experts," stated Thompson. "In addition to the 55 national maximum speed limit, we are concerned about speed enforcement across the board including school zones and neighborhood areas.

"The public has lost respect for speed laws because of 55. It's up to us (law enforcement) to win that respect back," said Thompson. The 30-year law enforcement veteran commands the Highway Patrol Bureau within the Arizona Department of Public Safety.

The Maryland State Police Radio Program is a weekly public radio broadcast carried on approximately 50 radio stations in Maryland and the District of Columbia. The program is supported by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the Maryland Department of Transportation.

Area Agency On Aging Providing Legal Service

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging (AAA) has recently implemented a legal services program for county senior citizens. A local attorney is available to provide direct service (advice/representation) when necessary, and AAA staff will provide assistance with administrative hearing at Social Service and Social Security departments, under the supervision of the attorney. Also, educational programs on legal issues will be presented at various sites throughout the year as part of the legal program.

"We hope to provide the most comprehensive service as possible to our county senior citizens," stated Barbara Hornyak, AAA supervisor. Those in need of legal assistance may call one of the following locations: Oakland Office (AAA), 334-9431; Senior Information and Assistance Offices, Donna Knox, 895-3447 or 746-8824, or Marie Skipper, 334-1330.

Sheriff's Dept. Probing Two Theft Reports

Garrett County Sheriff's deputies are currently investigating two thefts of substantial monetary value.

Gary L. Heginbotham, Oakland, told deputies that someone had removed over $2,000 worth of tools and building materials from a home he is building on Route 39 at the Timbers development.

The theft reportedly occured sometime between July 23 and 24. Deputy Chris Feller is investigating.

In a separate theft case, Katrina L. Jessup, Oakland, reported that someone stole a tool box and tools from her 1980 Dodge Colt while it was parked on D Street in Mtn. Lake Park on the night of July 27 and the morning of July 28.

Loss is estimated at over $1,000. Deputy Denver Welch is the investigating officer.

Anyone having information in either case is asked to call the Garrett County Sheriff's Department or Crime Solvers.

Deadline Approaches For Taxpayers Who Filed Extensions

Midnight, Aug. 15, 1990, is the deadline for filing a 1989 Federal income tax return with the IRS for those who were among the more than 70,000 taxpayers in Maryland and the District of Columbia who filed Form 4868, the four-month automatic extension, back in April.

Those who do not file by the deadline face a failure to file penalty, in addition to a failure to pay penalty and interest which accrues on taxes owed, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

"We keep track of taxpayers who filed the extension form and, come Aug. 15, we look for those tax returns," William Caine, acting director for the IRS Baltimore District, said.

Taxpayers are reminded that their Social Security number, date of payment, and the tax year should be noted on their check or money order, made payable to the Internal Revenue Service.

For federal tax questions, persons may call the IRS weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. toll-free at 1-800-424-1040.

THE GENTLEMEN OF NOTE BARBERSHOP QUARTET will appear Saturday night, August 16, at the Garrett County Fair. The group, which has been singing together since 1985, will perform on the 4-H stage at 8 and 9:30 p.m. Its members are from Allegany and Garrett counties and Marion County in West Virginia. The music is a mixture of tradition and new barbershop, with comedy and some gospel arranged in the barbershop style. The quartet has entertained audiences from Washington, D.C. to California. Pictured above, left to right, are: Charles Pitrolo, Dan Tice, David Callis, and seated is Jack Harvey. Gate admission at the fair is $5 (pay-one-price) per person, which includes parking, all entertainment, all race track events, and carnival rides.

The planning committee for the Oakland High School alumni reunion (1908-1952) is requesting that anyone planning to attend the dinner and dance event, scheduled for Saturday, August 18, beginning at 5 p.m., at Brodak's at Deep Creek Lake, send their reservations in by August 10.

Reservations may be made by sending a check in the amount of $22 to Kitty Gnegy Thompson, 601 I Street, Mtn. Lake Park, 21550.

David Zimmerman will serve as disc jockey, playing soft music from the 30's and 40's. Crabtree Photography will also be on hand to take single or group photos for $8 per picture.

Anyone interested in receiving a yearbook is asked to write a brief history of his or her life since graduation, and mail it to Nina Greg Keefer, Rt. 1, Box 166, Kingwood, W.Va., 26537.

Anyone needing a ride to the event is asked to call a member of the planning committee. Anyone not able to attend this year's reunion is asked to mail a postcard including name and address so that invitations may be mailed next year as early as possible.

Time For A Change

Elect
Brenda Butscher
County Commissioner

BRENDA'S OPINION

CHANGES I FEEL SHOULD BE MADE IN THE OFFICE OF COUNTY COMMISSIONER

I would like to see legislation limiting a county commissioner to two terms in office. Many times elected officials become obligated to a special interest group in order to insure re-election, thereby becoming complacent and irresponsive to the people.

I am also concerned with the relationship between the Board of Education and the Board of County Commissioners. I strongly oppose special elections that cost the county thousands of dollars to make decisions that should be made within the commissioners' office. In order to prevent any misunderstanding between the two boards, I would ask for legislation requiring a member of the commissioners' board to serve as an ex officio member of the school board. In this way a commissioner's presence, as the budget and other important matters are discussed will help to enhance communication with the school board.

The present salary of a county commissioner is $18,000 annually plus expenses and health insurance. In 1991 the salary will go to $20,500, 1992 it will be $23,000, 1993 it will be $25,500, and finally $28,000 in 1994. That will also include at least $1,500 annually for expenses and health insurance. I feel that this is completely out of line with other county employees' salary with four years of service. Had I been a county commissioner I would have strongly opposed that salary increase. I feel commissioners should get the same across the board increase as other county employees (such as road employees).

I would propose that commissioners exempt themselves from the Salary Review Commission and take the across the board raise or put this salary increase proposal on the ballot.

CELEBRATE 50TH — Charles and Aldine McIntyre, Mountain Lake Park, celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with OVMC nurse Marty Packer and the Balloons 'N' Tunes Bear.

Nurses Surprise Couple With 50th Wedding Anniversary Party

A stunned Aldine McIntyre, 69, giggled like a young girl as a dancing bear, carrying balloons, approached her table at Ohio Valley Medical Center's Overlook Cafeteria. She and her husband Charles had just sat down for a quiet 50th wedding anniversary luncheon with one of Aldine's nurses.

Little had they suspected that nursing service had more in store for them "Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre had stayed with us so long, we felt as though they were family," said Patsy George, R.N., who oversees visitor lodging at OVMC. "When we discovered they would be celebrating their anniversary soon after they left OVMC, we wanted to do something special for them." The McIntyres, who officially celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary June 21, had been staying at OVMC's visitor lodging two weeks.

A victim of cancer, Aldine was referred to OVMC for hyperbaric oxygen (HBO) therapy by her doctor at Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown. Resident of Mountain Lake Park, Md., 130 miles from Wheeling, Aldine and Charles found OVMC's visitor lodging quite convenient. It offered comfortable lodging close to Aldine's treatment area, and gave then an opportunity to tour the Wheeling area.

HBO therapy, found in West Virginia only at OVMC, is used to treat cancer, carbon monozide poisoning, cyanide poisoning and other medical problems. Treatment involves administration of ozygen in high concentration in an environment of increased atmospheric pressure.

The chamber, a long, clear tube, in which the person must lie enclosed for the treatment– often as long as an hour– appears intimidating to many. But for Aldine, the chamber lost its domineering power. Charles stayed by her side to comfort her and assure her, just as they have done for each other for 50 years.

Both born and raised in Maryland, Charles and Aldine met in high school and have been together ever since. Aldine, who loves to read, is a former first grade teacher. She also ran the family-owned general store. Charles, 73, also loves to read. He is a former insurance salesman for Peoples Life in Kitzmiller, Md. They have two children– a son who is an engineer in Maryland and a daughter who is a nurse in Denver– and five grandchildren.

When asked how things are different new than they were at the beginning, Charles replied, "It is no different now than it was when we were first married. We still love each other as much or more than we did then." Aldine added, "Staying busy is what has kept us together for 50 years."

Snakes: Not All Are As Dangerous As Myths Would Have People Believe

by Sandra Cusack

When I was a child, my grandmother convinced me that the snake known as the black racer was not as harmless as my schoolteachers had told me it was.

Grandma told me that the black racer would actually race after children, wrap their body around the child and squeeze that child to death. Even though I argued with her, Grandma was finally able to convince me that black snakes, like all snakes, were very harmful and that I should not play with any snakes.

Along with the myth about the black racer, there is the myth of the hoop snake. The myth holds that the snake will grab its tail with its mouth, forming a hoop, and will then roll down a hillside. Some versions of the myth say that the snake will roll down the hill until it reaches its victim, loop around its victim, then squeeze it to death.

Ed Thompson, with the Maryland Natural Heritage Program, explained that numerous myths about snakes abound. In Garrett County, there are about 14 kinds of snakes, only two of which are actually poisonous and therefore dangerous, the copperhead and the timber rattlesnake.

Some of the more common snakes in the county are the northern ring-neck snake, the garter snake and the milk snake.

The milk snake is often confused with the copperhead, since the two snakes have similar markings.

"There is no snake killed any more as a copperhead than the milk snake. The milk snake does live around barns and dwellings. The snake is a genus of the king snake, which is a constrictor. The constrictor will wrap its body around its prey, then constrict it before eating," said Thompson. "There are only two constrictors in the county, the milk snake and the black rat snake, both of which are non-venomous.

"The milk snake can be differentiated from the copperhead. The milk snake's head is about the same size as the body, while the copperhead's head is bigger than the snake," he explained. "The markings on the milk snake are also different from that of the copperhead. The milk snake has what is considered to be blotches or saddles, while the copperhead's pattern is narrow on the back and wide on the sides.

"The milk snake's pattern is always consistent and the brown spots on its body are more reddish. The milk snake also has a pattern on the head, while the copperhead has no pattern, but just one spot on the neck. The copperhead's color is always burnt orange or coppery brown.

"The eyes of non-venomous snakes are always round, while venomous snakes have a pupil like a cat's eye, an elliptic shape. If the snake is killed, a person may look at the eyes of the snake to determine if it is poisonous. Also, on the underside of the snake, there is a single row of scales to the anal vent. After the vent, the venomous snakes continue in a single row of scales, while the non-venomous snakes have a double row of scales. The milk snake also has smooth scales and the copperhead has keeled scales, giving them a rougher look, unlike the smooth look of the milk snake. The copperhead, like all poisonous snakes, has a pit or opening under the eye.

"Of course, most people don't wish to look too closely at a snake they think is poisonous and will kill it automatically. These are some ways to know if it is a poisonous snake, after it is dead," he explained.

However, the copperhead is rare in Garrett County, although it is very common in Allegany County. The copperhead can be found along the rivers in Garrett County, such as the Youghiogheny and Savage, and occasionally near the Casselman River. The copperhead is not really a cold weather snake, so they are far more prevalent in the southern regions of the country.

The timber rattler is the other venomous snake which can be found in Garrett County. The timber rattler has two phases, black and yellow. The timber rattler is occasionally confused with the eastern diamondback rattlesnake. The eastern diamondback lives only in the southeastern portion of the United States, since they prefer the warmer climates.

The timber rattlesnake is most commonly found in the remote mountainous, rocky regions of the northern United States. In the dark phase, the timber rattler will have dark blotches of color, tinged with yellow, and in the lighter phase, it will have yellow blotches of color with dark colored crossbands.

The easiest way to identify a rattlesnake is by the rattle at the end of the tail. It also has an elliptic pupil, the head is larger than the body, and there is a single row of scales from the anal vent to the tail.

Rattlesnakes are very territorial. Thompson explained that if a rattlesnake is moved from its territory after it has reached the age of five years, it will probably die. Young snakes will travel away from the den, and males especially will travel up to a mile away from the den during the summer. In the fall, the snakes will return to the den, to prepare for hibernation.

Rattlesnakes, like all snakes, breed to produce young. The rattlesnake has its young every two years. Both the rattlesnake and the copperhead have live young, and among non-venomous snakes, the garter and water snakes also have live young.

Some snakes will mate in the spring and some in the fall, while most lay the eggs or live young in the spring to summer months.

Reptiles in general are the most advanced at birth. Once the snake produces either the eggs or the live young, no further care is needed, so that the young are ready to survive on their own. If living young is produced, the snake is immediately able to fend for itself. When eggs are laid, the mother snake will lay the eggs in a damp, remote place, which stays moist, so that the eggs never completely dry out, but do get warmth from the sun.

Another frequently recurring myth is that black snakes breed with rattlesnakes or copperheads. Thompson explained that this is not possible as the snakes have different reproductive systems. Black snakes lay eggs, while rattlesnakes and copperheads have live young.

Another common belief is that black snakes will keep rattlesnakes away from an area by killing them. Thompson has seen black racer snakes kill copperheads and admitted that the black racer would probably kill a rattlesnake, if the black racer could overcome it.

Thompson agreed that the black snake would keep rattlesnakes from an area by eating all of the available food. The black racer will eat other snakes, and has been observed eating copperheads. There is some evidence to show that black racers are immune to the copperheads' venom.

The size of the snake determines what food the snake eats. Black racers will eat anything, including copperheads, but the black rat snake prefers warm-blooded prey, such as mice.

Snakes usually don't eat very often, perhaps once a week. Although they can go for long periods without food, they can't go for extremely long periods

THERE ARE ABOUT 14 KINDS OF SNAKES IN GARRETT COUNTY, with only two of those 14 poisonous, the copperhead and the rattlesnake. The northern ring-neck snake and the garter snake, pictured above left and right, are two of the more beneficial snakes. Completely harmless, the snakes eat common pests such as slugs and mice. The milk snake, pictured below left, is a harmless snake which is often confused with the copperhead. The milk snake has wide markings on its body and the head is not much larger than the body. The copperhead's pattern is narrow on the back and wide on the side and the head is much larger than the body. Copperheads are not very common in Garrett County because of the high elevation. They can be found on the banks of the Savage and Youghiogheny Rivers, though, and near areas of low elevation. A poisonous snake which is fairly common in the county is the timber rattlesnake, pictured below right. The timber rattler is frequently found in rocky mountainous regions. Snakes prefer rocky areas and are generally very secretive. For more information on snakes, see story.

Anthony (Tony) P. Puca, democratic candidate for sixth District Representative in Congress, recently spoke before members of the Garrett Community College to present his views on various important issues, among them defense budget expenditures.

According to Puca, "The entire basis of this campaign is how I would like to see the $300 billion a year we have spent in the past on defense spent in the future. Our $300 billion dollar-a-year budget must be cut drastically with the money used for education, housing the elderly and disabled, and to reduce taxes on the middle class. There is no reason why any American citizen should have to live a subhuman life. That $300 billion a year hasn't helped any of our least fortunate people."

Puca added that by cutting $1 billion a year from the Pentagon's budget would enable the government to build 350,000 low-income housing units to hold 1 million people now living on the streets. Another $2 billion would enable the government to build enough housing for all of American's homeless.

"Other money now spent on defense and welfare programs could be used to train indigent people and put them to work repairing the nation's crumbling infrastructure," Puca said, "and the investment will begin paying dividends when the poor become self-sufficient, which in turn will weaken the chain of drug abuse and violent crime perpetuated by the hopeless."

On the subject of foreign trade, Puca feels American products and jobs must be protected. Traffics and import duties should be placed on all nations who place them on the U.S., he said.

Women must have pay equity, protection from abuse, adequate child care and equal rights guaranteed by law.

Regarding issues of the elderly the Social Security Trust Fund must not be used to offset budget deficit, Puca state. Full assignment of Medicade payments should be madatory, and seniors should not be abused, he added.

"Children," he said, are this country's most important asset and treasure. They must not be abused, neglected, uneducated, underfed, made to go homeless or have any other injustice committed agaist them."

A resident of Potomac, Puca, 41, is owner and president of American Business Furniture and Systems, Inc. A graduate of the University of Maryland, Puca is a past president of the Maryland Small Businessmen's Association. He has been active in the Carter, Mondale, McGovern, Humphrey campaigns as well as civic affairs. He & his wife, Lorraine have four daughters.

Two locations have been established as Puca Headquarters. The office located at 36 N. Conococheague Street, Williamsport, (301-223-5132) serves Washington and Frederick counties and the office located at 60 Baltimore Street, Cumberland, (301-724-4866 or 746-5147) serves both Allegany and Garrett counties.

Snakes

without water. Snakes are opportunists, in that if one comes across a whole nest of mice or rats, the snake will eat every one in the nest, then not eat again for weeks.

Some snakes will eat slugs and other garden pests. While a snake will not completely rid the garden of pests, it will help to control the population of pests.

The northern ring-neck is one of the most common snakes in this area. The ring-neck eats salamanders, slugs and other garden pests, and are completely harmless. At the adult size, the ring-neck will only achieve about 20 inches in length.

The garter snake is also completely harmless. Garter snakes will be found with either a vertically-striped or checkerboard pattern.

"When first captured, the garter snake appears to be quite vicious, but it will calm down. The garter snake will eat well in captivity and is the perfect pet for a child who wants to keep a snake. Once over the initial stage of fighting a predator, they seem to like being held," Thompson explained.

Garter snakes will also eat garden pests and will also eat large mice and other rodents.

Water snakes are common in this area, but should not be confused with the venomous water moccasin, which is also called a cottonmouth. The water moccasin is only found in the southeastern United States and the northernmost edges of its territory are in southern Virginia.

Snakes will use rocks to thermo-regulate their temperature. Once the rock gets too hot for comfort, the snake will move on to a cooler area. Snakes are generally concentrated in the very rocky areas.

If a family does not wish to have snakes around their home, all debris, including rock or wood piles, should be cleared away and grass should be kept short.

Snakes are very secretive and will always try to get out of the way. Snake bites are therefore rare occurrences and usually a snake will only bite if it feels threatened or cornered, or has been stepped on.

If a person is bit by a snake, and it is felt that the snake was poisonous, Thompson strongly suggests that if possible, the snake should be caught, and if necessary, killed. The person should be taken to the hospital, and the snake should also be taken so that positive identification can be made on it.

Thompson suggests this, as going through the treatments for snake bite are not pleasant.

The Maryland Heritage Program's main charge is unique ecological areas and endangered species. The program looks out for wildlife that is not traditionally looked out for, such as the non-game wildlife.

"We are concerned about maintaining a variety of life, both plant and animal. Plant and animal life is a good indication of the quality of the environment. When our environment can support a variety of life, this is a good indicator of how the environment affects humans," Thompson explained.

Reptiles are in the middle of the food chain. No reptile eats plants, but depending on the size of the reptile, its food will range from bugs to rats. Birds, skunks, raccoons and hawks eat snakes and other reptiles.

For more information on snakes and other reptiles, Thompson recommended two books: "Amphibians and Reptiles in West Virginia," by N. Bayard Green and Thomas K. Pauley; and "The Peterson Field Guide to Reptiles and Amphibians of Eastern and Central North America."

Farmers To Gain Insurance Info Via Mikulski Bill

The Senate has accepted legislation introduced by Maryland U.S. Senator Barbara Mikulski to improve crop insurance information available to farmers. This cost-free program will distribute information about the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation to local farmers through Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) offices.

"When I travel around Maryland, farmers tell me that they find it hard to get accurate and up-to-date information about the crop insurance program. My legislation tells the federal government to work as hard for the farmers as the farmers work for us," said Senator Mikulski.

This legislation is part of a package of recommedations that was developed by a task force of Maryland's farmers appointed at Senator Mikulski's request. They identified problems they had with the crop insurance program and made recommendations on how to make the program work. The rest of the package is still under Senate consideration.

The task force determined that the local ASCS offices are the best federal network from disseminating information to Maryland's farmers. The ASCS offices will send out regular updates on crop insurance with other farm program information. State ASCS directors will also receive regular training and education on farm programs, including crop insurance.

The farm bill, which included Senator Mikuliski's provisions, is expected to pass the Senate tonight or tomorrow.

Western Maryland Ag Field Day Slated For Sept. 6

Today's consumer is more concerned than ever about the possible effect of pesticides and fertilizers on the environment. The annual Western Maryland Ag Field Day on September 6, held near Hagerstown, will offer demonstrations of the latest environmentally-conscious agricultural research.

The 1990 field day will feature concurrent research wagon tours of Agricultural Experiment Station research plots and Cooperative Extension Service demonstrations.

On the wagon tours, participants will learn about: soybean varieties for Western Maryland, advanced weed control practices for corn and soybeans, soil testing to predict nitrogen application rates, update on gray leaf spot control in corn, IPM strategies for sweet corn production in Western Maryland, and a minimum dose pesticide program for apples.

In addition to the wagon tours, other activities planned include educational exhibits, farm service displays and agricultural equipment demonstrations, including haymaking and tillage.

Also offered will be a $1 hog roast scheduled from 12:15-1:15 p.m. Luncheon reservations, due by August 31, can be made by calling 301-791-2298.

The Western Maryland Ag Field Day is sponsored by the University of Maryland's Agricultural Experiment Station and Cooperative Extension Service, and the Washington County Ag Demonstrators.

Conservation, Bay Clean-Up Focus Of Sarbanes Legislation

Legislation sponsored by Maryland U.S. Senator Paul Sarbanes and approved in the U.S. Senate as part of the 1990 Farm Bill further the clean-up of the Chesapeake Bay by encouraging farmers in the Bay area to join the federal Conservation Reserve Program. The Conservation Reserve program encourages farmers to adopt best conservation practices and provides technical and financial assistance to assist farmers in conserving their most environmentally sensitive lands.

"My amendment encourages the Secretary of Agriculture, in implementing the Conservation Reserve Program, to take into consideration the need to protect sensitive watersheds like the Chesapeake Bay, particularly where there are active State programs working to protect such watersheds," Sarbanes said. "This legistation will encourage increased participation of the Chesapeake Bay area states of Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia, among others, in the Farm Bill's conservation programs."

Nationwide, Sarbanes noted, the Conservation Reserve Program has contributed significantly to soil conservation efforts. "The greatest water quality benefits from the program can be achieved in regions like the Chesapeake Bay. The Environmental Protection Agency has determined that the 11 million acres of agricultural land within the Chesapeake Bay watershed account for nearly one-third of the phosphorus and about three-fifths of the nitrogen entering the Bay each year. Excessive quantities of these nutrients pollute the water and are a key cause of the Bay's decline. The Conservation Reserve Program is one of the best Available programs to reduce the flow of these pollutants to the Bay," he said.

Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, the District of Columbia and the federal government, as a part of the Chesapeake Bay Agreement, have agreed to reduce these pollutants by 40 percent by the year 2000, and the states are relying heavily on the Conservation Reserve Program to reach this ambitious water quality goal. "This amendment will help meet the objective of improving water quality and go a long way toward cleaning up the Bay," Sarbanes said.

HOME BY PHONE!

Imagine furnishing your home over the telephone. The call to the furniture dealer might begin like this: "Could you tell me more about the living room set advertised in today's paper?"

The dealer responds "Certainly, it seats six comfortably, and the end tables are polished walnut. It is available in contemporary and Early American styles, in a variety of color patterns. Would you like it delivered this evening?"

As much as we depend on telephones today, such a call is not likely to result in a purchase. Why? Although the caller can ask for and receive details about the features offered by the furniture dealer, the benefits cannot be perceived over the phone. The caller cannot experience the plush, comfortable feeling of the easy chair, nor admire the color patterns of the entire set.

After more questions, the caller would eventually say "I'll give it some thought and, if I'm interested, I'll call you back!" Because it is not possible to gain the satisfaction of receiving benefits over the phone, it is highly unlikely the person would ever call back.

Despite the futility of attempting a purchase by phone, many homebuyers begin their search in much the same way. Seeing an ad, they call, ask questions, then end the conversation feeling let down for the same reasons as the imaginary furniture buyer. Buyers purchase homes based on the benefits offered by the home, benefits which can be perceived only through a personal inspection of the home. Obviously, then, it is critical that buyers be able to tour and inspect an array of suitable homes.

The most beneficial first step buyers can take is to call a REALTOR®. With that one call, an appointment can be made to see a wide variety of homes currently available for purchase. Instead of discussing unseen homes by phone, buyers can expect to be directly exposed to the benefits offered by homes which fit their needs and tastes. When buying a home, make only one phone call — to a REALTOR®!

If you'd like to purchase a home, but feel out-of-touch with what's happening in real estate, give us a call today at 387-5303, or drop by our office in McHenry, MD.

American And Soviet Farmers Could Win Under MFN Agreement

Final approval of the Most Favored Nation (MFN) agreement with the Soviet Union should add a few jingles to American farmers' pockets. However, the thin wallets of Soviet farmers could benefit even more.

Most Favored Nation is the official phrase given to a nation's preferential trading partners. MFN status offers most-favorable tariff treatment to promote trade between two nations. In the United States, it also means the possibility of offering a trading partner credit guarantees.

The U.S. International Trade Commission estimates the United States could boost its export sales by as much as $1 billion if such an agreement is formally approved for the Soviet Union. Soviet export sales are expected to develop more slowly.

However, increased sales are only one benefit. The expanded availability of American agricultural inputs and machinery should help Russian farmers boost domestic yields.

The trade agreement conditionally approved June 1 by Presidents Bush and Gorbachev includes provisions for granting the Soviets MFN status. Before the measure goes to Congress for its formal nod, President Bush insists the Soviets meet demands of the Jackson-Vanik amendment.

Conditional Approval

That amendment prohibits the United States from signing a trade agreement or granting MFN status to any nation restricting emigration. The American Farm Bureau Federation favors an MFN designation for the Soviet Union, or a waiver of the Jackson-Vanik amendment to allow bilateral trade negotiations.

"Approval of MFN for the Soviets definitely would be in the best interests of American agriculture," says Dean Kleckner, president of AFBF and Iowa farmer. "Agriculture fills the largest crate when it comes to trade with the Soviet Union. An increased availability of American farm products will help put food on Soviet shelves as that nation strengthens its domestic economy."

According to officials with United States Trade Representative Carla Hills' office, final MFN approval for the Soviets won't come until after the Soviets revisit postponed debates on their emigration policies in September.

Nikolay Balbyshev, assistant agricultural attache for the USSR in Washington, believes his country will be able to meet U.S. conditions for MFN status.

"We hope so," he says. "Since this process has started, I think (Soviet decision makers) will go along with this. I hope so. It is very difficult to predict the situation in our country, ery difficult."

Agricultural Trade Important

The importance of agricultural trade between the two nations is well documented. The USDA says during the 1980s, American farmers exported more than $18 billion of agricultural products to the USSR. About 85 percent of this agricultural trade was American grain. Agricultural products accounted for approximately 75 percent of the total U.S. exports to the USSR during the last decade.

The bulk of Soviet exports to the United States includes: precious metals, anhydrous ammonia, art works, sable skins and tractors. However, most of these items already enter the U.S. duty-free.

The USDA predicts only small increases in Soviet exports to this country following MFN approval. The Soviets already have over-committed themselves on many commodities, such as oil, that would benefit most from U.S. tariff cuts.

Balbyshev says ultimately increasing Soviet exports to the United States is the true key to increasing Soviet imports of American products and goods.

"Most Favored Nation status, I expect would generally increase the volume of trade between our two countries, agricultural as well," he says. "I think we expect to buy some American products witn the foreign currency we gain from our (increased) exports. Otherwise, of course, in my private view, I don't expect very much of an increase in imports without increasing our exports."

Extending Government Credit

Any sales increase partly would be due to the United States offering government credit guarantees to the Soviet Union as a MFN. Now, the Soviets must use unguaranteed commercial credit in its purchases from the United States, according to Paul Drazek, international trade specialist for the American Farm Bureau Federation.

"Extending government credit guarantees to the Soviet Union will enable us to compete with the European Community and some of the other countries that already extend them government credit guarantees," Drazek says.

Balbyshev agrees, "Lifting the limitations on credit would be a great help because foreign trade is always done on credit."

Even more important than extending credit to the Russians, Drazek says, is the fact MFN status would make the Soviets feel better about trading with the United States.

"That's very important to American agriculture," he says. "If we discriminate against them in our trade policy, they're liable to discriminate against us in their trade policy. That's the way is has been."

Even with that discrimination, the United States has frequently sold competitively-priced agricultural products to the Soviet Union. Despite not having an MFN agreement, the United States, with few exceptions, has led all Western agriculture in export sales to the Soviets since the mid 1970s.

The Grain Trade

According to USDA figures, in the 1989 fiscal year, the United States sold $3.19 billion in agricultural products to the Russians. This included 60 percent of their total imported grain value and 65 percent of their imported grain volume.

Last year the Soviets were the third largest buyer of U.S. farm products, behind Japan and the European Community. Mostly, this has been accomplished through long-term grain agreements.

The current long-term grain agreement expires in December, but Presidents Bush and Gorbachev already have approved a new agreement which will take affect on January 1. Terms of the two agreements are similar.

The new long-term grain agreement calls for the Soviets to purchase 10 million metric tons of U.S. wheat and feedgrains annually for the next five years. The only basic difference is that the new agreement includes Soviet options to buy barley and sorghum.

According to the USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS), long-term grain agreements between the two nations are not subject to the Jackson-Vanik free-emigration requirement. FAS officials say that is because long-term grain agreements are basically private and do not include U.S. government money. The only exception is when the Export Enhancement Program funds subsidize U.S. exports.

Soviet Self Reliance

A renewed Soviet Commitment to feeding its own people will not affect the new grain agreement with the United States. New Soviet self-reliance could mean an eventual decrease in their agricultural imports from all countries, but the grain agreement ensures a minimum level of purchases from the United States over the next five years.

According to Balbyshev, the mere size of the Soviet Union almost dictates that it strive to feed itself.

"We are a larger nation than you," he says. "We have to take care of ourselves. We are actually trying to do that."

Because of that, MFN status may make the biggest splash when importing materials to help jack up the deteriorated Soviet agricultural infrastructure. That means added imports of agricultural chemicals and new machinery, Balbyshev says.

Combine those imports with Soviet talk of privatizing at least some farm land and you understand how Soviet farmers could be the biggest winners in the MFN game. Imported Americn inputs and machinery likely would increase Soviet production on privatized and state-run farms.

"We do have a legal basis for development of private land ownership in our country," Balbyshev says. "We have large, some of them are quite good, farms capable of producing good yields. We understand the way of increasing production is by applying more fertilizers, more chemicals, better machinery and by using more modern forms of organization.

"In those places where the collective farms do not do well, maybe some private farms would be preferable. I think this already has started moving. The results of this year might show, but it is very difficult to predict the results at this point."

American Farmer Reaction

American farmers like Ohio corn farmer Steve Oman and Oklahoma wheat farmer Jim Hadwiger know free trade in the global agricultural marketplace is almost as important to their operations as private land ownership is to the Soviet Union.

Oman, who farms near Findlay, Ohio, and chairs the AFBF feedgrains advisory committee, says the United States should jump at any fair trade advantage it can get. He says it's very important the Soviets be extended MFN status.

"It's important to agriculture," he said. "Not only as a corn farmer, but I think the livestock people will gain just as much, maybe more, from offering MFN status to the Soviets."

Hadwiger, who heads the AFBF wheat advisory committee and farms near Cherokee, Okla., supports any program that will increase non-government farm income.

"We've got to export our wheat," he said. "Eighty percent of our wheat here in Oklahoma is exported. If if doesn't hurt you to remove a stumbling block, you'd better do it."

The Oklahoma wheat farmer believes approval of MFN treatment for the Soviets will pay all American farmers dividends in the long haul.

"Anything we can do to improve trade is going to help us," he says. "Too many of our (federal farm) policies are crisis policies. We need to do some things that will help us years down the road, not just tomorrow."

The Soviets also appear to be looking at the big picture. Similar to the fate of their first seeds of private agriculture, patience and nurturing could determine the ultimate value of Soviet MFN status to them, and to America's farmers and ranchers.

Sleeping Sickness May Occur In Maryland Horses

The problems experienced from viral encephalitis in horses, also known as sleeping sickness, are likely to recur this year, unless proper preventive measures are taken, says the Maryland Department of Agriculture. In 1989, over 50 cases of viral encephalitis were reported on the Delmarva Peninsula through the combined efforts of practitioners and MDA veterinarians.

The June 22 Center for Disease Control Encephalitis Surveillance newsletter reports that 21 cases of Eastern Equine Encephalitis (EEE) have been reported in Florida since January. One human case of human EEE has been reported in South Carolina in 1990. No other coastal states have reported evidence of EEE virus infection in mosquitoes, equine or birds at this time.

Viral encephalitis often occurs during the late summer and early fall until the first few frosts. The encephalitis virus circulates in a bird-mosquito-bird cycle with viral "spill over" into horses and people. Although horses and people are victims of this viral disease, they are not involved in the spread of the disease. Captive wild birds such as those on game farms are often affected with the eastern viral type.

There are three types of viral encephalitis that affect equidae. They are eastern, western and Venezuelan. The eastern type predominates in the eastern United States with mortality reaching 85-90 percent in infected horses and people.

Protection from and control of viral encephalitis are dependent on the following actions:

1. Local and area mosquito control measures. The MDA is intensifying field spraying to kill mosquitoes.

2. Persons should use repellants to protect themselves from mosquitoes, especially people who are outside a great deal of the time such as farmers, fishermen, hunters and golfers.

3. Horses should be vaccinated in the late spring and those vaccinated in April should be revaccinated in August. Contact a private veterinarian.

Garrett County Holstein Show Set For Aug. 15

The 1990 Garrett County Holstein Show will be held on August 15, at 7:30 p.m., at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. As in the past, the show will be held in conjunction with the Garrett County Fair.

County Extension Agent Jim Simms says that those who will be exhibiting in the Holstein Show may bring their cattle in on Wednesday for that day only. However, he says he hopes that most exibitors will consider leaving some cattle at the fair for exhibition to the public. For those exhibiting in the fair, the cattle should be in by Tuesday evening, August 14. An exhibitor's list for the Holstein Show may be obtained at the Extension Office and should be returned by August 8 by all entrants.

New Brochure Tells How To "Budget" Fat

Budgeting fat in the diet sounds like a good idea, since many are trying to cut down on fat, but just how is it done? With a new brochure developed by the Dairy Council, persons can learn how to budget fat throughout the day and still eat the foods they enjoy.

The brochure, "Healthy Dividends — A Plan For Balancing Your Fat Budget," helps calculate and plan for fat in a healthy diet — the fat budget — and details the fat content of diferend foods and portion sizes. Also shown are ways to include foods most enjoyed by making trade-offs with lower fat foods.

The brochure compliments the new "Healthy Dividends" program in which participants get a chance to practice fat budgeting skills under the guidance of area dietitians. The program has been endorsed by the American Academy of Family Physicians Foundation.

Persons wishing to learn more about how to budget the fat they eat, may send a stamped, self-addressed business envelope for the free brochure to Dairy Council of Greater Metro. Washington, Dept. No. 25, 7315 Wisconsin Ave., Suite 812E, Bethesda, MD 20814.

Blossom-End Rot of Tomatoes

I have been receiving reports of growers having blossom-end rot on their tomatoes. This problem results from a localized calcium deficiency in the developing fruit and fluctuating soil moisture. Calcium is required in relatively large amounts of developing fruits. Research has shown that plants grown too vigorously with excessive amounts of nitrogen are prone to this problem because excessive nitrogen reduces calcium uptake. Under these conditons water stress early in the fruiting stage will trigger blossom-end rot to occur. The remedy is to lime the soil according to soil test recommendations, and avoid excessive fertilization, especially with fertilizers containing nitrogen. By mid-August blossom-end rot should subside as the tomato growth rate slows.

Sheep Worms

The damp season has caused an unusually high amount of internal worms in sheep so far this year in Garrett County, resulting in deaths and anemic animals. An added treatment of Tramisol, Ivomec, Levasole, or other wormer would be a good investment, or consult your veterinarian for information and treatment. Listed below is more detailed information on a parasite control program.

Internal Parasite Control

July, August, and September tend to be the worst months for internal parasites in sheep. Therefore, it's critical that producers pay close attention to control methods during late summer and early fall.

1. An effective internal parasite control program should not rely solely on the use of anthelmintics. Using anthelmintics as the only method of control often results in increased incidence of internal parasite resistance. Whenever possible, sheep should be placed on "clean" pastures to slow down reinfection. Some examples of clean pastures are: 1) fields that have been without sheep for more than a year, 2) fields that were cut for hay since sheep last grazed there, and 3) fields grazed by cattle before sheep are allowed to graze. By strategically using clean pastures in combination with anthelmintics, more time can be allowed between treatments. Treatments should be timed so that they occur just prior to sheep going onto clean pastures. Unfortunately, there is no cookbook recipe for the number of times to deworm sheep when used in combination with clean pastures. And, it should be stressed that clean pastures do not prevent reinfection but do help in cutting down the rate of reinfection.

2. If anthelmintic treatments are not being administered in combination with the use of clean pastures, lambs grazing summer and fall pastures should be dewormed a minimum of once every three weeks. Treatments should continue through late October. If lambs go into drylot for finishing on grain, treatments can be discontinued.

3. Traditional pasture rotation programs are not effective in reducing internal parasite larvae levels on pasture. Larvae may survive on pastures for up to a year. Rotating sheep through pastures every two to three weeks is good pasture management and should help improve lamb performance, but it is only marginally effective with internal parasite control.

4. Underdosing of anthelmintics results in accelerated resistance levels of internal parasites. Sheep producers should know the weight of the animals being treated. If it is not possible to get a weight, it is better to be on the high end of the dose rather than not give enough. Anthelmintics approved for use in sheep have wide margins of safety.

5. Anthelmintics should be rotated on a yearly basis but not rotated within a year. By using a different product each time sheep are treated, internal parasites are given the opportunity to develop resistance against multiple products at a time. Therefore, it is recommended that anthelmintics from different chemical families be rotated on an annual basis. Changing products does not necessarily mean changing chemical families. For example, Tramisol and Levasole have different product names but are made of the same chemical. On the other hand, Ivomec comes from a different chemical family than Tramisol or Levasole. For example, Tramisol or Levasole could be rotated on an every other year basis with Ivomec.

GLAF Music Festival Set For Aug. 22-25

Once again the stage of Garrett Community College will be the setting for four nights of musical entertainment, August 22-25, as the Garrett Lakes Music Festival presents The Philharmonia of the Swallow, conducted by Erick Friedman.

This year's agenda includes performances by guest soloists Sidney Harth, renowned violinist and conductor, and Shauna Rolston, a young cellist whose long list of accomplishments has given her an enviable international reputation. Two other violinists, Marc Ramirez and Gennady Filimonov, will also be featured in the course of the week's four performances.

Kathryn Sincell, director of the festival and lyric soprano soloist, said the fourth season of the festival will open August 22, with a Viennese Evening, arranged to give audience members a literal "taste" of old Vienna. The evening begins in the Bavarian Room at Wisp with a social hour, beginning at 5 p.m., followed by an authentic Austrian dinner. The concert will begin at 8 p.m. at the Garrett Community College, and will consist of works composed by Viennese musicians, such as Mozart and Strauss. Ms. Sincell, a native of Mtn. Lake Park, will be featured this evening, performing a series of Viennese songs. After the performance, audience members may return to the Bavarian Room for Austrian pastries and international coffees to enjoy while meeting the musicians. The Viennese Evening is in cooperation with Wisp Resort.

The music offered on opening night will be "Divartimento in D major, K. 278," by Mozart; Waltzes (arranged for string quartet) by J. Strauss; Viennese Songs by Lehar, Sieczynski, Kreisler; "String Quartet in a minor," by Kreisler; and "Metamorphosen," by Strauss.

The second program of the festival, August 23, will feature violinist Sidney Harth in "Concerto Grosso in D major," Geminiani; "Violin Concerto in g minor," Vivaldi, and "Violin Concerto in d minor," Tartini. Two other pieces, "Quintet in C major, Op. 163," by Schubert, and "Simple Symphony," by Britten, will be presented as well.

On Friday, Aug. 24, Cellist Shauna Rolston will open the third program with "Cinq Pieces for Cello and String Orchestra," by Couperin. Marc Ramirez, violinist, will follow with "The Virtuoso Violin." The second half of the program will consist of performances of Mendelssohn's "String Symphony No. 10 in b minor," and Elgar's "Serenade in e minor, op. 20."

AMONG THE SOLOISTS at the 1990 Garrett Lakes Music Festival, slated for August 22-25 at Garrett Community College, will be renowned violinist and conductor, Sidney Harth, and Canadian cellist, Shauna Rolston. Being the first American to win Poland's Wieniawski Competition, Harth has appeared with virtually every major American orchestra, including Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, New York, and Philadelphia, receiving rave reviews along the way. An international favorite, his typical season includes annual tours with leading orchestras in Eastern and Western Europe. He is also a familiar figure at the major summer festivals, including Aspen, Festival Casals, and Fine Arts Festival in Banff, Canada. Ms. Rolston although still in her early 20s, has also achieved an enviable international reputation, having performed throughout Canada, Japan, Korea, Italy, Israel, and the United States. She has regularly appeared as soloist with Canada's major orchestras and with such European ensembles as London's Philharmonic Orchestra, English Chamber Orchestra, Aburzzi Orchestra, Budapest Symphony, and Amsterdam Philharmonic. She has performed at numerous festivals in the United States and Europe. The Garrett Lakes Music Festival is coordinated and directed by violin virtuoso, Erick Friedman, and lyric soprano, Kathryn Sincell, a native of Garrett County. Details of the Festival will appear in the second edition of Summer Sensations, which will be published in early August.

The final performance of The Philharmonia of the Swallow will take place on Saturday, Aug. 25, and will again feature Marc Ramirez and Kathryn Sincell. Also featured will be two violinists: Concert Master Dale Stuckenbruck and Gennedy Filimonov.

Ramirez and Filimonov will open Saturday's concert with Bach's "Concerto for Two Violins, S. 1043." Ms. Sincell and Stuckenbruck will perform "Along the Fields," by Vaughan Williams, followed by two selections, "Mi Chiamano Mimi" and "Quando m' en vo" from the Puccini opera La Boheme, sung by Ms. Sincell.

The last two selections of the evening will be Brahms' "String Quartet in b flat minor," and "St. Paul's Suite, Op. 29," by Holst.

Sydney Harth, who was the first American to win Poland's Wieniawski Competition, has appeared with virtually every major American orchestra, including Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, New York, and Philadelphia. He has also toured with orchestras in Eastern and Western Europe on numerous occasions and is a well-known performer at the major summer festivals, such as Aspen, Festival Casals, and Fine Arts Festival in Banff, Canada.

Harth is as well known as a conductor, having begun as assistant conductor of the Louisville Orchestra, where he conducted more than 50 world premieres commissioned by the Rockefeller Foundation. He was also associate conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic and has served as principal guest conductor of the Jerusalem Symphony Orchestra, acting music director of the Puerto Rican Symphony Orchestra, and director of the Canadian Chamber Orchestra. His guest conducting assignments include orchestras in Israel, Spain, Mexico, and the United States.

Over 40 arts and crafts booths will be present, featuring items such as handmade folk art dolls, doll furniture, little girls' dresses with embroidery patterns of 1800's, children's accessories, dried flower arrangements, hand dyed and stained woven baskets, corn husk wreaths, Amish country crafts, water fowl and maritime lithographs, painted ducks and decoys, hand strung jewelry, cut gold overlay jewelry, hand loomed afghans, deacon benches and sleighs, cross stitch linens, wood toys, seasonal center piece decorations, and shell jewelry.

Historical reenactments of frontier life of the 1800's will be offered by Will's Mountain Renegades in authentic frontier and Indian costume with giant teepees and muzzleloader demonstrations. There will be a Civil War encampment by elements of Company A of the First Maryland Infantry, and Company H of the Seventh Pennsylvania Reserve Corps Infantry. Who needs mortgage approval anxiety?

So very much hinges on the approval of a mortgage loan application. One family is wondering whether its new dream home will be possible. Another family might be awaiting the answer so it can buy the vacated home. And the realtor is anxious to "tie down the deal."

There's lots of anxiety. Certainly a lengthy wait for approval of the mortgage application should not be a factor.

The folks at Garrett National Bank are keenly aware of the need for fast turnaround. When you deal with Garrett National, you will find our service to be better and quicker because we're true experts at processing mortgage loans.

But fast processing is only half our story. Garrett National also has a commitment to a great combination of low rates and flexible terms. Both fixed and variable rates are available. Payback? Ten years, 15 years, 20 years. Other terms can be arranged. And we're committed to a low point schedule.

When important home-buying decisions are being made, it's in everyone's best interest to seek out the best deal. We feel both the best deal and best service will be found at Garrett National Bank. Visit any of our 10 convenient offices today and find out for yourself.

Mtn. Fresh Tailgate Market Opens "Bigger and Better"

MOUNTAIN FRESH PRODUCE TAILGATE MARKET has already opened its third season. This year the market will be open two days per week in the Oakland town parking lot (Wednesday at 3 p.m. and Saturday at 10 a.m.) and will feature freshly-grown vegetables and fruit, home-baked goods, herbs, flowers, and crafts. Customers have already commented on the excellent quality and freshness of the produce brought in by producers from Preston and Tucker Counties in West Virginia and Garrett County. Mountain Fresh Producers Association also operates a bulk supply and "pick your own" program. A completely different type of grower, Adam Lucas Jr., Pleasant Valley, is one of the newest members of Mountain Fresh and operates a 20-acre sod farm. More information may be obtained by calling Pamela Roberts, Mountain Fresh co-ordinator, at 301-334-1990.

The Mountain Fresh Producers Association tailgate market opened this week "bigger and better than ever," according to Jim Simms, Garrett County Extension Agent, who stated that the 56-member organization (27 members of whom are producers) is busy gaining more knowledge to adjust to the demands of the market and will see improvements this year in several areas of the operation.

One improvement is a two-day-per week schedule this year, with the market having opened Wednesday this week. The schedule calls for the market to be held every Wednesday at 3 p.m. and Saturday at 10 a.m. in the Oakland town parking lot. This schedule will continue until mid-October.

The 10 a.m. scheduling on Saturday, said Simms, will enable more consumers to take advantage of the market and will also allow farmers to pick the produce that morning instead of the night before. Last year, the market opened at 8 a.m.

Another of the big improvements to this, the third season for the tailgate market, is the planned addition of a pavilion. This will enable more crafts to be sold, stated Simms, since adverse weather last year kept potential crafts people from selling their wares out in the open.

Mtn. Fresh

The pavilion, scheduled to be ready for use by the end of August, will measure 35x80 feet but is being constructed so that additions can easily be made in future years. The purchase of the pavilion was made possible by contributions from the Garrett County Commissioners, the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce, the Town of Oakland and the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

Simms noted that Mountain Fresh Producers Association has already begun a successful season by selling in bulk to area restaurants and grocery stores. He stated that customers, so far, have been "pleased with the quality and freshness" of the items. Bulk sales can be made to any individual, as well, he said, by calling the Co-operative Extension Service at 301-334-1990. Personnel there will then connect the buyer with the appropriate supplier. A list of bulk suppliers and "pick-your-own" farms is also available at the office.

Mountain Fresh co-ordinator for 1990, Pamela Roberts, stated that more advertising is being done this year, including brochures, posters and a billboard which will appear on Rt. 219 in the near future.

The Mountain Fresh Producers Association was formed in December, 1987, and is comprised of producers from Tucker and Preston Counties in West Virginia and Garrett County. Designed to benefit producers and consumers, the program is supported by the co-operative and financial efforts of the University of Maryland, Co-operative Extension Service, the Department of Agriculture and several local agencies and organizations.

Island Creek Coal Signs Major Deal With NEPCO

Island Creek Coal Company, the parent company of Alpine and Dobbin mines near Bayard, W.Va., has signed a three and one-half year contract with New England Power Company (NEPCO) which represents both the largest tonnage and the longest term coal supply that NEPCO has contracted in almost 10 years.

Under the contract, Island Creek will supply NEPCO with a minimum of 900,000 tons per year, and a maximum of 1.2-million tons per year over the three-year, six-month period. The coal, which will most likely come from nearby Dobbin mine, will be shipped from Island Creek's Alpine mine.

According to Jim Hoch, NEPCO's fuels manager, the contract fits that company's overall strategy of committing to a certain amount of assured supply through contracts while leaving its options open on the spot market.

NEPCO has burned the Alpine mine coal for about three years at other plants, and more recently tested it in a 100 percent burn at the utility's Salem Harbor power plant.

"We've used it pretty sparsely there (at Salem Harbor) in the past," Hoch said, but he noted that the recent testing "suggests that this coal can now be considered an adequate supply source at Salem Harbor."

According to Hoch, the 300,000 tons per year leeway in the new agreement suggests that NEPCO will take large quantities of Island Creek's coal to the Brayton Point plant as well, which is where they have

Accidental Blaze Levels McHenry Business; Loss Totals $500,000

A fire of undetermined origin leveled a Garrett County business near McHenry early Friday, destroying an estimated one-half million dollars in lawn mower and gardening equipment and the 40-by-50 foot frame building.

Volunteer fire fighters from Deep Creek and Accident volunteer fire departments were called to Bowman's Equipment along Gravelly Run Road, just off U.S. Rt. 219 near McHenry, at 4:21 a.m. and, upon their arrival, found the structure fully involved in flames.

The business is owned by Donald Bowman, who recently purchased it from his father, also Donald Bowman. The fire was discovered by the elder Bowman and his wife, who reside next door and were awakened by the cracking sound of the blaze.

Also called to the scene were a tanker from the Oakland VFD, the county air cascade vehicle presently being housed at Oakland, and the Northern Rescue Squad. Firemen remained on the scene until 8:19 a.m. There were no injuries reported.

The blaze was investigated by Guy Carola, deputy fire marshall for Garrett and Allegany counties, who has ruled the fire accidental in nature and noted that a number of things could have caused the fire. He said Bowman told him that gasoline had been accidently spilled on the floor Thursday and was wiped up by rags, which were then thrown into a barrel containing other rags. He said that vapors from those rags could Skaggs, from Olney, reportedly lost her balance while skiing and fell backwards. Her companions pulled her from the water, and discovered that she was bleeding profusely.

After being taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital by private vehicle, Skaggs was rushed to emergency surgery. She is listed in "satisfactory" condition this morning.

Officer W.K. May of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources investigated the accident.

Asbestos Removal Work Proceeding At Southern High

Brico Environmetal, Inc. of Baltimore continues to dismantle parts of Southern High School as they continue their task of removing all asbestos from the school facility now scheduled for a complete renovation, according to the Garrett County Board of Education. Brico began work immediately after students and staff vacated the facility in May and the job is currently over 50 percent complete. The crews are currently working in the vocational shop areas after completing work in the gym lobby, cafeteria, and A and B wings. Work remains to be done on both floors of the main building. The Board said Brico is requesting an extension of six days to the original completion date of August 17 as a result of encountering additional asbestos in chalkboards, fire doors, and pipes above the ceiling.

The asbestos removal contract totaled $378,570 and is being completely funded through a grant/loan from the Environmental Protection Agency. The Board said Congresswoman Beverly Byron and Senators Barbara Mikulski and Paul Sarbanes were instrumental in securing this funding in that the Garrett County

Social Services Reports Increase In Collections Of Child Support

The Child Support Enforcement Unit of the Garrett County Department of Social Services has announced that total child support collections in the county fiscal year 1990 rose to an all-time high of $627,259. This was an increase of 19% over FY-89, the fifth highest increase among the 23 counties in Maryland.

Robert Shaffer, director of the local Social Services office, credits the increased collections to "an energetic staff" and a number of changes that have occurred in recent years regarding child support enforcement regulations and processes.

In the past year, the Child Support Enforcement Unit was reorganized and consolidated totally within the department of Social Services, Shaffer explained. This enables the department to handle all aspects of the child support enforcement process, including all of the legal actions that may be required. The supervisor of the Child Support Enforcement Unit is Mrs. Hilda Rowan, who has worked at the local Social Services office since 1968.

The total collections of $627,259 consist of $220,077 from absent parents of public assistance families, and $407,182 from non-public assistance parents. Most of the collections for public assistance families are retained by the State of Maryland to help offset the amount of welfare (AFDC) payments to those families. A small amount, up to $50 per month, goes to the AFDC family in the form of a "bonus" check.

Shaffer stated that in recent years the amount of child support collected for non-welfare families in Garrett County has risen steadily, as the public becomes more aware of the services available at the local department. Any parent who is having difficulty in obtaining child support from an absent spouse may engage the services of the department by paying a one-time-only flat fee of $20. For this fee a variety of services are available, including location of the absent parent, blood testing to establsh paternity, filing of court petitions, and collection of the monthly support that is ordered by the court. The full amount of the support collected for non-public assistance cases is forwarded directly to the families each month.

Another reason for the in-

Man Sentenced To Five Years For Child Abuse

Judge Gary L. Leasure of the Garrett County Circuit Court sentenced a Crellin man charged with child abuse to five years in the Maryland Department of Corrections.

Ernest M. Durr, 33, was charged with two counts of sex offense, one count of child abuse, and one count of assault and battery. The charges stemmed from an incident that occurred in July and August of 1989, involving a 9-year-old female.

After originally pleading not guilty to all of the charges, Durr did plead guilty to child abuse. Judge Leasure accepted the plea, and ordered a presentence investigation.

The Judge suspended two years of the five-year sentence upon several conditions, some of which are the defendant will be placed on three years of supervised probation after release, he will receive counseling, and will be responsible for court costs.

Durr was represented by Robert C. Hesson.

Glendale Bridge Engineer Advises County To Proceed With Project

While additional funding possibilities at the state level are still being investigated, the Garrett County Commissioners this week heard a recommendation by bridge engineer James Montgomery to move ahead with the Glendale Bridge project using the bridge's present alignment and existing piers.

Montgomery, of Wallace-Montgomery, Lutherville, has been involved with the bridge project since the mid-1970s and Tuesday stated, "If money were no object, I think building the bridge on a new alignment parallel to the old bridge would be preferred. But money is an object."

The board of commissioners recently agreed to examine alternatives to the present bridge plan following a meeting at which Deep Creek Lake property and business owners suggested that closure of the bridge for a minimum of nine to twelve months during construction would severely hamper lake businesses, residents and emergency services.

At that meeting, Ed King, president of Deep Creek Lake Property Owners' Association, asked the commissioners to consider construction of the new bridge adjacent to the existing one using new piers and utilizing an improved alignment, as was done with the Deep Creek Lake Bridge on Rt. 219. This, he said, would virtually eliminate any traffic interruption and provide a more sound substructure.

That proposal would cost the county an additional $1.6 million. Montgomery stated that while he supports the county's efforts to obtain this additional funding, he is recommending the county "proceed forward with the project — at least the rehabilitation of the existing pier."

He explained that the Maryland Department of Transportation recently reported a 3-4 percent cutback in all projects because revenues from that source are down. He stated, "I'm not encouraged that any new monies can be found from the state."

"The bottom line is that Garrett county will have to pay for this, and $1.6 million is an awful lot of your Roads Department budget for just one particular project — I'm not sure that the money is worth the parallel bridge," said Montgomery.

He further stated that businesses would not be as affected by the closing of Glendale Bridge as they would have been if the Deep Creek Lake/Rt. 219 Bridge had been

Pittsburgh Man Dies From Injuries Sustained In Motorcycle Accident

A young Pittsburgh, Pa. man lost his life last evening when he lost control of the motorcycle he was operating on the Glendale Road at Deep Creek Lake, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police. A McHenry man was seriously injured in the same single-vehicle accident.

Gregory J. Parker, 23, died from injuries sustained in the accident that occurred when he failed to negotiate a left curve. The Honda Hurricane motorcycle he was operating then traveled off the right shoulder, struck an embankment and overturned.

A passenger on the cycle, Michael A. Hoffeditz, 22, is listed in "stable" condition this morning at Garrett County Memorial Hospital after being transported there by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad.

Both men were ejected from the motorcycle.

Garrett County Emergency Management also dispatched Deep Creek Lake firefighters to the 6:15 p.m. accident. Tfc. P.R. Brown is continuing his investigation for the State Police.

An early morning accident Sunday caused serious injury for two young Deer Park men.

Randall W. Ervin, 20, the operator of a 1989 Suzuki motorcycle which struck an unattended vehicle in the roadway, is listed in "stable" condition at Garrett County Memorial Hospital following surgery.

A passenger on the motorcycle, John E. Sweitzer, 20, was also taken to Garrett Memorial where he was initially treated and later transferred to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va. He is listed in "good" condition this morning by a hospital spokesman.

The 2:25 a.m. accident occurred when the Ervin motorcyle which was west on Church Street in Deer Park struck an unattended 1978 Ford pickup registered to Pamela D. Tasker, Deer Park. Ervin and Sweitzer were both ejected from the motorcycle onto the pavement.

Both the injured were transported to the hospital by the Southern Garrett Rescue

Illinois Resident Found Not Guilty On Drug Charges

A Wanderlake, Ill. man pleaded not guilty and was found not guilty on drug possession and drug paraphernalia charges last week in Garrett County District Court.

Anthony D. Mauller, 25, had been stopped on a routine traffic violation by the Maryland State Police on April 3. After a search of the vehicle he was operating, he was charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance and possession of drug paraphernalia.

There were several other passengers in the Mauller vehicle at the time of the arrest.

Judge Jack Turney accepted the not guilty plea of Mauller in court proceedings on August 2.

Thomas K. Wright, 20, Grafton, W.Va., a passenger in the Mauller vehicle, pleaded not guilty and was found not guilty of possession of a controlled dangerous substance.

In other court proceedings, a bad check charge against Martha A. Fike, 49, Mtn. Lake Park, was placed on the stet docket.

Sheriff's Dept. Reports Case Of Theft And B&E

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office reported three incidents of breaking, entering, and theft this week.

Five spare tires were reported stolen from Team One's car lot. Greg L. Shockey, an employee of Team One, noticed the tires missing from five trucks while on a routine inspection of the lot.

The loss was estimated at over $640. An investigation is continuing.

Robert V. Selby, Baltimore, reported several items stolen from his vacation home on Old Morgantown Road. Sometime between July 31 and August 2, an unknown person or persons broke a window and entered Selby's home. Various firearms and several boxes of ammunition were stolen, as well as hunting clothes and knives, a loss totaling over $425.

Deputy Feller is investigating the theft.

A destruction of property incident is also being investigated by the Sheriff's Department. John E. Hinebaugh, McHenry, reported that someone had cut through the wire on a newly constructed fence on his property.

The incident occurred sometime during the weekend of Aug. 4-5. Political signs around the fence were torn down as well. Hinebaugh estimated the damage at approximately $300.

Goldstein Wants Explanation For Gas Price Hikes

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said he has contacted 28 major oil companies and brokers asking them to explain their reasons "for the sudden and significant increase in the price of gasoline and distillate fuels within the state of Maryland." Goldstein, who collects Maryland's motor vehicle fuel taxes, says he has substantiated increases of up to 13 cents per gallon to retail service station dealers and to the general public since August 1.

"We track the amount of gasoline in storage and in shipment and we know there are many weeks of ready supply in inventory," he said. "This fuel was produced at costs not affected by the Middle East conflict, as was the product currently at refineries awaiting transportation.

"We also know that the volume of fuel sales has been declining over the past several months. With a substantial inventory and declining sales, it would make more sense for the price to be cut instead of increased," he said.

Goldstein noted that initial investigation by his office indicates that price increases appearing at the retail pump are being mandated by suppliers, not by retail service station dealers.

"We will be looking to see if brokers or other middlemen are playing a role in this round of price increases," Goldstein said. "In the 1970's we found some of these individuals were responsible for price increases and some supply problems that affected Maryland."

Goldstein noted that he and Attorney General J. Joseph Curran, Jr. would study the oil company replies and determine what legal course that state might take.

Special Energy Pricing Comm. Is Appointed

The committee will conduct a public hearing Monday, August 13, at 2 p.m., in the Joint Hearing Room of the Legislative Services Building in Annapolis.

Local Man Hurt In Aircraft Wreck At New Creek

Thomas Kooken of Swanton was injured Friday while landing an "ultra-light" aircraft at the airfield at New Creek. W.Va.

Kooken, 54, was flown to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland by Medevac helicopter. According to an emergency room spokesman, he was listed in satisfactory condition.

Members of the New Creek Fire Company and the Keyser Rescue Squad worked together to prepare the patient for transport. A volunteer firefighter on the scene said that Kooken's aircraft, which resembles a motorized hang glider, apparently malfunctioned approximately 20 feet off the ground at around 4:15 p.m., resulting in a back injury to the pilot.

Also on the scene was the Keyser Volunteer Fire Company.

Planning Comm. Studies Resource Protection Plan

The Garrett County Planning and Zoning Commission met recently to review a letter sent from Arnold Kronstadt, chairman of the Maryland State Planning Commission, to all county planning commissions regarding the Governor's Commission on Growth in the Chesapeake Bay Region. The commission was appointed as an outgrowth of the "20/20 Report," a regional report from all the states surrounding the bay and Washington, D.C.

Peggy Jamison, Planner II, Garrett County Planning and Zoning, explained that the 20/20 Report illuminated six "visions" (or goals) for the region to develop in protecting resources that ultimately have an impact on the bay.

Jamison stated that county planning officials met at the recent Maryland Association of Counties (MACo) and there was a "general consensus that the counties want guidelines — not mandates — from the state level," she said.

Also at that conference, the state planning commission summarized a survey it had implemented, indicating that, even though certain regulations are now in effect regarding planning and zoning regulations, resource protection regulations (open space land, wetland, and flood plains), and infrastructure plans for water, sewer and transportation, the counties lack in other areas.

Those areas were delineated into three major concerns: 1)a lack of education and information to the public sector, 2)a lack of co-ordination among state agencies, and 3)a lack of funding. Jamison explained that the third area was a response to the state mandating compliance with numerous regulations and programs, and not providing the funds to properly implement them.

The 20/20 Visions are as follows: 1)Development is concentrated in suitable areas, 2)Sensitive areas are protected, 3)Growth is directed to existing population centers in rural areas and resource areas are protected, 4)Stewardship of the bay and the land is a universal ethic, 5)Conservation of resources, including a reduction in resource consumption, is practiced throughout the region, and 6)Funding mechanisms are in place to achieve all other visions.

The Governor's Commission on Growth in the Chesapeake Bay Region is expected to report to the governor with its recommendations this fall.

Man Charged With DWI After Car Accident

A single-car accident on Rt. 560, north of Bethlehem Road, led to the arrest of Duane A. Garlitz, 21, Keyser, W.Va., according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Garlitz reportedly ran off the road and into a yard, struck a tree and a dog house, and narrowly missed a mobile home.

The Southern Garrett Rescue Squad responded to the accident, as well as Cpl. L.E. Gnegy, of the Sheriff's Department. Garlitz was charged with DWI, and failure to keep right of center.

Garlitz was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Record Ripoff . . .

Just about every American is now feeling the effects of Saddam Hussein's overthrow of Kuwait; however, as despicable as Hussein's actions have been, we cannot place all of the blame for these effects on this power-crazed leader. In fact, the most significant negative effect of this crisis to date is being caused by our own oil companies, who are presently engaged in a record-breaking ripoff of the American public.

Within moments of Hussein's invasion, the per-gallon price at the pumps began to climb dramatically, as if the gasoline pumps themselves were being fed by a direct line from Kuwait. In fact, the gasoline being pumped at that moment had been purchased three months prior at prices well below the inflated rates being charged today.

There is absolutely no justification, other than pure greed, for these outrageous increases. There is a huge supply of oil right now in storage tanks all over the nation, oil that was purchased at reasonable rates. Yet the oil companies are taking advantage of the situation and gouging us anyway. It is hurting us in more ways than at the gas pumps, as airline fares are being hiked and the stock market has plunged partially because of it. There are undoubtedly going to be many other direct and indirect negative effects.

When oil prices dropped from $21 per gallon in April to $17 in July, why didn't we see a relative price decrease at the pumps? Greed.

We want to emphasize that we know it is not the individual service station owners, but the oil companies, who are responsible for the price hikes.

It irks us tremendously that the oil companies so brazenly proceed with their ripoff and there seems to be nothing that anyone, including our government, can do about it. While we generally believe that big government should basically keep its hands off business, this is one case where we believe government should come down hard with an iron fist. If new legislation is needed for such action, then let's get it designed and passed.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The article by Jack Slocomb, Coordinator for Environmental and Outdoor Education Programs, in the 7/26/1990 Republican paints an unduly alarming picture of the effects of acid rain.

For example, the article mentions harmful effects on trees. But the federal government's National Acid Precipitation Assessment Program has concluded that the Nation's forests are not generally adversely impacted by acid rain. Only in the highest elevation stands of red spruce where mountain top fog impaction is common is acid rain among the agents even suspected of causing a discernible impact. Such areas are not in Maryland.

For aquatic effects, the article asserts that 10 or 72 streams showed evidence of impaction. However, the National program has found that acid mine drainage is a much stronger contaminant of streams.

None of this is to say that acid rain does not fall in Garrett County. But Garrett Countians need to maintain some perspective about environmental problems. For example, many of us have seen yellow boy, the deposit on stream bottoms which is the unmistakable signature of acid mine drainage. Acid mine drainage is an infinitely more serious problem for our lakes and streams than is acid rain, which looks, feels and tastes like any other rain.

Regarding forests, there is probably not a single reader who has not seen the devastation caused by the gypsy moth. I am particularly moved by a hard hit stretch along Maynadier Ridge Road which has been in my family for three generations before me. The gypsy moth is an infinitely more severe problem for our forests than is acid rain.

But neither acid mine drainage nor the gypsy moth is Garrett County's main environmental problem. That dubious honor probably should be reserved for unreclaimed strip mines.

Nevertheless, if Congress and the President enact the new Clean Air Act, Countians will pay dearly for reducing acid rain. The costs will be passed on to us in the form of higher electric utility bills. Rather than over react to the minimal effects of acid rain, Countians should suggest to President Bush, Representative Byron, and Senators Mikulski and Sarbanes that they set proper priorities and devote our limited resources to important problems.

Sincerely,
Walter L. Warnick, Ph.D.

To the Editor:

Mrs. Perry sounds like the little girl caught with her hand in the cookie jar. In a letter to the media of 5/25/90, Ms. Perry states "There are miles of trails which loop out from Herrington Manor State Park into the State Forest." Now she claims there is no State Forest.

I received my information from a four page letter (including "The Facts" page) sent by the Sierra Club to the cabin renters at Herrington Manor State Park. In this letter it is stated "if the state foresters and the commercial timber interests have their way, logging will be permitted in the recreational areas of our state forests, not just at Herrington Manor but throughout Maryland. Please join with us today in opposing this folly. The state forest adjoining Swallow Falls State Park is slated for logging in the near future."

Fact: There has never been a clear delineation between park and forest at Herrington Manor.

Fact: August, 1985, a buffer/safety zone was established approximately 800 feet from the cabin area. A 150 foot buffer/safety zone was established around the lake area.

I ask Ms. Perry to take the time and read the inscription on the monument at the parking area in Herrington Manor State Park.

Where Ms. Perry and I differ is that I am a conservationist, not a preservationist.

Sincerely,
C.W. Newhall Jr.

To the Editor:

How many people in this county believe that professional politicians are the answer to our political problems? NONE? OK, how many people in this county think Ernie Gregg has done such a good job in the past 12 years he deserves to be on the county payroll for the rest of his life? Oh? You didn't know that if Ernie is successful in his current re-election bid, he becomes eligible for a lifetime county pension? You really didn't know? Well, maybe we can convince his district, the people who keep electing him, to pick up the full tab for his pension, instead of the entire county, but . . . don't hold your breath. In the meantime, keep this happy thought: As Republicans even, we don't owe Ernie Gregg anything! He has been amply recompensed for his "service" to the community, and is presently grasping for more.

"Service" to your community, to most thinking Americans, means giving of one's self; not taking more, and more, and more . . . for dubious "service" rendered. No one who is truly intent on "serving" his community, would put his community in this position without an opportunity for the entire electorate to be heard. Sixteen years as a county commissioner is obscene in the first place, especially when your incumbency has overseen an explosion in the salary of the position in which you "serve". And it makes no difference to most of us that Mr. Gregg, and his colleagues, managed to use a politician's favorite ploy, a "Salary Review Commission," to flim-flam the public, THEY ultimately MUST be held accountable. If their collective goal is a salary commensurate with the "private" sector for time, effort and talent expended, then they should look to that sector for employment. Salary review commissions do not provide license to rip-off your neighbors, they can't afford it, and actually have no need of high paid, "professional" politicians. They have a plethora of highly competent neighbors, ready, willing and able to truly "serve" their communities.

How many people in this county know what Mr. Gregg's salary will be in 1994 (if he is elected for a fourth term in November)? This, of course, is the salary on which his pension will be based. Would you believe me if I told you, almost as much as all three current Allegany County Commissioners are paid annually? It does sound incredible, doesn't it? Especially when you consider you are already paying a county administrator over $40,000 a year, plus his staff, for doing most of the work. Maybe we better plan on asking ol' Ernie, himself, while he's out on the stump, groveling for that one vote that may put him over the top . . . maybe it will be yours that does it. Maybe we should all ask the individual candidates for county commissioner if they plan to accept the present programmed increases in salary through 1994, or if they will pledge before they are elected to work to roll them back . . . or at least give the voters in the entire county the opportunity, which they have never had, to VOTE on whether or not THEY believe their county commissioners, who meet two days a week, are entitled to $28,000 a year, under the present economic circumstances (Allegany County Commissioners are currently paid $12,000 per annum).

We don't have to look to Washington for a political salary grab. We've got one going on right here in the "Happy Highlands!" Let's go for a clean sweep in the upcoming elections. If we can't shoot them ALL down in the "primaries," we'll just have to try harder in November! It's one thing to be taken for a "sucker." It's another thing entirely to act like one. Incumbents MUST be held ACCOUNTABLE! . . . locally and nationally!

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Review . . .

"Our Town" Pleases Our Crowd

by John R. McEwen

Okay. I admit it. I went to this play with a bad attitude. "Our Town," I thought, is such an old standby; it has been done so many times. There's no way this production can offer anything new.

Not so. Under the direction of Jane B. Avery, the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's production of Thornton Wilder's classic is filled with a homey atmosphere and a small town charm that breathes new life into it and makes for a truly enjoyable evening at Garrett Community College.

"Our Town" is a deeply philosophical play about the passage of time and man's inability to notice all that life has to offer, and in this production, the audience is made to feel part of the town population through Avery's use of frequent traffic in the aisles and open invitations to sing along with hymns and to stand during the wedding.

The "stage manager," who serves as the narrator and central character of the play (not to mention creating all the sound effects ranging from a train whistle to various farm animals), is played in a relaxed and comfortable manner by Robert S. Kleinedler. The character's relationship with the audience is that of friend and neighbor, and Kleinedler has an easy way about him that fits perfectly.

Also played excellently is the role of Emily Webb, the schoolgirl who grows up before our eyes, performed by Jennifer Caramella. Caramella gives a touching, believable portrayal of a girl who is forced to deal with life's harshest realities.

Richard Hill also does a fine job as Emily's father, Mr. Webb. Not only is his role played with exquisite subtlety, but Hill was the only cast member I noticed who attempted (succesfully) a New England accent.

Other notable performances are Mrs. Webb by Cindy Wynne, Dr. and Mrs. Gibbs by Sam Sanders and Theda Sanders, respectively, and the Gibbs' son, George, the young man who serves as Emily's suitor.

The set, a sparse but inventive creation by Ben Sincell, features an authentic, working pump organ which is used throughout the play for such things as choir practice and the church service. Otherwise, the set is uncannily useful: as the two or three main pieces are moved about, the setting changes from a family home to a church to a soda shop and back again. The efficiency of this set underscores the simplicity of the town and its people.

Another interesting effect created by Avery is the spooky sound of deceased people's voices at the cemetery.

The only serious trouble last night occurred at the beginning of the third and final act, when some expository dialogue was missed due to the actors' failure to speak up and the sound effect's failure to be turned down.

Overall, "Our Town" provided an enjoyable evening for the large crowd that attended the play's opening. Good show, folks!

The Mind Wanders

Tribute to '70
by Pam Ashby

My palms were sweating. My mouth was dry. My hair was flat and lackluster. My nails were bitten to the quick. My pulse was racing. My face was broken out. My clothes were frumpy. I was a walking wreck and on my way to my 20th class reunion.

They say we dread class reunions because we are smacked in the face with reality. We are suddenly forced to see ourselves as we "are" rather than what we aspired "to be." And although we may be accomplished individuals, there is still that goal or two we never achieved and since most of those goals require youth we probably never will.

Some things never change.

Personally, I kept my expectations low for this gathering of my classmates. That way, if I had a good time at all, it would be a bonus. As it turned out, I had a great time. The class clowns were in rare form. The "remember whens" were heart-warming. The music from our era was super. And since dress ranged from casual to semi-formal, I didn't feel out of place at all in my khaki threads and dock shoes.

Some things never change.

Despite our maturity, some traits remain — good or bad — constant and comforting. I had to laugh when a longtime buddy of mine snickered, "Look at that group over there . . . same old clique."

"Uh, Fredella," I interjected, "Take a look around our table, will ya."

Some things never change.

One classmate of mine that I always admired entered the room and I immediately told her how great she looked.

"You always say that, Pam. You'll never change," she laughed.

But I did mean what I said. I really did. Not only is this woman gorgeous, she's smart and funny and tells it like it is. And I appreciate that.

Some things never change.

For me, the most moving experience of the evening was when the deejay announced that the class homecoming king and queen were present. He had us dance as our royal court joined in. Yes, there they were, Joe and Pam, (Pudgy and Lump) waddling across the dance floor to the strains of a Righteous Brothers' tune.

Some things never change.

Someone at the reunion remarked that we never really were a closeknit class. That myth was dispelled when we all, except for the coolest of the cool, joined hands to waists on the dance floor to form a chain for "The Locomotion." What fun! What a wonderful blending of bankers, nursing aides, lawyers, store clerks, business owners, coal miners, restauranteurs, welders, newspapermen, mechanics, consultants, and school teachers!

Some things never change. Some things never should.

that will place a limit of two terms for our county commissioners. Many others have such a law to limit commissioners from staying in charge of the people's public business for too long.

I believe we have a law to limit our governor to only two terms. There is a law to limit the president to two terms, and there is a movement to limit a U.S. Congressman to two terms. They are needed.

To the Editor:

Under our present Board of Commissioners, our property taxes have more than doubled in 12 years; even on our 50 to 100-year-old homes, and on timber lands, even a year after the timber was removed.

New people coming into the county and building new homes and the substantial increase in the taxable base did not prevent the steady increase on tax on existing property. Owners of old homes got increases in their tax bills as though the new homes of other people had increased the value of their old homes.

Other increases were on old barns, old farm outbuildings, etc. in spite of the new homes and businesses. The assessments and the taxes kept going up on both old and new properties. The taxable base went up steadily, but taxes went up faster.

Our County Commissioners' travelling expenses, were more for pleasure than for county business.

The annual reports as required by law became shorter and revealed less about what the money was spent for. Now it is more difficult to get information on any expense than it was before. The public business of the county has become more the personal business of our elected county commissioners than it used to be.

This is an election year. We have new candidates for two of the three County Commissioner seats, but two will help to bring about some needed changes.

We need a change in the law that will place a limit of two terms for our county commissioners. Many others have such a law to limit commissioners from staying in charge of the people's public business for too long.

I believe we have a law to limit our governor to only two terms. There is a law to limit the president to two terms, and there is a movement to limit a U.S. Congressman to two terms. They are needed.

Clifford Friend

FRIENDS OF THE RUTH ENLOW LIBRARY

by Jack M. Caruthers

E.E. Enlow, his wife, Harriet, and their daughter, Ruth, were people with deep roots in Garrett County, descendants of some of the earliest pioneer families.

Ephraim E. Enlow was born near Thayerville in 1859, on a farm now covered by the waters of Deep Creek Lake. During the Civil War, his family moved to a farm near Friendsville, and he attended a one-room school on Elder Hill. As a young man, he taught for some years in the public schools of Garrett County, and was later Principal of Schools.

In 1889, he married a teacher, Harriet Beachy, daughter of John C. and Christina Beachy, at the home of her aunt in Oakland. The Enlows moved to the warmer climate of California, where Mr. Enlow was a teacher, school principal, and President of the Marin County Board of Education. He was appointed Inspector of Customs at San Francisco in 1892, and worked for the United States Customs Service until his retirement in 1932 as Customs Agent.

Ruth Christine Enlow, the only child of Ephraim and Harriet Enlow, was born in San Francisco on April 11, 1897. After her graduation from Lowell High School in 1915, she attended the University of California, and she received a Bachelor of Arts degree in English with the Class of 1919. A librarian with the San Francisco Public Library for many years, she became Librarian in charge of the Richmond Library, the largest in the city. As Charles E. Hoye wrote after her death on February 7, 1936, Ruth Enlow was a beautiful flower, struck down by an untimely frost. The brightest memorial to this gentle and talented woman is the library that bears her name.

There has been a library in Oakland since 1915, started by the Oakland Civic Club. The Garrett County Free Library was supported by public and private money for many years.

The need for better libraries in the State was recognized by the Maryland General Assembly, and in 1945, funding was provided for county libraries. The Garrett County Commissioners appropriated $4,000 for a county library system in 1946, and the Governor appointed a Board of Library Trustees, headed by Franklin E. Rathbun. In July 1946, the Board of Trustees assumed operation of the Garrett County Free Library, then located in the old Garrett National Bank Building.

In the Summer of 1946, E.E. Enlow, then in his eighty-seventh year, offered to contribute $10,000 to help establish a new library. This generous gift, later increased to $35,000, assured the construction of The Ruth Enlow Library.

Others soon joined in giving to the new library. D. Cal Crim, former Chief of Police in Cincinnati, gave $3,000 after learning of E.E. Enlow's gift. Another $1,000 was given by Charles E. Hoye, and the Oakland-Mountain Lake Park Lions Club raised more than $7,500 in a fund drive.

Work was begun immediately to select a site and choose an architect. Construction began in April 1950, and the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County was dedicated on December 11, 1950. Edith Brock cut a ribbon at the entrance of the building, opening the library to the public.

The first branch of the Ruth Enlow Library opened in Grantsville in 1959, followed by branches in Accident, Friendsville, Kitzmiller, and Finzel. A large addition to The Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland was completed in 1969.

Bookmobile service begun by the Garrett County Free Library covers all of Garrett County, bringing books to those who cannot easily visit a library.

The story of The Ruth Enlow Library is more than just a tale of buildings and books. It is a story of many people and organizations who have given freely of their time and money over the years, and of a courteous and efficient staff.

From small beginnings, The Ruth Enlow Library has grown until it is one of the finest county libraries in the State of Maryland. The Ruth Enlow Library is, as E.E. Enlow hoped it would be, "a place to which you may often repair for a peaceful and profitable hour."

Sines-Murphy To Seek Re-Election On Education Bd.

Mrs. Beverly Sines Murphy, Grantsville, recently announced her candidancy for the Garrett County Board of Education. Currently serving as president of the board, Mrs. Murphy is seeking her third term.

A licensed nurse with twenty-six years experience in various aspects of nursing, she currently works in geriatric nursing. She is a member of the Maryland Association of Boards of Education where she serves on various committees; a former member of the Northern Garrett Republican Women, where she held the office of program chair and vice-president, and she is a member of the Boynton Assembly of God Church.

During the past two terms of office, Mrs. Murphy has also served as vice-president for the school board and has served on the Vocational Advisory Council, Camp Hickory Advisory Committee, Health Advisory Committee, Transportation Advisory Committee and various other board committees. During the past eight years in office, Mrs. Murphy has had perfect attendance at all board meetings.

Mrs. Murphy believes that every youngster in Garrett County should have the opportunity to receive the best education possible, and state that she has "dedicated" herself to this goal. She added, "By investing in the education of young people you are investing in your future."

Mrs. Murphy resides with her husband, Marvin R. and their sons Marvin Glen and Michael.

Mtn. Lake Park Man Pleads Guilty To Drug Charge

A Mtn. Lake Park man pleaded guilty and was found guilty by Judge Jack Turney of a drug charge against him in District Court proceedings last week.

Clayton L. Donham, 33, was found guilty of possession of a controlled dangerous substance. Earlier charges of possession of drug paraphernalia and driving while suspended were not prosecuted.

Donham was initially charged by the Maryland State Police during a traffic stop on April 21.

Local Churches Feed Visiting Habitat Workers

What does it take to feed 54 people for one week? A number of Garrett County residents know. They are the people from various area churches who helped prepare and serve meals during a recent Habitat for Humanity work camp.

Like Virginia Groves of St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland — she and 40 other volunteers were at the church at 6 a.m. each morning to cook and serve breakfast for the campers. According to Ms. Groves, all the food was donated by church members and area merchants.

"We received 40 lbs. of sausage from Yoders', 75 sweet rolls from Goehringer's, 14 loaves of bread from the Hometown Market, as well as 36 dozen eggs and $234 in cash donations. We had wonderful cooperation from everyone, she said.

While breakfast was being served at St. Paul's Church, across the street at St. Peter's another group of volunteers were packing box lunches for the work campers to take to the job sites.

Four other churches provided dinners for the group. They were the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, Oak Park Church of the Brethren, Oak Grove Church of the Brethren, and Swanton United Methodist Church. On Wednesday evening, the work campers were treated to a picnic and outing at Deep Creek Lake State Park, where food was provided by Habitat Board members.

After their week in the area, during which they did rehabilitation and repair work on a number of homes, the work campers returned to their homes in other counties and other states, convinced that among Garrett County's wealth of natural resources are "its many wonderful cooks," according to one of the visiting volunteers.

CIVIC CLUB BEGINS RECYCLING PROGRAM — The Oakland Civic Club has now begun an ongoing aluminum and glass recycling program, the first one having taken place at their regular July meeting at Will O' the Wisp. A total of 45 pounds of aluminum and 240 pounds of glass was collected during the club's first effort in this ongoing project. Shown above are two of the participating club members, Sue Spence, left, and Faye Denison, right. In conjunction with the recycling program, Dr. Gail Herman, guest speaker, reported to the group that she will conduct a "Stories for Environmental and Global Awareness Conference" on September 22. The club is also in the process of planning its annual antique show at the National Guard Armory during Autumn Glory.

Grantsville Man Among Crew Selected To Fight Fire In Oregon

Maryland will be sending a 20-man fire crew west to East Oregon to fight forest fires, according to a spokesman from the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service. Representing the western region of the state will be Owen Handwerk, Grantsville, a veteran forest firefighter.

The crew will depart Harrisburg, Pa., for Malheur National Forest along with three other crews from Pennsylvania and New Jersey. The U.S. Forest Service, Radnor, Pa., conducts the organization of fire crews from this region of the United States.

Each group of firefighters is prepared to stay two or three weeks. Forest Service administrators are certain a second crew will be sent.

Because of an unusually high number of lightning strikes without rain, western states are experiencing a rash of forest fires. States experiencing forest fires this season include Northern California, Nevada, Washington, Utah, Idaho and Oregon.

Over the past three years, regional firefighting crews have been sent to Idaho, North Dakota, Montana, Northern California, and Yellowstone National Park.

Work Progressing On New Wing Of Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home

Enlarged social areas, a new dining room, fewer beds per room and increased office and storage space are some of the benefits Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home in Grantsville will derive by expansion now underway at the Dorsey Hotel Road facility.

According to Goodwill Administrator Henry Diller, two new wings costing $1,250.000 will add 19,610 square feet to the institution, eliminating the need for more than two beds per room, affording a larger number of private rooms than are now available, and permitting the home to offer private luxury suites for the first time.

When the new wings open for operation in October, some areas of the original structure will be temporarily vacated, then remodeled into apartments for "assisted living," whereby the home will provide supervised assistance for more-independent residents who would not oridinarily require full institutionalization.

Diller also indicated that the Goodwill Retirement Community, initiated three years ago as a series of duplex apartment units physically separate from the original Goodwill building, remains an ongoing project, with several units now fully functional.

Goodwill Home, a non-profit corporation, currently operates with 81 beds. Its board of directors consists of non-paid volunteers from four area Mennonite churches: Cherry Glade in Accident/Bittinger; Maple Glen, Grantsville; Oakdale, Salisbury, Pa.; and Boynton, also in Pennsylvania.

CONSTRUCTION OF A NEW WING is now underway at Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home in Grantsville. The $1.25 million expansion will add nearly 20,000 square feet of new space to the institution. Goodwill Home, currently an 81-bed facility, is operated by a non-profit corporation. Photo by Craig Speicher.

have been ignited by a battery charger, or possibly an air compressor that activates automatically from time to time.

Deep Creek firemen were called back to the scene at 4:19 p.m. Friday after the blaze rekindled. They remained until 5:30 p.m.

Carola said the Bowmans had some insurance on the building and that much of the new equipment on display was insured by the distributor.

Don Bowman stated that he is planning to be back in business in a temporary building in a few weeks and plans to rebuild next spring. He said that any persons who had equipment in his shop either for repair of service should contact hime at 387-4600 as soon as possible so that the loss can be included in the insurance settlement.

State, County Jobless Rates Rise In June

Seasonal conditions such as students and summer workers entering the labor force caused the state's estimated unemployment rate to rise from 3.2 percent in May to 4.0 percent in June 1990, according to statistics released by the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED).

The increase in Maryland's jobless rate followed the national estimate, which rose from 5.1 percent in May to 5.3 percent in June. The state's rate for June is the same as in June 1989.

In Garrett County, the rate also increased from 6.0 percent in May to 7.8 percent in June. The June 1989 jobless rate was 7.3 percent.

From May to June, state employment declined by 8,200 people and unemployment increased by 18,600 workers. The state's labor force rose to 2,551,171 workers during June.

J. Randall Evans, secretary of DEED, said, "We are catching up with the national employment trends. Unemployment was unusually low and employment unusually high in the state during the first five months of this year."

There were seasonal employment gains in construction, eating and drinking places, hotels, amusements and agricultural services. There was also additional hiring in food stores and in health, business and legal services.

The estimated jobless rate rose from 3.5 percent in May to 4.3 percent in June in the Baltimore metropolitan area. Baltimore City's rate climbed from 5.6 percent to 6.7 percent. Unemployment rose in the remaining counties of the area due to layoffs in manufacturing, education and educational services.

In the D.C. suburbs of Maryland, unemployment rose from 2.4 percent in May to 3.1 percent in June. In Prince George's County, the increase raised the umemployment rate to 3.7 percent, up from May's 2.9 percent.

Western Maryland's unemployment rate reached 6.6 percent compared to 5.0 percent the previous month. Labor force expansion caused more joblessness in Garrett County, while temporary layoffs in Allegany and Washington counties push up unemployment rates.

Garrett County's labor force rose from 13,440 in May to 13,685 in June. There were 803 persons without jobs in May, compared to 1,062 in June.

The only region in Maryland to show increased employment over the period was the balance of state. In Somerset County, seafood harvesting and agricultural activity helped to ease unemployment to a level of 9.7 percent, down from May's 10 percent. In Worcester County, Tourism-related industries continued to generate jobs.

Locally, unemployment rates during June ranged from 2.2 percent in Howard County to 9.7 percent in Somerset County.

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Officers and Nobility of Ali Ghan Temple, we would like to thank every one who contributed to make the 18th Annual East/West Shrine Football Classic Saturday, July 21, a success.

The high school players, queens, cheerleaders and coaches all deserve a great deal of credit for giving up their vacation time to participate in the game. Their participation truly makes this high school footballs "finest hour."

A special thank you to Kimberly Grimm, Miss Maryland; Jennifer Winslow, Miss Washington County; Gina Paxton, Miss Allegany County; and Nikki Ringler, Miss Cumberland, whose attendance gave additional beauty and grace to the pageantry.

We would like to express our thanks to all the advertisers, boosters, newspapers, radio and TV who by their support will help many crippled and burned children through our 19 orthopedic hospitals and burn institutes.

We especially thank the fans who turned out and made this game such a great event for our philantrophy as well as the local sport scene.

The entire proceeds of this game will be contributed to the Shrine hospitals. Through the years the Ali Ghan East/West Classic has generated over $100,000 for this charity.

Shrine Hospitals Services are available to crippled or burned children up to 18 years of age and regardless of race, color or creed.

Any person knowing of any child in need of medical assistance may get further information by contacting Ali Ghan Temple (301) 722-5970, calling our national (toll free) number, 1-800-237-5055, or contacting any Shriner.

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the many wonderful people of Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park who honored me with my own special day on June 21, 1990. I would especially like to thank the Garrett County Commissioners and Governor William Donald Schaefer, Delegate George Edwards, Oakland Mayor Asa McCain and town council and Mtn. Lake Park Mayor Dave Turney and town council for their special letters. Also special thanks to Father Martin Feild for his thoughtful words.

Words can't express the appreciation I feel for the many gifts I received at the reception. What a welcome home I enjoyed thanks to the efforts of Lois Martin and Mary Lou Stemple who put together the caravan and reception. What a thrill seeing signs in so many places of business.

The Southern Cheerleaders were great and I wear the special jersey with pride.

To all the beautiful people on the parade route who took time to wave, thank you. To all the people who came out to spend the afternoon with me, I'll never forget you.

I am very proud to be "Miss Maryland 1990" and very proud to be from Garrett County. All the phone calls, flowers and balloons brightened my days. They have helped me to work harder to be the best I can be on September 8 in Atlantic City for the Miss America Pageant.

I know I have a lot of support going to the pageant. I hope my friends who can't be there will watch it on television.

God Bless each and everyone,
Kimberly A. Grimm

Various Arrests Are Reported By Sheriff's Dept.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department reported a variety of charges this week, including telephone fraud and a false report to a police officer.

Mark L. Paugh, 29, Elk Garden, W.Va., was charged with 10 counts of theft following an investigation by the Sheriff's Department concerning fraudulent long distance calls.

Paugh allegedly placed several operator assisted calls from a pay phone in the Garrett County Detention Center, where he is being held awaiting trial for traffic charges. The calls, which were all to Keyser, W.Va., had been billed to various Kitzmiller and Elk Garden residences. According to reports, Paugh posed as a family member and coerced the residents to accept the charges.

Paugh is incarcerated at the Garrett County Jail on $2000 bond.

In a separate case, Michael A. Crosby, 24, Deer Park, was charged for driving a demolition derby car on the highway. Reportedly, Deputy J. Sowers was traveling on Steyer Mine Road to answer a complaint when he spotted Crosby's vehicle on the highway. Upon investigation, Sowers discovered several violations and charged Crosby with driving an unregistered, uninsured, and unsafe vehicle, and driving with a suspended and revoked license.

Paugh was released from the Garrett County Jail after posting $250 bond.

Sincle A. Brown, 27, Mountain Lake Park, was charged with making a false report to a police officer. Brown reportedly told police in the early hours of August 7 that his vehicle had been hit in the parking lot of L.A. Joe's on Weber road. After an investigation by Deputy Sines, it was discovered the damage did not occur in the lot, and Brown was charged with making a false report.

Zada Tovey, 50, Loch Lynn, was arrested on the strength of five bench warrents for failing to pay fines to the Garrett County District Court. The original charges were all for DWI, and the total amount in fines owed by Tovey was $1415.

James L. House, 28, Friendsville, was arrested on August 4 on a body attachment from the circuit court. He is incarcerated at the Garrett County Jail awaiting a bond hearing.

Two men were arrested following an incident at Wolfe's Apartments in Mountain Lake Park on July 31. Woodrow H. Tasker, 45, Mountain Lake Park, was charged by Sgt. D. Tucker for reckless endangerment, disturbance of the peace, and disorderly conduct.

Tasker allegedly threatened Timothy W. Beeman, 27, with a gun during a dispute between the two men. Beeman, also of Mountain Lake Park, was arrested on an assault charge after Deputy D. Welch witnessed him kicking Tasker. Beeman also brought a charge of assault against Tasker, and Tasker brought the same charge against Beeman.

Tasker was released from jail after posting a $2500 bond. Beeman was released on his own recognizance, according to the Sheriff's office.

Squad.

Tpr. W.E. Dixon investigated the accident and charged Ervin with driving while intoxicated, driving while revoked, driving an unregistered vehicle, driving an uninsured vehicle, driing on a restricted license, and negligent driving.

Charges are pending involving the second vehicle.

A 12-year-old Keyser, W.Va. boy was seriously injured Saturday in a two-car mishap that occurred on U.S. Route 48 near Finzel. Four other persons were also treated for minor injuries in the 1:05 p.m. accident.

William Keister was taken to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, by Frostburg Rescue personnel and admitted to the intensive care unit there. It was learned this morning that the boy has since been released from the hospital and is recuperating at home.

Also treated for injuries at Memorial was Joshua Nash, 12, Rawlings, who was later released.

Treated at Sacred Heart Hospital and released were Susan Shafiei, 35, Cumberland, and her two children, Bobak, eight, and Rameen, five.

According to State Police at the McHenry Barrack, the accident occurred when a 1984 Plymouth Horizon, operated by Margaret Keister, 43, Keyser, W.Va., was stopped, facing west, in the middle lane of U.S. Route 48. Her vehicle was struck in the rear by a 1990 Toyota Camry, operated by Susan Shafiei.

The Keister vehicle had apparently had mechanical problems and had stalled in the highway, said police.

The accident remains under investigation by Tpr. S.W. Vincent.

Volunteer firefighters from Shaft, Frostburg, Eastern Garrett and rescue squads from Frostburg, LaVale and Northern Garrett responded to the accident scene, according to Allegany County Civil Defense.

A Grantsville woman was injured last Wednesday, August 1, in a two vehicle collision at the intersection of Lower New Germany and Avilton-Lonaconing roads, according to State Police reports.

Mary Warnick, a passenger in a car driven by Garland Wilt Jr., 22, Grantsville, was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital by Northern Rescue Squad where she was treated and later released.

Police reports stated that Wilt was traveling north on the Avilton-Lonaconing Road when a 1986 Ford Ranger operated by Sherry Stakem, 26, Frostburg, pulled from Lower New Germany Road into the path of the Wilt car.

The Stakem vehicle reportedly overturned upon impact, said police.

A passenger in the Stakem vehicle, Sue Ann Buehler, 32, Frostburg, was not injured in the 8:05 p.m. mishap.

Stakem was charged with running a stop sign by State Police.

Two people sustained minor injuries Friday when two cars collided head-on at the intersection of the Oakland-Sang Run and Mayhew Inn roads.

Susan Mattucci, 47, and David Mattucci, 12, Baltimore, were treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the 1:36 p.m. mishap, according to hospital officials.

Both the injured were passengers in the 1989 Oldsmobile driven by Alessio Matucci, 51, also of Baltimore.

Police said that Matucci was west on the Mayhew Inn Road when he ran the stop sign and struck a vehicle operated by Rosalie Baker, 62, Oakland, which was north on the Oakland-Sang Run Road.

Baker, and her passenger Arthelia Dixon, 67, Oakland, were apparently not injured.

Oakland Splits Doubleheader With Hyndman; Playoffs Set For Weekend

Oakland split a doubleheader with Hyndman this past week and remained in second place in the Pen-Mar Baseball League standings with a 14-6 record. The Oaks were to play a doubleheader with Cumberland at Allegany Community College on Sunday, but the contest was rained out.

League officials voted Tuesday evening to cut the regular season short by at least two games and hold the league playoffs this weekend at two Cumberland fields. Oakland is slated to play Hyndman and Tri-Towns will face Cumberland in 12:30 p.m. nine-inning contests. The two winners will then meet at 3:30 for a nine-inning game at ACC to begin a best-of-three championship series. The series will continue Sunday at 2 p.m., also at ACC, and if a third game is necessary, it will be played 20 minutes after the conclusion of the first game. Both Sunday contests will be seven innings.

Both ends of the twinbill at Hyndman on Saturday went eight innings, with the host team emerging a 2-1 winner in the first game and Oakland taking an 8-6 win in the nightcap.

Oakland's Rod Cooper and Devon Hosselrode, of Hyndman, went head-to-head on the mound and did not allow a run until the bottom of the sixth inning when Mike Mathews walked, stole second, went to third on an error, and came home on a single by Grant Crawford to give Hyndman a 1-0 lead.

The Oaks responded in the top of the seventh with a solo homer by D.G. Largent to force the contest into an extra inning.

Hyndman won the game in the bottom of the eighth when Bobby Kendall was hit by a pitch, stole second, and came home on a one-out single by Mathews.

Hosselrode allowed five hits, struck out eight, and yielded four walks in gaining the win, while Cooper gave up six hits, fanned two, and also walked four.

Tony Warner tripled and Ryan Harman recorded two singles to pace Oakland's hitting. Six different Hyndman players each had a single.

Oakland opened the second game by taking a 4-0 lead and held that advantage until the fourth inning when Hyndman scored all six of its runs on an RBI single by Kevin Robison and two-run doubles by Matt Logsdon and Crawford.

Oakland tied the score with two runs in the top of the fifth and the score stayed at 6-6 until the top of the eighth when Largent led off with a double and scored the winning run on a triple by Dean Marsico. Marsico, who also had a homer in the first inning, then came home on a throwing error for the final run.

Jim Farkas went the distance for Oakland, giving up seven hits and striking out nine, while the Oakland offense recorded 13 hits. Besides Marsico's homer and triple, Ed Wildesen finished with two doubles, Harman added a double and a single, and Warner and Cooper each rapped a pair of singles.

Kendall recorded two singles and Logsdon and Crawford each stroked a double for Hyndman.

grant/loan was only one of three given throughout the State of Maryland. The grant/loan, which was announced in May, alleviated the need to continue to make this part of the original funding requested of Garrett County Commissioners.

The State Interagency for Public School Construction (IAC) late last week approved various construction contracts which will now enable contractors to proceed with the renovation of over 108,000 square feet and the construction of approximately 19,000 square feet of new space at the Southern facility. Contractors are expected to be moving on site within the next two to three-week period to pick up where the asbestos removal project left off and in order to remain on schedule with the project plans.

The architect for the project, Gandee and Associates of Charleston, W.Va., assured the Board of Education at their last meeting that as long as work can begin by mid-August, the renovated Southern High School facility will be ready for student occupancy by September 1991.

LEGION TEAM CONCLUDES SEASON — The Garrett County Junior American Legion baseball team, which competes in the Mountain District, concluded its 1990 season recently with an 11-10 record. Coached by Ed Wildesen, the squad is composed of players from several area high schools. The team narrowly missed winning the second half of the season, which would have put them in contention for the Maryland championships. Pictured left to right, kneeling, are Jeff See, of Moorefield High School; Charlie Plauger, Garth Glotfelty, and Shawn Ryan, Southern High School; Chad Sines, Northern High School; Ryan Harman, Petersburg High School; and Brett Rice, Southern. Standing, same order, are Kevin Combs and Brian Free, Hampshire High School; Ritchie Baldwin and Randall Ours, Moorefield; Kevin Green, Southern; D.G. Largent, Hampshire; Britten Martin, Southern; and Dave Yoder, Northern. Pictured below are the only three players who will not be returning to the team next year, as their eligibility for the league ended with the 1990 season.

Wildesen Reflects On 1990 Season Of Garrett County Legion Team

The Garrett County Junior American Legion baseball team wrapped up its season last week, concluding the 1990 campaign with an overall 11-10 record and just missing a spot in the Mountain District playoffs. The team, composed of youth representing five area high schools, is coached by Ed Wildesen, who commented this week on the season and his players.

The final roster consisted of Kevin Green, Charlie Plauger, Shawn Ryan, Garth Glotfelty, Britten Martin, and Brett Rice, all of Southern High School; Dave Yoder, Northern High School Ryan Harman, Petersburg High School; Jeff See, Ritchie Baldwin, and Randall Ours, Moorefield High School; and D.G. Largent, Kevin Combs, and Brian Free, Hampshire High School.

Largent led the team in offensive stats, finishing with a .410 average despite going 0-for-5 in the last game. Largent had 32 hits in 78 at-bats, including two home runs and nine doubles. He struck out only seven times, three of which were in the final game.

Combs went 29-for-74 at the plate for a .392 average, Yoder also hit .392 with a 22-for-58 effort, See batted .379 (22-for-56), Green finished at .342 and led the team in home runs with three, Plauger hit .289, and Harman recorded a season average of .270.

Harman and See were the team's top pitchers, finishing with records of 6-3 and 4-0, respectively. Harman had 66 strikeouts in over 70 innings, while See recorded 26 in 28 and a third innings.

"Going into the season, I really thought we would be heading to the state tournament," Wildesen said. "But several factors entered into why we stayed home, the main one being that we just didn't get the breaks. Baseball is often a game of inches and we lost several games by inches."

Wildesen said that one of the reasons his team didn't get some key breaks was the fact that six of his 14 players were new to Legion baseball and his entire infield was brand new. He also added that some of his players' attendance at games could have been better.

Players with perfect attendance at games were Glotfelty, Martin, Plauger, Ryan, Green, and, despite having to drive from Romney, W.Va., Largent and Combs.

Wildesen then commented on several key players this season.

He said Brian Free of Hampshire, who missed only three games, and Shawn Ryan each saw limited playing time, but were the two most vocal players on the field. "These guys always gave 110 percent and because of their desire, determination, and commitment, they are a big part of our plans for 1991. The players who left us before the season was over could learn from these two," Wildesen said.

Wildesen called Jeff See one of the few first-year Legion players who come into the league and make an immediate impact. "Most players take a year to get accustomed to this type of baseball, but Jeff stepped in and played as if he had been playing for years. Replacing him as a pitcher and a lead-off hitter will be difficult," said Wildesen.

Dave Yoder was described by Wildesen as "probably our most intelligent player." Yoder was one of the team's top two hitters before he had to miss four games. "He was really attacking the ball and hitting it hard," Wildesen said. "Missing those games really set him back."

After being a part-time player in 1989, Kevin Green was one of the team's top hitters this season, batting fourth in the line-up. Charlie Plauger followed a similar pattern, having not played much at all last year as a junior at Southern High School and then rising to become the Legion team's number two hitter this year. "These two young men need to be commended for their hard work. They got together and hit the ball all the time, every chance they had. It obviously paid off," Wildesen said.

Kevin Combs and Ryan Harman will be four-year veterans for Wildesen next season. "Not too many can claim to be four-year, full-time Legion players," Wildesen noted. "Not only do they drive great distances to play, but they also bring multiple talents. Both can hit, run, and play anywhere on the field except catcher."

Receiving the most praise from Wildesen was D.G. Largent, about whom he said, "Without a doubt, without D.G., there would be no Garrett Legion program," he said. "I remember when D.G. caught both games of a doubleheader in Cumberland in 1988, because we had only eight players there. It was 95 degrees.

"D.G. has been our glue for three years. His only problem is that sometimes his intensity gets in the way of his talents. But this young man has truly spoiled me and I will miss him."

The immediate future looks quite bright for Wildesen and his team, as 11 of the 14 players from this season will return, including the entire infield, plus pitchers Harman, Baldwin, Rice, and Combs.

"Ritchie was a true factor in our success this year," Wildesen noted. "Often relievers don't get the attention they deserve."

Wildesen will be looking hard for a catcher and a new team leader to replace Largent. "I have been fortunate to have probably the most dominating player in the Mountain District in each of my three years as coach," Wildesen said, "Aaron Zumpano in 1988, Rod Cooper in 1989, and D.G. this year. Ryan Harman, Kevin Green, and Kevin Combs will all have a year of college experience next year, so they are certainly the top candidates.

"But they you have Brett Rice, Ritchie Baldwin, and Randall Ours entering their third year together, so it could be one of them. We will just have to wait and see."

Wildesen also extended his appreciation to his assistant coaches, Mike Brady and Phil Carr.

"We had a special group of players this year," Wildesen said. "When we lost to Western-port and were eliminated from a shot at the league title, we still had one game to play with Frostburg. When we asked the kids if they wanted to play, not one of them hesitated. They immediately said yes. I think that says it all about Garrett Legion baseball players."

Wildesen concluded, "We play in a very tough and balanced district. While other districts send the same team to the state tournament year after year, our district has sent three different teams the last three years (Cumberland, Garrett, and Frostburg). Each team has won at least two games in the tournament."

Frostburg won two and lost two this year, and were elminiated by Mayo this week.

185 Campers Meet For Eleventh Year At Camp Agape

For the eleventh consecutive year, children, youth and adults assembled at the North Glade area of Deep Creek Lake from July 30 through August 3 to participate in a day camp experience at Camp Agape. Some 185 campers and staff from 17 different churches from Swanton, Bloomington, Kitzmiller, Deer Park, Oakland, and McHenry participated in the week-long camp activities.

The camp's theme was "Discovering God and Experiencing His Love," and activities offered included hiking, singing, crafts, fishing, recreational games, Bible study and worship.

The camp director, Mrs. Linda Fleming, explained that the philosophy of Camp Agape, which she stated has remained constant since the camp's conception in 1980, is "that each child should have the opportunity to discover this great world that God created for him. He should have the opportunity to express his love for God and His world."

Fleming expressed her gratitude to the adult staff volunteers, and has also announced that a camp evaluation meeting for all staff and their families will be held Friday, August 10, at the camp at 6:00 pm. A covered dish picnic dinner will be held prior to the meeting.

STREETWORK IN GRANTSVILLE — New storm water drains, catch basins, and curbing are presently being constructed in downtown Grantsville, a project that will culminate with the repaving of Main Street. The photo above shows both the original and new curb, which has reduced the street width on west Main Street. The space between the old sidewalk and new curb may be used by the town for the planting of shrubs and/or trees. Below, a machine known as a curber is being "fed" by a cement truck. Funded by a state grant, the work is slated to be completed by the end of summer. Photos by Craig Speicher.

FOOD POISONING BACTERIA

Bacteria in food causing flu-like symptoms last from a few hours to a few days. Those organisms, microscopic in size, are in human and animal digestive tracts, the air, soil and water. They mulitiply rapidly when conditions are favorable causing serious food poisoning (as the previous article explained, botulism is a serious exception). It is our job to avoid and prevent those "favorable conditions."

Staph (staphylococcus aureus) infection is spread by food handlers. It is on the skin, sores, throat infection. At warm temperatures, it produces a poison causing vomiting and diarrhea two to eight hours after eating. It lasts one to two days.

Salmonella may be in infected meat, poultry, eggs and fish that is eaten raw or undercooked. Recontamination is possible when cooked food comes in contact with contaminated utensils, food or an infected person. In 12-36 hours, you could have diarrhea, fever and vomiting, lasting 2-7 days.

Clostridium perfringens grows rapidly in large portions of food that are cooling slowly, heating too slowly and kept at temperatures between 40 degrees F. and 140 degrees F. Most foods are susceptible. Within 8-24 hours diarrhea and gas pain set in. It will end in less than a day, but older people and ulcer patients can be badly affected.

Campylobacter jejuni is found in untreated water on outings or in raw or undercooked meat, poultry or shellfish. If your pet is infected, he can spread it to the whole family. Symptoms appearing in 2-5 days are (possibly bloody) diarrhea, stomach cramps, fever and headache and lasts 2-7 days.

Prevention of the above infections is often self-evident. The following is a summary of safe food handling tips that should always be observed. If they become a habit, the occasions of unexplained diarrhea, vomiting and "flu-like symptoms" will rarely happen.

Cooking does not destroy staph poison. So wash hands and utensils before preparing food. Do not leave food out over two hours. Keep raw food away from cooked food. Do not use one utensil for both. Thoroughly cook meat, poultry and fish. Keep hot foods over 140 degrees F. and cold foods under 40 degrees F. Divide bulk foods for faster cooling and heating. Don't drink untreated water or unpasteurized milk.

Suspect foods are meat, poultry, and salads with meat, cheese and egg products. Also potato, macaroni, pasta and tuna salads, custards and cream-filled desserts.

Be cautious of any off flavor, color, consistency (also in canned goods). Be alert to food handlers practicing good hygiene having no infections, coughs, or open sores.

You may want to post this article where all family members can see it as a reminder of good food handling practice. For an official copy to post in community kitchens, restaurants, etc., please contact Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Extension Agent, Home Economic, 202 S. Third Street, Oakland, MD, 21550, Phone 334-1990.

Lions Donate To Community In Various Ways

The Oakland-Mountain Lake Park Lions Club recently presented checks totaling $1000 each to the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad and the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department. The Lions made the donations while meeting at Broadford Park and working on the pavilion and playground equipment.

"We're always happy to help the volunteer organizations which devote so much time to our health and safety," said Lions President Gary Shafer. "Part of our charge is spending the funds we raise to make our community a better place to live."

In addition to recenty approving large donations for Hospice of Garrett County, Habitat for Humanity, and the Lions Quest Skills for Adolescence programs, the Club has devoted many manhours to improving Broadford Park, the Garrett County Fairgrounds, and the Southern Athletic Complex.

The Lions will spend the coming week at the Garrett County Fair, selling chicken dinners. "It's one of our main fund raising activities, so we hope everyone who enjoys the fair will enjoy a chicken dinner and help the community," concluded Shafer.

Bridge Project

closed during construction. He noted that there are "adequate detour routes available around the lake" to handle the Glendale traffic.

When Montgomery was questioned about the existing pier's structural soundness, he explained that the state "programs" bridge substructures to last for 100 years and their superstructures to last 70 years. He noted that the Casselman Bridge is a good example of "a very old bridge," (170 years old) which is still in excellent condition and which could withstand heavy traffic.

Recent testing of the Glendale Bridge pier, he said, has indicated "a safe and sound structure" that should last another 60-65 years after rehabilitation. He also noted, "I have to add that in 65 years, I'm not sure we'll all be driving automobiles."

Ed King, who served in an engineering capacity for 24 years with the American Bridge division of U.S. Steel and four years with U.S. Steel Corporation, told The Republican this morning that while he agreed the pier would last an approximate 65 years, the superstructure of the bridge is one which is designed to last four to five hundred years and he, therefore, did not understand the logic of building it over such a short-lived substructure.

Montgomery also stated that while the present bridge alignment will remain the same, new approach road curves would be used making the bridge safer and drivers more able to see from one end to the other.

Commissioner Elwood L. Groves II stated, "While we recognize that it is preferable to go with the new alignment bridge, we cannot afford the $1.6 million in addition to the $3.4 million we're going to invest."

Early this week a letter was sent to Maryland Department of Transportation Secretary Richard H. Trainer requesting the possiblity of obtaining additional funds but the Board of Commissioners has directed Garrett County Roads Department Administrator Paul R. Shockey to continue with the old alignment bridge plan in the interim.

Construction of the bridge is scheduled to begin in March of next year.

Child Support

crease in amount of child support collections, Shaffer said, is the expanding ability of the local department to tap into the various forms of income of the absent parents. New laws enacted in recent years enable the department to obtain an automatic wage lien against any parent who is 30 days behind in making his/her child support payments. A wage lien results in the child support payment being withheld from the paycheck of the parent, and forwarded to the Department of Social Services. Other means of collection include the interception of state or federal tax refunds of the absent parent, and even the interception of lottery winnings.

Anyone who desires more information about the child support services of the local department may telephone Hilda Rowan at 334-5444.

used most of it in the past. The strategy in burning the low volatile coal is simply to save money, he said, adding that the market has consistently discounted low volatile coals in the last three years, compared to the similar higher volatile Btu coals. He said NEPCO wanted to utilize low volatile coals to the fullest.

In comparing the new contract price of the Alpine coal with the previous shorter-term Alpine purchases, Hoch said that market prices in general have increased some three to five dollars per ton over the past year, depending on the producer. Low volatile coal prices, though discounted one to three dollars per ton, have followed the same tract, Hoch said.

The contract is scheduled to begin this month, and continue through December, 1994.

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

BIGOTRY AND RACISM HAVE NO PLACE IN MARYLAND
by Governor William Donald Schaefer

During the last few months I have been extremely disturbed to read reports of incidents within our state that appear to have racial or religious overtones. As governor of Maryland, and also as a citizen who has lived in the Free State for many years, I am angry and ashamed that such events could occur within our state.

Bigotry and racism have no place in Maryland.

We will not condone defamation of our churches and synagogues. We will not tolerate racial or ethnic prejudice and discrimination against any citizen.

I want to strongly encourage every Marylander to speak out against these intolerable incidents and against the prejudices that feed them. More than in any other area, I believe that this is a place where every individual must take complete responsibility for his or her own actions.

Fairness and equality in our state and in our nation begins in my home and my neighborhood and in your home and your neighborhood. By failing to speak out, by ignoring warning signs of trouble and prejudice, each of us condones these intolerable and inexcusable acts.

The great majority of these hateful incidents have been impersonal attacks on groups or institutions. Prejudice depersonalizes anger and discrimination. Yet it is the individual, the person who suffers from bigotry, not the group. A synagogue which has been defamed is the home to individuals – caring, devoted people who come each Saturday with their children and their family to worship.

A black teenager who is attacked because he is out of his own neighborhood or because he is with a white girl is no less a unique individual. He is a son who mows the yard on Saturdays or a student who works part time to buy a car. These are special people just like you and me. I am ashamed and angry that we have forgotten that.

There are several organizations within the state which are working to end racism and bigotry which citizens may want to support. The Coalition Opposed to Violence and Extremism (COVE), whose members include representatives from educational and business groups from state and local jurisdictions and law enforcement agencies, and from human relations councils, works to prevent problems before they happen.

By staying in close touch with local community leaders, the coalition tries to identify trouble spots and intercede before problems develop. COVE works on many fronts – education, lobbying, monitoring – but perhaps they are most effective working with local communities to help respond to hate and violence incidents. For more information about the coalition and ways they can help, call 301-762-2630.

The Maryland State Commission on Human Relations and the local human relations commissions located in most counties are often key players in diffusing racial and ethnic incidents in the state. In addition to their educational programs, the commissions investigate and evaluate complaints involving racial, ethnic, and religious incidents. They try to resolve the problems through counseling and discussion but may also take legal action.

Racial or religious incidents can be reported to the Maryland Commission on Human Relations, 301-333-1747, or to your local human relations commission.

The solution to the problem of racism and bigotry is deceptively simple. It's a matter of looking behind the label, reaching out to the person. No matter the skin color or the religion or the ethnic background, people are far more alike than different. We share the same hopes and the same needs and the same concerns. That's my request to you. Get to know your neighbor — as a person and as a Marylander.

As always, I welcome your comments and your ideas. Write to me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, The State House, Annapolis, MD 21401.

Thank You . . .

We would like to thank the Deep Creek Lake and Bittinger Fire Departments, the Department of Natural Resources, and all others for the team performance and professionalism shown at the boat dock fire at Glen Acres.

Even though there was property loss, with your cooperation, much loss was averted.

Our sincere thanks goes to all concerned.

MAN MULE POLITICIAN

The following comes, in part (I have added some of my own philosophy) from "pills, petticoats and plows"; a collection of thoughts, meanderings, etc. My hillside plow days started in 1932.

There are still numerous farmers who can remember following a horse, mule or a team of mules or horses from daylight until dark during their early days of farming. I am sure they have philosophized to their mules as the following farmer did on a long hot day while plowing in the fields.

"Bill, you are just a mule, the son of a jackass, and I am a man made in the image of God. Yet here we work hitched up together year after year. I often wonder if you work for me or I work for you. I think it is a partnership between a mule and a fool for I work as hard as you, if not harder. Plowing, we cover the same distance, but you do it on four legs and I on two. Therefore I do twice as much as you."

"Soon we will be preparing for a corn crop. When the corn is harvested I give one-third to the landlord for being so kind as to let me use a small speck of God's earth. One-third goes to you. The rest is mine."

"You consume all your portion, while I divide mine among my children, a flock of chickens, hens, one rooster, two ducks and a storekeeper. If we both need shoes, you get 'em. You are getting the best of me and I ask you is it fair for a mule, the son of a jackass, to swindle a man, the lord of creation, out of his substance, as if you were a politician with a slick tongue and dishonest ways."

"Why, you only help to plow and cultivate the ground, and I alone must cut, shuck and husk the corn while you look over the pasture fence and hee-haw at me. Like the politician who stopped by last month. While here he wanted to look at my flock of hens then when my back turned, sucked all of the hens early morning eggs, then went down the road laughing knowing he took me before even getting an office. Bill, all fall and most of the winter the whole family cuts wood, shells nuts to help raise enough money to pay taxes and buy a new set of harness, while you stay in the barn and do nothing."

"About the only time I am your better is on election day, for I can vote and you can't. After election I realize that I was fully as big a jackass as you. I am prone to wonder if politics were made for a man or a jackass, or to make jackasses out of men. And that ain't all, Bill. When you are dead, that's supposed to be the end of you. The preacher tells me that when I die I may go to hell forever, that is Bill, if I don't do just as they say. And most of what they say keeps me from getting any fun out of life. So tell me Bill, which one of us is better off in Life?"

Backburner politics

Campaigns have a way of delaying decisions. And often the state is better off for the reprieve.

It should come as no surprise, then, that there are several matters of state resting comfortably in Annapolis until another day. That they are comatose is the result either of citizen resentment or the fear of it, the dual scourges of election year politics. "Do It Later" is the campaign antidote to "Do It Now."

Among the advantages of the incumbency, and there are many, is the ability to set the tone as well as the tempo of the campaign. Manipulating issues as a way of avoiding controversy is another. So, too, is adjusting the mirrors and blowing blue smoke.

In politics, instant reaction means instant involvement. As cynical as it might appear, it is also not unusual for a candidate (or his agents) to create problems so the candidate can appear heroic by solving them.

The Board of Public Works (Gov. William Donald Schaefer, Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, Treasurer Lucille Maurer) is recognized as a campaign forum as well as a staging area for hot potatoes.

One issue the Board is dodging artfully is the uprooting of a stand of trees in Garrett County. For those who have never been there, Garrett County is the home of Deep Creek Lake, one of Maryland's best kept secrets.

The state also owns and maintains about 60 percent of Garrett County as parkland. In the past, the state allowed strip miners to rape Garrett County and leave the land scarred and bleeding pools of acid. Now, in the era of heightened environmental awareness, the Board of Public Works is too timid to chop down a few trees. So, for the time being the trees are safe, at least until after the election.

Another matter causing heartburn among the Board's members is the petition to post a reward for the sick-o who mailed the bomb that exploded in Judge John Corderman's lap.

The judicial conference adopted a resolution recently requesting the Board to offer a $50,000 reward for information that would lead to the arrest of the bomber. Goldstein became the Board's leading advocate for the reward.

But the Budget department refused to cooperate, claiming it lacked the authority to release the money. Others argued that a judge's life is worth no more than a state trooper's. And since the Board posted only a $25,000 reward for the killer (s) of Cpl. Tom Wolfe, it should allocate no more in the Corderman case.

Three weeks ago, Maryland's Secretary of Personnel, Hilda Ford, announced plans to begin random drug testing among select classifications of 13,000 state employees. Workers who tested positive would be fired on the spot.

Quicker than you can say urine sample, unions representing state employees and the American Civil Liberties Union pounced on the testing program as well as upon Schaefer. The American Federation of State, County and Municipal employees even threatened to challenge the program in court.

Schaefer issued an executive order 18 months ago permitting the dismissal of state employees who were found to be using drugs. Within minutes after meeting with union officials, Schaefer backed down and agreed to reconsider the tough new policy. Surely Schaefer knew that Ford intended to begin enforcing the program. And surely he was prepared to score points with state employees by delaying it.

The Maryland Department of Transportation was recently given permission to dump sludge in the Kent Narrows trough, a self-contained site that would have prevented the spoil from spreading. There followed the predictable protest from environmentalists and fisherman who claimed the sludge could harm marine life even though it was to be dumped in an underwater ditch.

Sure enough, after hearing the outcries and considering the political fallout, Schaefer reconsidered, reversed the order and told DOT officials they would have to find somewhere else to dump their dirt. Not to hurry, mind you, maybe not even until after November.

But the major item on the back burner is probably the report of the Linowes Commission. Established three years ago, the Commission is scheduled to report its recommendations on revising the state's tax structure in mid-December, safely after the election and before the January opening of the new General Assembly.

Legislative leaders have already said they will take no action on the Linowes proposals until they've had at least a year to study them. Nonetheless, except for a series of hearings, consideration of tax revision (increase) as an issue has been kept out of the election year debate except for a panel discussion at the annual meeting in ocean City of the Maryland Association of Counties.

The final six weeks of a campaign are the most critical. It's not a question of peaking but more a matter of making mistakes. To assure victory, campaign managers often jokingly advise their candidates to get out of the country for six weeks and come back on the day before election to vote.

The most effective kind of campaign is one without a candidate to mess it up. Next best is a campaign without issues or controversy. This season we're getting the best of both.

But the legend lives on. The banner hanging outside of Schaefer's Baltimore headquarters on Light St. is a replica of the Maryland flag enhanced with the bold, black letters, "Do It Now."

"...IN HIS OWN IMAGE"

"And God created. . . every living creature that moves" (Gen. 1:21)

Every creature which has ever existed on earth has a conception, unique to its species. . . lives out a life span in its own environment . . . and then dies, at which point the physical remains begin an inevitable surrender to the elements. Eventually, decomposition is complete and nothing exists. . . with one miraculous exception. . . man.

"And God created man in His own image." (Gen. 1:27)

Someone attempted to preserve these seashells in a shining glass jar. Yet, even this protection is subject to destruction. But, God, in His infinite grace and wisdom endowed man with a unique, indestructible immortality. He gave us a soul. . . created from His own spiritual image. Thus, though our body also returns to dust, man, having an immortal soul, is capable of experiencing eternal life.

Enter God's House this week. Take your first step on the road to eternity.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

HOW CAN YOU TELL?
August 12, 1990

Background Scripture: Matthew 7.
Devotional Reading: Romans 8:1-2, 31-39.

People tell me that they are confused about religion. With all the claims from this group and that group, many of them really quite divergent in their teachings, how can you know which is the "right religion"?

Part of the problem, I think, is in the concept of "the right religion." Actually, I do not believe there are any "right" religions. Religions are systems made by human beings around their faith experiences. Although their faith experiences are indicative of their encounter with God, the expressions, formulations, and organizations they devise are at least partly tainted with human error and distortion. For example, I am a United Methodist clergyman and I love my denomination and am reasonably comfortable in the way it is structured and expressed. Not for one minute, however, would I want to equate the United Methodist Church with The Church or God's Kingdom. It seems to be "right" for me and many others, but it is not "the right religion."

THE RIGHT RELIGION

Not even Christianity (I am using this term in the sense of the sum total of all the Christian denominations, branches and churches) is "the right religion." There is much in these organizations that is a distortion—and perhaps even the negation—of the gospel of Jesus Christ. These human-made institutions are but, in the terms of the Apostle Paul, the earthen vessels in which the treasure of the gospel is contained. I have also found a great deal of unlabled "Good News" of Jesus Christ in some other religions.

So, how can you judge what is true and what is not? In Matthew 7, Jesus sets forth some guidelines that Christians too often tend to forget. First of all, he warns against the deceit of appearances. "Beware of false prophets who come to you in sheep's clothing but inwardly are ravenous wolves" (7:15). In religion, what you see is not always what you get. Prosperous, powerful churches are not always indicative of a faithfulness to the gospel of Jesus Christ. They may be representative of an obsession with material things, respectability and social mores which are considerably less than the gospel. Cathedrals and temples, impressive and beautiful as they are, may be a testimony, not to God but to human pride. (I am not saying they are, but that they may be.)

WORDS, WORDS, WORDS

The way to tell, says Jesus in Matthew 7, is to look, not at appearances, but at results: "You will know them by their fruits" (7:16). What are these "fruits"? For one thing, they are generally not words. "Not every one who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of my Father who is in heaven" (7:21). That is rather disquieting for some of us, for given a choice between words and deeds, many of us would pick words. But Jesus says that what God really wants of us is to do his will—not talk about it. "Every one who hears these words of mine and does them will be like a wise man who built his house upon the rock..." (7:24).

What confuses so many people today are the oceans of words they hear about religion. If we focus on fruits instead of words, our task of discernment should be substantially simplified!

'In The Heat Of The Night to return

Carroll O'Connor not redoing Archie

By Amy Schmidt

When envisioning the series, In The Heat Of The Night, ace executive producer Fred Silverman and actor Carroll O'Connor could have gotten into some risky show business—race relations in a small Southern town.

Both recalled the motion picture of the same name, a five-time Academy Award winner starring Rod Steiger and Sidney Poitier. Both Silverman and O'Connor believed they could adapt a sensitive dramatic series from the film.

And they did. The critically acclaimed In The Heat Of The Night, in its third season, returns to television this fall on NBC after finishing well near the top in 1989-90.

For 12 years Carroll O'Connor portrayed Archie Bunker, one of the most memorable characters in television history, on All In The Family. For his role, he won four Emmy Awards as Best Actor, having been nominated eight times; he won a prestigious Peabody Award and two Golden Globes. Additionally, Archie's chair is now enshrined in the Smithsonian Institute.

But the actor has proven to the skeptics that he can handle the role of police chief Bill Gillespie on In The Heat Of The Night without becoming Archie Bunker with a Southern accent. In the show's first season, O'Connor added another Emmy to his collection for Outstanding Lead Actor in a Drama Series.

O'Connor co-stars with Howard Rollins (nominated for an Oscar for Ragtime). Rollins plays Virgil Tibbs. Tibbs, having distinguished himself with the Philadelphia police department, has returned to his hometown as the force's only black chief of detectives. Tibbs, a sophisticated cop, and O'Connor's character, who is something of a good-old-boy, are coupled together solving cases.

"It is a natural," says the show's award-winning screenwriter and playwright, James Lee Barrett, "a white chief of police for a small Mississippi town and a black Philadelphia detective always at odds with each other, but always working together, make an interesting dramatic team." When the two come to terms with one another, out of the conflict comes harmony.

Rollins downplays this, however: "I wasn't drawn to the part because of the race aspect," he says. "It was the chance to work with Carroll O'Connor."

Last season O'Connor and Rollins handled with finesse the touchy subject of acquaintance rape. Tibbs' wife, Althea, played by Anne-Marie Johnson, was raped by a co-worker. In another episode, special-guest star Susan Blakely was an incest victim who had murdered her father. A drunk driver who had killed three teenagers constituted the plot of yet another storyline. O'Connor and Rollins handle these dark topics with a delicacy you would never believe "Archie Bunker" and company capable of. In the Heat of the Night airs Tuesday nights.

Carroll O'Connor stars as Bill Gillespie, a police chief reared in the traditions of the deep South who is paired with a black detective from Philadelphia on In The Heat Of The Night, airing Tuesdays on NBC.

Young actor enjoys travel involved with two series

By Amy Schmidt

Andrew Bednarski was 7 years old and accompanying his older brother, Steven, to a fashion shoot when one model failed to show and Andrew was picked to fill in. The young actor stars as Stevie Katts on The Family Channel series Rin Tin Tin K-9 Cop.

Andrew is now 14, and so far has had 16 film and television roles, has done 15 voice-overs for various productions, and has acted in theater. The CBS Movie of the Week, Miles To Go, won him a 1987 Emmy nomination for Outstanding Performance by a Supporting Actor.

Besides Rin Tin Tin K-9 Cop, Andrew acts in the Canadian series Katts and Dog. Both are filmed in Toronto. He says one of the best things about acting is the travelling, and Andrew has been lucky enough to film in Switzerland and France, in addition to Canada and the United States.

Asked what advice he would have for other kids who want to get into acting, Andrew says, "Go for it! It's really wonderful. The only really hard thing is the hours you have to work. But otherwise, you get to travel a lot, you meet great people, and you have a lot of fun."

Andrew hinted there may be an adoption in store for his character, Stevie, on the show this year. "But you'll have to watch it to find out," he says. Rin Tin Tin K-9 Cop can be seen Fridays and Saturdays on The Family Channel.

The tribute was taped and broadcast worldwide on her birthday, Aug. 4, by the BBC.

Larry and Balki are beside themselves renovating a house on Perfect Strangers, Friday on ABC.

Filming is underway in Portland, Ore., on Cops And Robbers, a telefilm for NBC starring Edward Asner and Ray Sharkey. The film is based on the true story of the $25 million Boston Depositors Trust Bank robbery.

TUESDAY: Maria Shriver hosts an NBC special focusing on people making a difference in their chosen fields, whether it's science or the arts. CBS rebroadcasts Guilty Of Innocence: The Lenell Geter Story, starring Dorian Harewood.

HOROSCOPE

August 12 through August 18

By C.C. Clark

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
Quit being so obstinate. Things will go much easier for you if you listen to reason. Don't alienate those closest to you by forgetting how important they are.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
This is a good time to plan for an excursion. It doesn't matter if it is just for a weekend or if it is for a month, you just need to get away and relax.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Job opportunities are just around the corner, so keep your eyes and ears open. A friend will need a shoulder to cry on and you must somehow find the time to be there.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Engage in public activities this week. Some unexpected development is about to occur which may mean some real money for you. Something mysterious comes in the mail.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Express yourself positively this week and things will go your way. Reach for that impossible dream and it just might turn out to be yours. Friends will surprise you.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
Cooperation should be your key word this week. Your work environment seems crazy, and it gets worse by week's end. Don't worry, however, it will get better.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
This a very social week for you. You will go places and meet people you never imagined existed. Don't take things too seriously, and follow your head not your heart.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
This weekend is the perfect time to try something new. You may change addresses or the color of your hair, but it is definitely time for a change of some type.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Take some time to spend with family members; they are all in great need of some attention. Be careful when checking out new business ventures, and read between the lines.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
You recently acted selfishly toward someone close to you and this week that act will come back to haunt you. Turn the other cheek and try to help that person if possible.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Those dual personalities are going to come in handy, if you can only keep them straight. Life is hectic, but it is all definitely going to be for the good of all involved.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Take a close look at finances this week and make sure you know where your money is going. This is a good time to get some financial counseling from an expert.

Maggie, Monique and AJ dart in over their heads on 13 East, Saturday on NBC.

American Masters is "Celebrating Bird: The Triumph Of Charlie Parker," Monday on PBS.

Malcolm-Jamal Warner still growing into role

By Christy Bergslien

"I'm growing into my role, not out of it," Malcolm-Jamal Warner said of his role on The Cosby Show at the series' premiere. "When the role of Theo was cast, the producers were looking for someone about six-foot-two. I was the last person to read and I was only five-foot-five. Imagine my shock when I got the part."

It has been six years and many episodes since the top-rated series debuted, and it's safe to say Warner is all-grown-up. Warner turns 20, Saturday, Aug. 18 (Happy Birthday, Malcolm), and has become one of television's hottest young actors.

Before he was struck by Cosby fame, Warner had made guest appearances on Fame and Matt Houston, and had a recurring role on the PBS series The Eye Of The Storm. Since that time, he has hosted NBC's Friday Night Videos twice, was a guest VJ on MTV, appeared on Night Of 100 Stars II, Motown Returns To The Apollo and NBC's 60th Anniversary Celebration, to mention a scant few projects. He was nominated for a 1986 Emmy for his portrayal of Theo on The Cosby Show.

Warner is determined not to slip into obscurity as so many child-actors have done. He plans not only to continue acting, but to go on to directing, writing and producing, as well.

The Cosby Show can be seen Thursday nights on NBC.

Animals do exotic tricks on 'Prime Time Pets'

Wil Shriner hosts program

By Christy Bergslien

David Letterman started something when he began featuring segments called "Stupid Pet Tricks" on his show. The stunts became so popular it is no surprise, now, to turn on the television and see the new CBS series Prime Time Pets. But, while it may not be surprising, it is always amusing.

Fridays on CBS you can see stupid animal stunts like a tree-climbing dog, a sewing cockatiel, a rat that bowls and a bird that lies on its back and balances on top of a woman's head. (Can you top that?)

Comedian Wil Shriner, son of "Hoosier Humorist" Herb Shriner, hosts. Shriner recently hosted Disney's Voyage To 1939: A Celebrity Celebration Aboard the Queen Mary, and has hosted the video vault segment on Dick Clark's TV Bloopers and Practical Jokes. Dorothy Lucey is the series' "roving field reporter" who seeks out amusing stories about talented pets.

The Prime Time Pets format includes live, in-studio tricks, produced pieces, and viewers' home videos with Shriner adding his comedic commentary. Each show opens with a live, in-studio trick, such as a dog who shoots pool, a parrot who drives a mini-car over a ramp or three stunt frogs who perform for an underwater camera. A rock video featuring various pet tricks, set to music, such as "rap dogs" or "frisbee dogs," follows. Viewers' home videos, the "baby animals" segment and the "warm pet" segment, featuring a real-life human-pet interest story, round out the show.

Richard Gere began career in high school productions

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I am a great admirer of Richard Gere. Could you please tell me how he got started acting and where I could write him? Please sign my letter with initials since my husband may not understand. —N.L.J., Fort Madison, Iowa

Richard Gere

A: It's OK to admire from afar—keep your distance, and maybe he will understand. Gere was born Aug. 29, 1949, in Philadelphia, Penn., the son of an insurance broker. He grew up in Syracuse, N.Y., where he got his first acting experience in high school. He attended the University of Massachusetts for two years before he opted to pursue his acting career full time at the Provincetown Playhouse. He finally came to national attention in the film Looking For Mr. Goodbar. You may try writing to him c/o Screen Actors Guild, 7065 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, Calif., 90028.

Q: I'm a big fan of Lecy Goranson, she plays Becky on Roseanne. I was wondering if you could give me more information about her, and how I could write to her? —Steve Going, McAlester, Okla.

A: Lecy (a family nickname for "Alicia") was born in Evanston, Ill., on June 22, 1973. Her role on Roseanne is her first professional acting job. She grew up in a suburban household in Evanston, where her father is a statistician for the EPA and her mother is a teacher in the local high school. When she was eight years old she expressed an interest in attending an acting workshop at the nearby Piven Theater. She has been taking classes there ever since. A teacher recommended that Lecy audition for the role of Becky, and suddenly she found herself on a plane to Hollywood. She has an older brother, Adam. She enjoys jazz dancing, riding her bike, soccer, tennis and badminton. Her favorite subjects in school are gym, lunch, reading and language arts, in that order. Write to her c/o Roseanne, The Carsey-Werner Co., CBS-MTM Studios, 4024 Radford Ave., Studio City, Calif. 91604.

Q: I enjoy the show* Empty Nest. *They keep talking about a daughter named Emily that's in college. Will they ever have her on the show? And if they do, who will play the part? —Carol Elliott, High Point, N.C.

A: I have learned to never say "never" about anything on television, as all things are possible. Emily was not ever cast, except as a voice on the phone. If the powers-that-be believe a visit from her would improve ratings, she may suddenly come home. Who she will be is anyone's guess. Sorry, I can't be of more help.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest will be answered.

Drama of 1965 Watts riots recreated in 'Heat Wave'

By Amy Schmidt

An all-star cast lines up this week for the premiere of the original TNT movie, Heat Wave. Cicely Tyson, Blair Underwood, James Earl Jones and Sally Kirkland star in this powerful recreation of the 1965 Watts riots.

Watts, Calif., a Los Angeles suburb, was a post-war boomtown. Promised prosperity in what was believed to be one of the nation's most racially progressive cities, 550,000 African-Americans migrated there between the years 1945 and 1965. What they found were white landlords, white merchants, white law enforcement officers, and an unjust social and economic system.

Tensions reached a feverish pitch when, during a routine traffic arrest of two black men on the hot night of Aug. 11, violence exploded between the two races. The uprisings spread across 54 square miles of Los Angeles. Six hundred buildings were burned, 4,000 people were arrested and 1,200 were injured. Of the estimated 35 fatalities, 30 were black.

The story is told from the point of view of Robert Richardson (Blair Underwood, L.A. Law), a black messenger for the Los Angeles Times. Richardson finds himself suddenly at the forefront of the riots because, being black, he is the only Times reporter safe to enter the "war zone."

Seven days after the uprisings Richardson was hired as the Los Angeles Times' first black reporter trainee. And in 1965 the Los Angeles Times was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for its coverage of Watts. Heat Wave premieres, Monday, Aug. 13.

TBS's Network Earth, a new environmental magazine series, airs Sunday, Aug. 12. The show's premiere takes viewers from the tropical forests of Panama to the polluted waters of the San Francisco Bay; from a shopping trip at the neighborhood supermarket to an interview with Michael Stipe, the lead singer of the popular rock band R.E.M., and an environmental activist.

Network Earth crews will travel around the world to bring home stories that offer an inside look at today's most pressing environmental issues and to meet the men and women who are seeking solutions to these problems.

In upcoming episodes viewers will be taken on tour to Florida's coral reef, and California's redwood forests. Environmental watch dog groups such as "Bay-keepers" in San Francisco and "Earthwatch," a group which arranges tours with environmental themes, will be highlighted. Viewers will even be taught how to build their own backyard wildlife habitat.

A novelty of Network Earth is the show's "computer forum." People who own personal computers can join in on a weekly computer conference.

SOAP TALK

Soap notes milestone

By Candace Havens

It is the longest-running daytime program on ABC and is also the longest-running daytime drama produced on the West Coast. The show is General Hospital, of course, and it just celebrated its 7,000th show milestone.

GH has evolved into a mixture of suspense, romance, mystery, comedy and adventure. Famed for the Luke and Laura romance of 1979-81, the show derives a good deal of its present-day popularity from several running romances. Frisco and Felecia are now married, but Anna is now in a dilemma as she finds herself constantly crossing paths with Shep, and Dawn and Decker are falling closer as Colton falls for Carla.

Adding fuel to the fire of these romances are the dramatic and often hilarious sparks of intrigue involving the Quartermaine family—particularly now that Alan has married that ever-devious Lucy.

Dear Candace: I agree with Pat Sandero's letter about the General Hospital storyline and Jane Elliot. I'm also glad to see that Frisco got a haircut. Now I would like to see Steve and Bo clean up their act on Days Of Our Lives. The writers aren't thinking very smart when they try to pawn off Kimberly's pregnancy on to Cal. After all, Shane came back for the holiday party, so that put an end to Kim's affair with Cal. She should know how far along she is. This is just a little far out for me. —Sincerely, a fan of yours and the soaps

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748. © TV Listing Inc

Dorian Harewood plays the lead role in Guilty Of Innocence: The Lenell Geter Story, about a wrongfully imprisoned man, set to air Tuesday on CBS.

Housing Rehab. Loans Allocated

The Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) has over $9.4 million set aside for rehabilitation loans and is urging county and city officials to take advantage of the special funding.

The Community Development Administration (CDA), a division of DHCD, is providing this special financial assistance under its Maryland Housing Rehabilitation Program (MHRP), and in conjunction with local governments. Monies are to be used for the rehabilitation of single family homes, residential rental properties and buildings that serve the business, commercial or social needs of a community.

"DHCD's Maryland Housing Rehabilitation Program loans help preserve and maintain existing structures," said DHCD Secretary Jacqueline H. Rogers. "By restoring these properties, we are helping to promote sound community development."

Loans are allocated to each of the 23 counties and Baltimore City based on three factors. These include the number of households that meet certain income-eligibility requirements, the number of substandard dwelling units in a particular municipality — such as those with no indoor plumbing or kitchen facilities — and the local government's use of program proceeds during fiscal year 1990.

MHRP has allocated $9,438,000 statewide, with Garrett County slated to receive $62,686.

A statewide reserve of $2,359,500 will be available to finance larger rental housing projects in counties and with lower allocations. Unused allocated funds will be re-allocated to other counties during the year.

To reserve their MHRP allocation, county officials must submit a letter of intent to CDA.

The 1990 deadline for submission of plans is Friday, September 14.

The continued success of MHRP depends upon close cooperation between the state and local governments, the DHCD said. Through this partnership, communities can address their housing rehabilitation and community development needs, the Department added.

Low Interest Mortgage Loan Funds Available

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced that nearly $55 million in low-interest mortgage loans is available for income-eligible Maryland homebuyers.

The funds are available through the Department of Housing and Community Development's (DHCD) Maryland Mortgage Program (MMP). MMP is a creative financial public/private partnership designed to help low and moderate income people buy homes. More than 25,000 Maryland families and individuals have already benefited from the program

"I've always had faith in this public/private partnership," Governor Schaefer said. "This is a perfect example of how the state meets the needs of its citizens."

MMP is administered by the Community Development Administration, a division of DHCD, which recently issued tax-exempt revenue bonds on behalf of 21 Maryland counties and Baltimore City to finance the program. This arrangement enables local governments to take advantage of the state's excellent bond rating, share the cost of issuing the bonds, and benefit from MMP's centralized administration of the program.

Montgomery and Prince George's counties have not participated in the bond issue because they issue their own revenue bonds.

To qualify for an MMP 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage loan in most parts of the state, individuals can earn up to $30,000 a year, and families up to $37,500. The income limits in Cecil County are $33,000 for an individual and $41,250 for a family.

Two interest rates have been established for the program based on household income. For people earning $25,000 a year or less, the interest rate will be 7.875 percent. Those earning more that $25,000 a year, up to the program's maximum income limit of $37,500 (or $41,250 in Cecil County), will pay 8.875 percent interest.

Maximum purchase prices vary depending on location and whether the home to be purchased is newly constructed or an existing house.

To apply for the Maryland Mortgage Program, interested persons must first have a signed sales contract on a qualifying home before contacting a participating lending institution.

For a program brochure, call the Homeownership Program's office at (toll free) 1-800-638-7781.

THE PFEIFERS TO APPEAR AT GARRETT COUNTY FAIR — The Pfeifers say the purpose of their music is "to let Jesus' spirit and message flow through them whether in concert halls, churches, or fairs across America." The cost for admission to the fairgrounds is $5 (pay-one-price) per person and includes all entertainment, all race track events and carnival rides as well as parking. A weekly pass (good for six admissions) for those not interested in carnival rides can be purchased for $15 through August 13.

SUMMER FOOD SAFETY UNDER YOUR CONTROL, PART II — BOTULISM

It is important to know when to see a doctor should food-borne disease strike. If the ill person is elderly, is a young child or suffers from chronic illness, getting professional help is advised. Dehydration presents a real danger in individuals with low resistance.

If the least suspicion of botulism exists, get medical help immediately! This can be fatal because the botulinum toxin attacks the nervous system, causing double vision, trouble swallowing and difficult breathing and progressively paralyzes the respiration system.

To guard against the deadly botulism toxin never eat or even taste any foods from leaking or bulging canned goods (home or commercially canned). Discard all suspect foods where children and animals cannot get to it. If the first rapid boil foams and produces off-odors–do not eat the food.

Botulism spores are widespread throughout our living environment, especially in the soil. This bacteria is not a problem, but the toxin it produces in an anaerobic (without oxygen) environment of low acidity is deadly if ingested. This very environment exists in canned foods, specially corn, peppers, green beans, soups, beets, asparagus, mushrooms, ripe olives, spinach, tuna fish, chicken, chicken liver, liver pate'. The toxin has also been found in luncheon meats, ham, sausage, stuffed eggplant, lobster and smoked and salted fish.

Canned, high-acid foods should be boiled 10 minutes and low-acid food for 20 minutes to destroy any toxins that potentially may be present in even intact vacuum-sealed containers.

For a copy of "Understanding the Food Poisoners," please contact Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Extension Agent, Home Economics, 202 S. Third Street, Oakland, MD, 21550, or phone 334-1990.

Alcohol And Cigarette Tax Revenue Shared

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein had mailed checks totaling $5,732,704 to Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City, representing their share of alcohol and tobacco tax collections for the final quarter of fiscal year 1990 (April, May and June, 1990). Garrett County received $16,123.51 in tobacco tax revenue, $7,329.60 in distilled spirits tax revenue, and $7,423.45 in beer tax revenue.

"This distribution brings the total local share of distilled spirits, beer and cigarette tax revenue for fiscal year 1990 to $22,201,045," Goldstein said. "That's 3.7% less than the $23,056,253 the subdivisions received during fiscal year 1989. This reflects the decline in these revenues we are beginning to see with increasing regularity."

Alcohol and tobacco tax collections for the fiscal year just ended totaled $86,586,057, a decline of 4.7% from the $90,873,160 collected during fiscal year 1989.

"For fiscal year 1990, distilled spirits, wine, beer and tobacco tax revenues all posted decreases from previous year levels. The overall decline in alcohol and tobacco tax revenues reflects nationwide trends," Goldstein said.

For fiscal year 1990, distilled spirits taxes produced $13.6 million, down seven-tenths of one percent; wine taxes yielded about 4 million, down 3%; beer taxes produced $9.5 million, down six-tenths of one percent; and cigarette tax receipts amounted to $59.7 million, down 5.8%.

"Of the slightly more than $22 million shared with the subdivisions, as a result of these revenue collections, tobacco tax distributions accounted for $13,292,465 down 6% from the previous fiscal year. The subdivisions' share of distilled spirits tax revenue for fiscal year 1990, was $4,517,099, up by eight-tenths of one percent. Beer tax distributions to the subdivisions were down by nine-tenths of one perecent to $4,391,480," the comptroller said.

Cigarette tax revenue is shared based on a formula returning three cents of the 13 cents per pack tax to the subdivisions based on population. Approximately one-third of the $1.50 per gallon distilled spirits tax and one-half of the nine cents per gallon beer tax is returned to the local governments, based on gallons delivered to retailers within the subdivision.

Boating Safety Tips Offered By Lake Manager

In response to the recent boat fires that occurred July 25 at the Glen Acres Campground at Deep Creek Lake, destroying eight boats, Maryland Department of Natural Resources lake manager Paul Durham has issued the following boat safety reminders for fire prevention.

Most fires can be prevented if bilges are kept clean and proper gear stowage is maintained.

One or more fully charged U.S. Coast Guard-approved fire extinguishers should be aboard the boat in an easily accessed location.

A plan in case of fire should always be discussed and worked out before boarding the boat.

Caution should always be exercised when fueling a boat or when working on the boat's motor. Since gasoline vapor is heavier than air, it may settle in the bilge, and a spark could trigger an explosion.

The entire fuel system should be checked for leaks, and portable tanks should be removed from the boat while refueling. Electrical equipment should be turned off and the engine space properly ventilated before and after refueling, for at least five minutes.

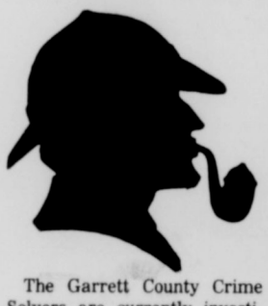
Persons refueling or performing mechanical work on the boat should not smoke.

The nozzle should be kept in contact with the tank when refueling to eliminate sparks.

Durham stated, "If a fire should break out on board your boat, don't panic. Most fires can be put out rapidly if you act immediately. Should the fire get out of control, remember that personal safety should come first."

"BATTLE OF THE BARREL" WINNERS — Shown above are members of the Mt. Savage Volunteer Fire Department, who won the "Battle of the Barrel" competition held July 26 at Broadford Lake. For their efforts, they were awarded a three-foot tall trophy by park director, Deb Clatterbuck Reall, shown, far right. The team participates in all area competitions, and has placed first in four competitions and second in two competitions so far this year. Any department winning the trophy in the "Battle of the Barrel" competition for three years will permanently own it. Shown, left to right, are team members, Randy Kirby, Jimmy Winebrenner, Jeff Pfeister, Rick Robinson and Steve Baker.

CRIME SOLVERS



The Garrett County Crime Solvers are currently investigating two cases of theft in the county.

Sometime between November 28, 1989, and January 1, 1990, a person or persons entered a storage building near Brownings Foodland and removed the following: one E-1350 Homelite Generator, and one FS-62 Stihl Weedeater. The total value of these items exceeds $700.

One red and white International Model 682 lawn tractor with a 48-inch mower was stolen from the Marlin Lawson residence on the Blaine Frantz Road in Friendsville, sometime between May 26 and June 2.

Stolen at the same time was one Kushman Trackster all terrain vehicle. The ATV is green in color with a winch on the front.

At the time of theft, the two vehicles were parked under a car port at the residence.

Anyone having any information about either case is asked to contact the Garrett County Crime Solvers at 334-1975. A reward of $1000 is available for persons whose tip leads to the arrest of the responsible party. No names or court appearances will be required of persons who give information about the crimes.

Edwards Receives $250 Donation For Campaign

A campaign contribution of $250 was recently made by Goldie M. Shugars, president of the Garrett County Board of Realtors, Inc., to George C. Edwards, District 1 incumbent candidate for the House of Delegates.

Also on hand for the presentation was Edward E. Hilley, vice president of the Maryland Association of Realtors. Mr. Hilley is the association's chief lobbyist.

The donation was made available through the Maryland Realtors Political Action Committee.

Goldstein Urges Congress To Kill Deduction Limit

"I have written to Maryland's congressional delegation, to the leaders of Congress, and to President Bush, urging them to defeat a proposal to limit the amount of state and local income tax that an individual can claim as a deduction on his or her federal income tax return to $10,000," said Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

"Although the initial proposal would affect only higher income taxpayers, it establishes a precedent could apply to middle and lower income taxpayers whenever they needed additional revenue," Goldstein said.

The comptroller pointed out that the proposal would hamper the states' ability to raise revenue by raising the effective state tax rate at a time when the states are being forced to assume a greater share of the cost of education, health, infrastructure and other services, because of cutbacks in federal aid.

"This is an attempt to push the burden of balancing the federal budget onto the states rather than where it belongs - in Washington, D.C. I urge the administration and members of Congress to find ways to balance the federal budget without hampering the state's ability to do their job," the comptroller said.

DEEP CREEK REALTY
REAL ESTATE
BY ROBERT HUEBNER

KNOW YOUR LIMITS!

Selling your home is a major project. First, the decision must be made to actually sell your home. Next, you gather information about the anticipated price range and terms. Plans are made for improvements and repairs to make your home more appealing to buyers. Finally, you estimate a projected date by which your home may be sold.

Most sellers prefer to receive an all-cash, full-price offer on their home in a short period of time with a fast settlement. Real life, unfortunately, often dictates otherwise.

Most buyers "comparison shop", inspecting a number of homes before making a purchase offer. After getting a "feel" for the market, they make a purchase offer which reflects their own specific housing needs, an offer which may not necessarily reflect sensitivity to the needs of the sellers. That's a nice way of saying that buyers may offer a price, terms or conditions of sale which are contrary to the sellers' expectations.

When they do, sellers should be ready to act quickly! A serious purchase offer presented in good faith by potential purchasers deserves a prompt reply. Long before the offer is made, sellers should know the limits within which they are willing to accept a purchase offer.

Regardless of the price asked or the terms offered to the buying public, sellers should have already discussed and planned for the conditions under which they would be willing to compromise. This information need not be disclosed to anyone in advance, nevertheless the sellers should have a clear understanding in their own minds of their selling limits, beyond which they will not accept a purchase offer.

This preplanning can allow sellers to act promptly on any serious offer to purchase their home. The benefit? Legitimate offers will be recognized, and an acceptable sale is more likely to result!

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 387-5303, or come by our office located in McHenry, MD.

Works Of Two Local Artists On Display At GCC

The works of two local artists, Ken Bauer and Mike Hoffman, will be on display in the Bausch and Lomb Art Gallery of Garrett Community College from August 6-30, according to Ron Skidmore, assistant professor of art and coordinator of the art gallery. A reception for the artists has been planned for this Saturday, August 11, from 7-8 p.m. in the art gallery, preceding the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival performance of "Our Town" in the college auditorium.

Michael Hoffman, a native of West Virginia currently resides in Terra Alta, holds a bachelor of fine arts degree from West Virginia University and is now a consultant in interior model design management and merchandising. The exhibit includes a retrospective of his art work: several original prints that are a combination of etching and engraving techniques, a series of graphic design serigraphs on steam, iron and steel, and two recent oil paintings in a somewhat post-Impressionistic style.

Ken Bauer, a resident of Oakland, studied art at the University of North Carolina and has been drawing since 1974. The exhibit includes 20 of his drawings and prints, concentrating on birds and wildflowers executed within the past two years here in Garrett County.

Most of the arts works in the exhibit are for sale. Gallery hours are Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Thursday from 6-10 p.m., and during special events. The public is invited to view the exhibit and to attend the artists' reception.

Public Works Bd. Approves Farm Preservation Funds

Governor William Donald Schaefer this week announced Board of Public Works approval of the purchase of agricultural preservation easements by the Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation on 11 parcels of land totaling more than 1,300 acres. The combined cost of the easements is $2.6 million.

Four of the parcels are in Carroll County, three each in Baltimore and Harford counties, and one in St. Mary's.

Chaired by the governor, the Board of Public Works also is comprised of Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Treasurer Lucille Maurer. The board is authorized by the General Assembly to approve major construction and consultant contracts, equipment purchases, property transactions, and other procurement actions.

"Our agricultural land preservation program continues to lead the nation. With these purchases, we continue our commitment to maintain agriculture and a balanced economy in Maryland. The Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation is to be commended for its fine work," Governor Schaefer said.

The Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation was created in 1977 to preserve agricultural land and woodland in order to provide sources of agricultural products within the state for its citizens, to control urban expansion, and to provide open space land.

Entry into the program requires the establishment of agricultural preservation districts. Landowners may volunteer to restrict their lands to agricultural use. Once included in a district, land may be eligible for protection through the sale of development rights to the foundation.

To date, Maryland has recorded 1,293 agricultural preservation districts exceeding a total of 181,076 acres. The state has secured perpetual easements on more than 82,000 of these acres, the highest amount of agricultural acreage protected in any state.

WHY MARCH WHEN YOU CAN RIDE? Such might be the philosophy of the Accident Concert Band, who presented a "concert on wheels" during the Friendsville Day parade Saturday afternoon. The group, which presents a number of concerts each year and participates in area parades, is the only community band in Garrett County. Photos by Craig Speicher

BEST FLOAT — Using old manual laundry tubs, a wringer-style machine, and a modern automatic washing machine to demonstrate methods of "yesterday and today," the Friend Family Association of America float was judged the "Best Overall" parade unit.

Friendsville Day Parade Winners Are Announced

Winners of the Friendsville Day '90 parade, held Saturday afternoon in Friendsville, were announced by the Friendsville Fire Department, coordinator of the festival.

The best overall parade unit award went to the Friend Family Association float. Other float winners were: Garrett County Day Care Association, first place; S&S Market, second; and Friendsville Lions Club, third. In the youth division, North Star 4-H Club won first place.

IS SHE REALLY BALANCING ON HER FINGERS? No, Erin Long is in the process of a forward hand spring and was captured on high speed film by Craig Speicher. Her synchronized gymnastics routing with Erika Durst earned a first place finish in the middle/high school division of the Friendsville Day talent show. Pictured below, left to right, are Ashley Kelley and Kristi Rodeheaver, who won first and second place, respectively in the pre-kindergarten/second grade division; Leslie Buckel, second place, elementary school division; Erika and Erin; and Paul Miller, second place, middle/high school division. Other winners not present for the photo were: Matthew Cathell, first place, elementary; Alicia Schofield, first place, and Crystal Keefer, second place, adult division. Matthew Cathell, of Oakland, performed a piano solo and scored 197 points out of a possible 210 to outdistance all other competitors in every division. Leslie Buckel was second overall with a score of 189.

AN AMAZING AIRCRAFT!? It appears that this Maryland State Police helicopter can soar above the tree tops even without the rotation of its rotor blades. In reality, this photo was taken by Craig Speicher using a shutter speed of one-4000th of a second, which captures the turning blades on film so quickly that they appear to be stopped. The helicopter was on display at the Friendsville Festival Day on Saturday.

SINGING HER WAY to second place in the elementary school division of the Friendsville Day talent show was Leslie Buckel, who also earned the second highest score among all of the competitors in every division.

Arthritis Group Needs Volunteers

The Western Maryland Branch of the Arthritis Foundation is looking for some new volunteers.

"People who contribute their time and talent to us are not just helpful, they are essential. It is their energy that extends our services into the community and into the lives of people with arthritis," said Diane Horner, director of the Western Maryland Branch of the Arthritis Foundation.

Volunteers implement a variety of services, she said, as some assist with public education, others with exercise classes, or fund raising events. Some prefer to answer the phone or handle correspondence.

"Whatever your occupation or interest, we have an important volunteering job for you. Volunteering for the Arthritis Foundation is a way to help those in need and also a way to help yourself, Mrs. Horner explained.

"People volunteer for many different reasons. Whatever their motivation, we welcome and need their support. We all know someone with arthritis, a friend, a neighbor, a loved one. We can make life better for them by volunteering with the Arthritis Foundation," she said.

To learn more about being an Arthritis Foundation volunteer, persons are invited to contact the Arthritis Foundation, Western Maryland Branch, P.O. Box 1187, Cumberland, MD, 21502-1187; phone (301) 759-9411.

Tax dollars for agriculture — an investment in your future

Farmers will receive about 18.2 billion in support payments from their government in 1990. Other federal agriculture programs, such as export subsidies, agricultural research, Forest Service, Farmers Home Administration, conservation programs and inspection services, add $17 billion. Food stamps and other programs to help feed the poor add $23.5 billion to USDA's budget.

A budget rarity, USDA's commodity support costs have actually decreased over the past five years. Payments to farmers fell $11 billion, while Social Security and Medicare outlays soared $91 billion and defense costs jumped $44 billion for examples.

What does the taxpayer get for the money paid to farmers? Peace of mind, economic growth, jobs and full bellies. America's farmers are the world's most productive. It is a rare American consumer who has seen empty shelves at the market, a common occurrence in other lands. We know we can go to the store and buy whatever food we want, whenever we want it.

Abundant supplies at competitive prices

And we pay less than inhibatants of other countries. U.S. taxpayers spend about 11 percent of their income for food at the supermarket. European and Japanese consumers spend between 15 percent and 20 percent of their income for food, South Americans spend between 30 and 40 percent, non-Japanese Asians spend from 35-50 percent and people in Africa spend approximately 60 percent of their income on food.

Besides being less costly, our food is safer and more wholesome, due in part to the quality assurance function of USDA, financed by taxpayer money. Our foodstuffs are also frequently more nutritious, thanks to innovations and improvements provided by government research, again funded by the U.S. taxpayer.

Agriculture creates jobs

A robust American agricultural sector benefits the entire economy. While less than two percent of America's workers are farmers, more than 21 percent of the nation's work force depend on agriculture for their paycheck.

Export sales of U.S. farm goods are also extremely important to the country's economic growth. Agricultural exports habitually exceed imports, making farm goods a positive contributor to our balance of trade. We will sell $40 billion worth of farm goods to foreign buyers this year, about one-fourth of our total production value of food, feed, fiber and flowers. Remember that every $1 billion in export sales creates jobs for 30,000 people and you see the human, as well as the economic, value of increased exports.

Food quality and availability are worth the price

Rather than scrutinize the $8 billion in commodity support payments to farmers, take a look at the country's annual trillion-dollar spending spree. Sure, identify ways to save in agriculture spending, as has been done in a major way over the past five years. But check every spending function. Nearly 75 percent of government spending is exempt from Gramm-Rudman-Hollings budget-balancing inquiry and resultant penalities. Agriculture is unprotected and bears an excessive burden when the law calls for across-the-board budget cuts.

Agricultural research and plant and animal health inspection services are two areas that could suffer if further cuts occur. Scientists, for example, are on the verge of producing disease-resistant plants that manufacture their own insect repellents. Research funding cuts would stifle such advances. Inspection services are also crucial in providing quality, wholesome agricultural products to consumers. Imported diseases, such as hoof-and-mouth disease, or pests such as the Medfly pose constant threats to our livestock and our fields. Research and inspection funding should be increased, rather than decreased.

Payments to farmers through the USDA budget pay tremendous dividends to America. Only here can citizens boast of abundant supplies of wholesome, nutritious food at bargain prices. A strong agriculture is a major contributor to a strong national economy and farmers are proud to be a part of this growth sector.

FFA MEMBERS ATTEND CONFERENCE — Melissa Evans and Danny Metheny of the East Preston FFA Chapter recently attended the 1990 Washington Conference Program in the nation's capital. The week-long program helps FFA members improve leadership skills, develop an understanding of national heritage and prepare for more effective leadership roles in their chapters and communities. Sessions on human relations, goal setting, and personal communications develop these skills. Personal outlook, motivation, and pride are also discussed. Visits to Mount Vernon, the Smithsonian Institution, Arlington National Cemetery, the Jefferson Memorial and other historic sights in Washington are included in the conference. A highlight of the week was a visit to the office of Congressman Harley Staggers of West Virginia. The FFA members also had an opportunity to visit both the House of Representatives and Senate chambers while Congress was in session. Pictured above is East Preston FFA member Melissa Evans, of Terra Alta, with Dan Schroer, eastern region vice president, from New Bremen, Ohio. Below, East Preston FFA member Danny Metheny, also of Terra Alta, is pictured with Brad Lewis, of Alabama, national secretary. The East Preston chapter advisor is Terry Hauser.

Farm Bill Passes House And Senate; Goes To Conference Committee

Members of both the House and Senate repeatedly fought back attempts to make major changes in the direction of farm policy and, in the end, voted strongly in support of new farm policy they had crafted over the past year.

By a vote of 70-21 in the Senate and 327-91 in the House, lawmakers endorsed the basic direction taken by the 1985 farm bill.

American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) President Dean Kleckner said he was pleased with the direction new farm policy was taking. "We are in a position now where we can build on the successes of the past."

He praised both House and Senate members who beat back attempts to restrict farm program benefits. "The House and Senate wisely avoided attempts to re-direct farm programs by targeting benefits. Such a change in direction would have limited the effectiveness" of current farm programs, he said.

House passage of an amendment by Rep. Edward Madigan (R-Ill.) was critical in ensuring a market-responsive farm program, Kleckner said. That amendment gives the secretary of agriculture discretion to adjust loan rates by as much as 10 percent in addition to adjustments tied to stocks levels.

Competitive loan rates also were critical to the success of the 1985 farm bill, Kleckner said. "The ability to respond to market conditions will remain critical in future years."

Another provision of the Madigan amendment gives the agriculture secretary more discretion in setting acreage reduction levels without adjusting target prices.

The move to allow farmers to switch up to 25 percent of their farm program base acres to alternate crops such as soyveans was a "step in the right direction," Kleckner said. "We favored a higher level of planting flexibility, but we support Congress' decision not to extend the planting options to a wider range of non-program commodities."

Kleckner, however, expressed some concerns about provisions in the House and Senate bills relating to international trade, the crop insurance program and organic labeling standards. "We are hopeful the House-Senate conference committee's resolution of those items will be in the best interest of American farmers," he said.

House members also diverted off course in approving, 375-45, a Rep. Jerry Huckaby (D-La.) amendment limiting total payments to a producer at $200,000. In a compromise to avoid more severe payment limits, lawmakers agreed to limit deficiency payments to $50,000, marketing loan gains to $100,000 and Findley payments at $100,000. Farm Bureau opposed Huckaby and other attempts to limit payments.

House members also rejected an attempt by Rep. Silvio Conte (R-Mass.) to eliminate the so-called "Three-entity" rule. This rule allows producers to receive up to $50,000 as a sole proprietor and up to $25,000 each as a partner in two other farm business interests, for a total of $100,000. The vote on the Conte amendment was 171-250.

Both the House and Senate bills would freeze target prices for major commodities at 1990 levels. The House bill would set the basic loan rates for wheat and feed grains at 85 percent of the five-year market average. Current law bases loan rates on 75 percent to 85 percent of the market average. The Senate bill replaces the current non-recourse loan with a marketing loan.

Both bills create a marketing loan for soybeans. The House set the initial loan rate at $5.25 per bushel and the Senate at $5.50 per bushel.

While the Senate voted to phase out the honey price support program, the only major diversion from current farm policy the senators took, a House attempt to drastically reduce honey loan rates was rejected.

In other action, House members approved an amendment by Rep. Peter DeFazio (D-Ore.) calling for national labeling standards for organic foods; rejected an attempt to prescribe veal calf husbandry practices; rejected an attempt to reduce the sugar loan rate by two cents; and rejected an attempt to change the dairy program by raising the purchase price.

Although both bills follow the basic tack of current farm policy, there is the possibility that the budget deficit crisis may drive the farm bill in another direction once it hits the House-Senate conference table. Budget summit negotiators may order conferees to slash farm spending by 35 percent.

According to a USDA budget specialist, both bills carry an estimated price tag of $54-55 billion for commodity programs, which puts the bills at about the budget baseline of $54.4 billion — the level of spending originally sought. However, given upward adjustments in the federal deficit and other economic trends, Congress had been urged to keep farm spending about $1.5 billion below that budget baseline figure.

Farm Receipts Hit Record High In Md. For '89

Cash receipts for Maryland's farmers hit a record high of $1.346 billion in 1989 lead by a booming poultry and egg industry which alone accounted for $511,643,000.

"These figures demonstrate conclusively that agriculture is still strong in Maryland," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley, Jr.

"I am proud of agriculture for its continuing contribution to Maryland's economy," Cawley said.

The poultry and egg segment — broilers at record $448.9 million and eggs at a record $57.9 million — accounted for 38 percent of Maryland's farm income for the year, according to figures compiled for the Maryland Department of Agriculture by the Agricultural Statistics Service.

The $1,346,988,000 cash receipts for Maryland was up by $123 million from 1988 and $207 million from 1987. In addition to expanded poultry and egg production, the major factor in the increase in value was better weather in 1989 compared to the drought years of 1988 and 1987.

Field crops led by a record breaking soybean value of $93.8 million and a corn production of $67.7 million made up the second largest commodity of Maryland's agriculture totaling about $237.2 million. Wheat was worth $30.4 million, tobacco $20.7 million, hay $15.6 million and barley $6.7 million.

Dairy products earned $197.8 million for Maryland farmers in 1989 up $12 million from the year before. The state's expanding greenhouse and nursery business accounted for almost $174 million, up somewhat from 1988. Fruit nut crops valued at $13.6 million held their own against 1988 — both years being rough on fruit growers because of weather problems.

Farm Credit Reports On Alleged Commercial Banking Policies

Editor's Note — The following report, on the commercial banking industry, is from The Farm Credit Council headquartered in Washington, D.C.

Speaking of the report, Stephen Blakely, public affairs director for the Council, says that since this issue ultimately could effect the cost of credit to farmers, the subject makes interesting reading.

The commercial banking industry, seeking to solidify control of the agricultural loan sector, is waging a campaign to "gin up" complaints about the cooperative financial system for farmers and ranchers.

The target of the bankers' ire is the Farm Credit System (FCS), the cooperative system owned by its farmer-borrowers and originally created by Congress in 1916 to provide competitively priced, reliable credit to agriculture.

For over a year the bankers' Washington, D.C.-based lobby organization, the American Bankers Association (ABA), has been accusing the FCS of "predatory pricing" — making below-market loans to farmers to lure away customers from commercial banks.

However, those charges have been proven to be groundless by the System's independent federal regulator, the Farm Credit Administration. At a hearing earlier this year before the House Banking Committee, FCA Chief Examiner Davie Baer stated that Farm Credit institutions "were offering rates attractive in their markets," but that these actions "have not supported claims that Farm Credit System institutions were pricing loans below their cost of funds."

Despite that setback, commercial bankers recently renewed their campaign against Farm Credit. In a letter last month to all commercial agricultural lenders, former ABA President Kelly Holthus openly solicited complaints about the Farm Credit System "to use with Congress and the Administration." Holthus also praised an ally of the banking industry for initiating an anti-FCS investigation by the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress.

Holthus' letter drew immediate response from Farm Credit officials, who again defended their record and questioned the bankers' motives for attacking borrower-owned FCS lending institutions.

"If a small bank is losing a loan, it's not just because of us. It's because they're not competitive with interest rates," said Jim Kirk, president of the Farm Credit Bank of Omaha, in comments to Nebraska newspapers.

"We have yet to hear from any farmer or commodity organization that our prices are too low. What we're really talking about here is good, old-fashioned competition, which helps our nation's farmers and ranchers more than anyone else," said Peter Myers, president of the Farm Credit Council, the trade association representing the FCS institutions. "This ploy by the ABA is clearly designed for their own benefit. If they succeed, the loss of healthy, honest competition is bound to hurt rural Americans."

Myers added that Congress created the Farm Credit System in 1916 because commercial lenders were not providing adequate or affordable agricultural credit to the nation's farmers, "and in some areas, that's still true today."

In recent years, the commercial banking industry has become the major source of short and medium-term agricultural production loans, although the Farm Credit System remains the largest holder in the nation of long-term real estate loans to farmers and ranchers.

Since the widespread collapse of farmland values in the mid-1980s, the Farm Credit System has restructured over 734,000 loans with a principal value of $10.25 billion, in order to keep financially troubled but still-viable producers in business.

Bachtel, Judy Appointed To SS Advisory Board

Eugene Bachtel, Eglon, W.Va., and Millard Judy, Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., were elected to the local Advisory Board at the Southern States Annual Membership Meeting of Eglon Farm Service Inc., held in Horse Shoe Run July 25. More than 16 stockholder-members and their families attended the session.

Arthur Forman, Amboy, was selected chairman of the local Board, while Bachtel was named vice chairman.

Elected to the Southern States Farm Home Advisory Committee were: Mrs. Cynthia Bachtel, Horse Shoe Run, and Mrs. Janice Forman, Amboy.

Mrs. Mary Rembold, Eglon, was selected chairman of the Farm Home Advisory Committee, and Mrs. Connie Stemple, Aurora, was named secretary.

James E. Collier, Huntington, Southern States' district manager, gave the cooperative's overall operations report. This report also included a slide-tape presentation entitled "Southern States: On the Growing Edge."

The report on local operations and services rendered to farmer-members in the community was given by Mike Bolyard, manager of Eglon Farm Service.

1990 Farm Bill - on the way to House and Senate floors

Dairy: Both bills prevent the Secretary of Agriculture from implementing a dairy-buyout program. A $10.10/cwt. milk price support floor for the next five years was set, with a supply-control program that the secretary of agriculture must implement when surplusses reach seven billion pounds, milk equivalent. The supply-control program most likely to be implemented is a two-tiered pricing system. National Cattleman's Association never swayed on this issue, and Congress knows that any buyout scheme is completely unacceptable to cattlemen. The dairy industry did some last-minute lobbying for a buyout provision and may try again on the floor.

Wetlands: Environmental and conservation issues gained unprecedented attention this year; and both committees agreed on similar provisions. The House bill contains a clearer, more agriculturally-realistic definition of wetlands. The Senate bill amends the mitigation process for swampbuster, which may help establish the importance of ranking the value of wetlands.

Water Quality: Water quality became a lengthy debate in the House Agriculture Committee, which decided to offer financial incentives and cost-share assistance to livestock producers who voluntarily implement water-protection measures. Environmentalists wanted a mandatory water-quality program with strict financial penalties for those who didn't comply.

Income for the Future

From 1979 to 1988, farm incomes nationwide suffered an average annual decline of 3.02 percent. Over the same period, the total number of people employed in farming fell at an annual rate of 1.78 percent. The future looks better, though not rosy.

Maryland 4-H Dairy Cattle Judges Return From Competition In Europe

Members of Maryland's 1989 national champion 4-H dairy cattle judging team and their coach returned July 15 from a 26-day visit in the British Isles and five other European countries.

Highlights of their trip included participation in Young Farmers' dairy cattle judging competition at the Royal Highland Show near Edinburgh, Scotland; a two-day trip to the Isle of Jersey; a visit to cheese plants and bellmakers in the Swiss Alps; and exposure to the sights and sounds of Bastille Day — France's equivalent to the U.S. Fourth of July — in Paris on July 14.

Maryland's competition in the dairy cattle judging arena at the Royal Highland Show involved other youth teams from the United States — primarily the national champion FFA team from the state of Washington.

Against that competition, Maryland's Stacey Guyton, 17, of Arnoldstown (Frederick County) was the top individual in both reasons and overall standings. Unofficial computations placed her sixth — had her scores counted — in the overall stockmen's contest standings involving Young Farmer participants from throughout the British Isles.

Other members of the Maryland team were Jenell R. Rinehart, 16, of Taneytown (Carroll County); Randy Stiles, 19, of Bootjack (Montgomery County); and Jim Allen, 18, of Broad Run (Frederick County).

They were accompanied by their coach, Dr. J. Lee Majeskie of Calverton (Prince George's County). Dr. Majeskie is a dairy herd management specialist for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service.

After their trip to the Isle of Jersey, the Maryland 4-H participants joined members of other U.S. national champion judging teams for tours of England, the Netherlands, West Germany, and Switzerland. These included the 1989 national FFA dairy cattle and livestock judging teams from Washington and Oklahoma, respectively, and the 1989 national champion 4-H livestock judging team from Iowa.

In Switzerland, the Maryland delegation parted ways with the other teams and left for a week of sightseeing in Italy. This portion of the European tour was made possible, in part, by memorial gifts honoring the late Blair Stiles, father of Maryland team member Randy Stiles. The elder Stiles died suddenly last fall while the Maryland team was participating in the national 4-H dairy cattle judging contest at Madison, Wis.

The Blair Stiles memorial fund was administered by the Maryland 4-H Club Foundation. Contributors included business friends and Jersey cattle breeders throughout the nation.

Other portions of the Maryland 4-H delegation's European trip were funded in part by sale receipts generated by Holstein heifers donated by the parents of team members Jenell Rinehart and Jim Allen. Additional funding came from dairy organizations, businesses and individuals.

Maryland's current national champion 4-H dairy cattle judging team is the 25th in the last 69 years — a record unmatched by any other state. It is the 17th Maryland team since 1951 to participate in judging competition in Great Britain. Dr. J. Lee Majeskie has coached two of the national champions in eight years of coaching Maryland 4-H teams.

Farmers Urged To Report ACP Acres

Garrett County producers are correcting soil, water and environmental problems on more than 375 acres of farmland under the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP).

So far this year, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service has received 76 requests for ACP conservation practices.

Farmers who were approved for the ACP practices are urged to report their completed practices to ASCS as soon as possible for prompt payments. Those who find they can not complete the conservation practices by the expiration date are asked to notify ASCS immediately.

The Garrett County ASCS Office says soil erosion continues to be a major problem for farmers, and the ACP practices are helping to solve this problem.

Persons desiring further information on the ACP program, are asked to contact the Garrett County ASCS Office at 334-1901.

Lightning Hits Griffith House In Friendsville

The Harry Griffith residence on Maple Street in Friendsville was struck by lightning Monday afternoon which caused a build-up of smoke in the attic area.

The Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department was alerted by Garrett County Emergency Management at 3:22 p.m. when someone from a business across the street saw smoke coming from the roof, according to Terry Spear, chief of the Friendsville company.

Spear said a thunderbolt created two small holes in the aluminum soffit as it entered and exited the attic.

Firemen were unable to find other damage to the two-story, wood frame structure. They were on the scene for approximately 20 minutes.

In a separate fire story, a 1985 Chevrolet Citation, owned by Robert Yoder of Meyersdale, Pa., was damaged by fire Wednesday, according to the Maryland State Police.

Reports indicated that Yoder was southbound on U.S. Route 219 and turned into the parking lot at Grantsville Shopping Plaza when he discovered the vehicle was on fire.

The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department was called to the scene by Garrett County Emergency Management at 10:18 a.m. They returned to the station at 11:05 a.m.

Bowman Fire Update

Fire Marshal Guy Carola announced this week that the cause of the fire that destroyed Bowman's Equipment Co. on Gravelly Run Road has been ruled accidental in nature.

The August 3 fire had caused over $500,000 in damage to the business and inventories.

Persons who had equipment in the building for service and repair are asked to contact Donnie Bowman at 1-301-387-4600.

A NEW FARM QUEEN TO REPRESENT AGRICULTURE — Melissa Thomas (center) was crowned the 1990 Garrett County Farm Queen in a ceremony sponsored by the Farm Bureau Sunday evening at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. Melissa is the 17-year-old daughter of Samual and Sharon Thomas, Accident, and will be a senior this fall at Northern High School. Pictured at right is Peggy Evans, daughter of Gary and Linda Evans of Oakland, who was named first runner-up. Conducting the crowning was Rebecca DeBerry (left), the 1989 Garrett County Farm Queen.

Board Of Ed. Discusses Bus Stop Appeals; School Renovation Status

The appeals procedure for school bus stops and a plan to keep the public informed on Southern High School's renovation were two items on the agenda of the Garrett County Board of Education's monthly meeting, held August 9.

The board approved revisions to the guidelines for school bus stops, implementation, and appeal procedures. The revision, explained by John Morris, Assistant Superintendent of Administration, and Michael Sines, Superviser of Transportation, dealt with how persons will approach the board after a bus stop decision made by the superintendent has not satisfied the appellant.

According to the guidelines for school bus stops, school bus stop changes may be initiated by the bus driver, a parent, school administrator, law enforcement agency, or the transportation director.

The transportation director will approve or disapprove a formal request for a change or an addition, and the requesting party will be notified of the decision. Appeals of the decision will be directed in writing to John Morris, who will review the findings of the transportation director, and report his decision to the requesting party.

If the decision of the assistant superintendent continues to be unsatisfactory to the appellant, the request may be directed to the superintendent of schools, and then to the Garrett County Board of Education. The appeal must be submitted ten days after the superintendent's decision, and must either be a written appeal, or the appellant may request a hearing before the board. The revision of the guidelines states that the requested hearing must include a written statement to support the verbal appeal.

High School Renovation Status

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent of Garrett County Schools, suggested that the board prepare a press release every four to six weeks to keep the public informed on the progress of the renovation at Southern High School. Board member Mikal Moomau agreed

Board Of Ed. Slates Hearing On Redistricting

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold a public hearing on Wednesday, August 22, 1990, at the Bloomington School at 7 p.m. in the cafetorium.

The purpose of the hearing is to discuss the possible redistricting of the portion of Garrett County which includes Aaron's Run Road, Westernport Road, and Phoenix Hill, currently known as the Westernport District.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools, stated, "The Garrett County School Board will be interested in hearing from local residents as to their feelings concerning the sending of children from this area to the Bloomington School rather than the current practice of sending them to the Westernport Elementary School."

Former Resident Serving As Pilot In Middle East

Cpl. James A. Schreiner, 32, originally from the Deep Creek Lake area, departed late last week for an as yet unknown destination in the Middle East where he will be employed as an F-4 fighter pilot for the U.S. Air Force, 35th Tactical Air Squadron, during the current occupation of military forces in the Persian Gulf.

The son of Herb and Mary Sutcliffe, Deep Creek Lake, Schreiner had been stationed in California since last March and, before that, in England for three years where he was certified as a wing commander.

Schreiner graduated from a Bethesda high school and the University of Maryland. He then enrolled in the ROTC program at the University of Vermont where he graduated second in his class in that program. He was then commissioned as a Second Lieutenant.

He has also served as an instructor pilot of T-34s and T-38s in San Antonio, Tex.

Schreiner will be piloting an A-10 (known as a "Thunderbolt") or an F-4 (known as "The Wizard").

County Role In Wetlands Regs.; Discussed By Commissioners

The Garrett County Commissioners this week heard recommendations concerning county delegation of the controversial and complicated issue of non-tidal wetlands from their appointed Wetlands Advisory Committee. Among those recommendations were two initiatives designed to make the issue more understandable and workable for local residents.

In a memorandum from the committee to the commissioners, it was reported that the committee has undergone a review of the state legislation of wetlands as well as permit procedures and "numerous agency responsibilities" to those procedures and regulations.

Regarding the possibility of county control of the regulations, the memoradum stated, "Though the committee's sentiment is that the program could be administered more efficiently at the county level and would be more advantageous to the citizens of Garrett County, the committee recommends that the county nurture a better understanding of other county non-tidal wetlands program delegation through the experience of other county delegations."

In addition, the committee sited time and money constraints in the county developing its own administration of the program. Therefore, the memorandum stated, "the committee recommends that the county not seek delegation of Maryland's non-tidal wetlands program at this time."

The committee did, however, issue several recommendations that would allow for local involvement in the program and provide guidance to county property owners. The committee suggested the commissioners pursue the establishment of a regional office "strictly devoted to non-tidal wetlands activities and permit administration."

The committee also suggested that local state legislators be approached to initiate an amendment to the current wetlands legislation that would permit a more flexible time frame for the counties to pursue local administration of the program.

It was also suggested to the commissioners by the committee that a Non-Tidal Wetlands Delineation Service be set up under the auspices of the Garrett County Soil Conservation District to aid property owners in identifying wetlands and give those owners "an idea of the more favorable locations in which to develop their property." The committee cautioned that this service would be available only to those property owners interested in building single-family dwellings so as not to conflict with private consultants servicing the development community.

Further, the committee suggested that the board "establish a committee to monitor state permit activities for the local community and serve in an advisory role for those citizens and organizations seeking information and assistance."

The advisory committee has also reminded area residents that activities such as constructing any type of building adjacent to a stream or in a low lying marshy area or constructing a road or bridge in wetland areas may require a permit. The committee further stated, "Although agricultural and forestry activites will not require permits, these activities will be required to incorporate best management practices and sediment and erosion control plans respectively."

A review of these activities will be performed by the Soil Conservation District so that impact to wetlands be kept at a minimum.

It was reported by Commissioner Elwood L. Groves II this week that no clear definition of non-tidal wetlands has come forth from either the state or federal level. He also noted that Maryland Department of Natural Resources (the administering body for the state) is currently seeking authority of the program from the federal level (administered by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers).

Commissioner Ernest J. Gregg Jr. stated, "It is unrealistic to expect that the Soil Conservation District would be the administering authority because the Maryland Department of Natural Resources is not going to give up that authority and because the work would have to be done at the local level but would still be overseen by DNR, creating another unnecessary level of Several CDS Arrests Made By Sheriff's Dept.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department reported several arrests this week, including two persons charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance.

Clarence J. Morris, 41, of Dawson, Pa., was arrested early Saturday morning on several charges, including possession of a controlled dangerous substance (marijuana), possession of CDS paraphernalia, and driving with a suspended license.

Morris had been stopped just south of Oakland on Rt. 219 for a traffic violation when the other charges were made. He was released from the Garrett County Jail after posting a $500 bond.

Stephen D. Wilt, 30, Grantsville, was charged with driving while intoxicated on August 11 after being stopped on the Maynardier Ridge Road in Grantsville.

After a routine inspection, Dep. J. Murphy found evidence of a CDS and also charged Wilt with possession of marijuana and possession of marijuana paraphernalia.

Wilt was released on his own recognizance.

Three More Rabies Cases Confirmed By Health Dept.; Total Now 30

The Garrett County Health Department this week confirmed three more rabies cases, bringing the grand total to 30 for 1990. This surpasses the previous record of 24, set in 1984, according to Health Department officials.

A rabid skunk was reported Monday at the Clyde Smith residence, located along Maynardier Ridge Road near Jennings. The skunk came in contact with a currently vaccinated dog that will be revaccinated and watched for 90 days, according to Tina Buckel, Health Department sanitarian.

John Robinson reported the presence of a raccoon Saturday at his residence on McKenzie Road, located off the Avilton-Lonaconing Road. An unvaccinated dog there was euthanized as a result of exposure to the rabid animal.

The third case this past week was reported by Debra Yommer when a raccoon entered her property on Rt. 40 at Keysers Ridge and was killed by her vaccinated dog. That dog will also be revaccinated and watched for 90 days, according to Steve Sherrard, sanitarian.

Bloodmobile Set To Visit Oakland Aug. 24

Someone in this country needs blood every seventeen seconds and 95 percent of the population will need a blood transfusion of some type at some point in their lives. The Johnstown Region needs to collect over 3,000 units of blood a week in order to meet the needs of residents and patients hospitalized in its 65 participating hospitals.

According to Norma Hesen, chairman of the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross, a bloodmobile is scheduled for Friday August 24, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Oakland National Guard Armory.

People often give blood only after they hear about a friend or relative who was in an accident, but it's too late then, said Ms. Hesen. "Blood has to be on the shelves before an accident occurs, if it's not on the shelves, the victim may not be able to receive the treatment they need to live," she stated.

While it takes about 45 minutes to an hour to go through the entire procedure, Ms. Hesen explained that giving blood is easy and virtually pain-free. "Once you register at the bloodmobile, you'll progress through our 'belt-line' physical

Man Sentenced To Six Months In Sex Offense Case

A Grantsville man was found guilty of fourth-degree rape after having sexual relations several times with a 14-year-old female, reports Garrett County district court.

Steven J. Beitzel, 26, Grantsville, was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $50 for the offense, and several other counts of rape and assault were not prosecuted.

Beitzel's six-month sentence was suspended by Judge Jack Turney.

According to the victim, Beitzel raped her at least five times in the Grantsville area. She had been left under his supervision on all the occasions.

Thomas A. Donnelly, 40, Bloomington, awaits sentence for battery of a woman whom he left injured on July 26, according to district court records.

Donnelly reportedly told the woman she was going to die and then struck her in the eyes with his fists. After also injuring her foot, he left her alone at her Bloomington residence, where there was no working telephone. The victim was found four days later by her son.

Judge Turney has ordered a pre-sentence investigation after finding Donnelly guilty of battery last week. Turney did not prosecute Donnelly on charges of reckless endangerment and assault with intent to murder.

A Friendsville man was charged with malicious destruction of property with value less than $300 and sentenced to 30 days plus a ten-dollar fine after breaking a television set at Ken's Tavern, Friendsville. Harold B. Burgess, 38, Friendsville, allegedly broke the TV on April 4.

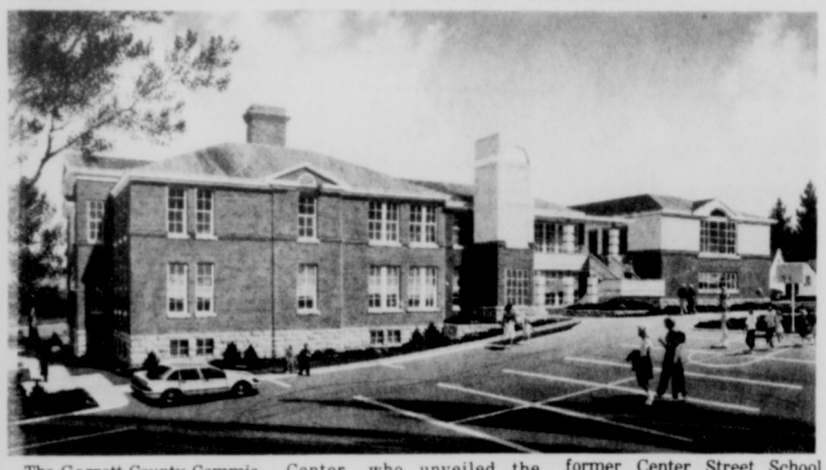
Plans For New Multi-Service Center Revealed



The Garrett County Commissioners this week met with Greg Mitchell, project architect for the new Garrett Multi-Service Center, who unveiled the artist's rendering of the completed 26,000 square foot renovation design for the former Center Street School building in Oakland.

Also present to review the design and plans were representatives of the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., as well as Administrator Duane Yoder. The building will house all programs of that organization.

The project design is for a multi-service center, including a senior citizen center, facilities for Head Start and child day programs, and administrative offices of the Community Action agency.

Plans call for a combined parking and outdoor recreation area that will be used as a summer outdoor youth recreation site. It will also be available for off-hour basketball. An upgraded "tot lot" is also included.

The original portion of the building will be restored in accordance with historic guidelines and will be accessible to handicapped persons. A three-story elevator will also be added.

Plans also call for a second floor to be added to the existing auditorium to be used as apartments for the elderly and meeting rooms. The first floor will house the senior, Head Start and child day centers, as well as program offices for Head Start.

C.A.C. transportation, fuel assistance, weatherization and food program offices will be located in the basement of the building, and the second floor will house the offices for the senior citizens and housing programs and the administrative offices of the C.A.C. Corporation.

According to reports the renovation cost is $1.5 million and construction is scheduled to begin in the spring of 1991.

Six DWI Reports This Week From Md. State Police

Maryland State Police, McHenry barrack, arrested six people this week on charges of driving while intoxicated or driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Charged were: Merrill K. Doyle, 42, Friendsville; Randall W. Ervin, 20, Deer Park; Samuel V. Butler III, 32, Frostburg; Richard A. Skeweris, 35, Oakland; Rebecca A DeWitt, 20, Kitzmiller; and Robert G. Shaffer, 31, McHenry.

Vehicle Totaled As Driver Passes Out At Wheel

Helen R. Kahl, 66, Friendsville, was treated and released at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital after the car she was in was totaled in an accident on Rt. 28 on the morning of August 10.

According to Maryland State Police records, Kahl was traveling South near Old Morgantown Rd. at 11:15 a.m. when she apparently blacked out. Her 1979 Chevrolet Scotsdale reportedly ran off the left side of the road and struck a telephone pole.

Besides the damage to the car, damage to the telephone pole was noted. Kahl was removed to the GCMH by members of the Northern Rescue Squad.

A McHenry man was cited for DWI and failure to control his vehicle when he reportedly skidded into a parked car at 2:00 a.m. Sunday morning.

Maryland State Trooper S. W. Vincent was called to the scene when Robert G. Shaffer, 31, failed to negotiate a moderate left curve at the intersection of Mosser Rd. and Bumble Bee Rd., McHenry, and ran off the road and into the 1988 Dodge Ram van owned by Barry C. Rush. After striking the van, Shaffer's car continued skidding back across Bumble Bee Rd. and into a fence, says Vincent.

Shaffer was taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital where he was treated for minor injuries.

A Florida woman lost control of her car on Mayhew Inn Road on Monday and struck a tree, police said. Edna B. Watson, 77, New Port Richey, Fla., had been traveling west near Skipper's Point Rd. when her 1988 Oldsmobile Delta 88 skidded on wet pavement and over an embankment. Watson and her passenger, Arnell F. Tomeo, 70, also of New Port Richey, were taken to GCMH by the Garrett Rescue Squad, where they were treated and released.

Also on Mayhew Inn Rd., an Oakland man sustained minor injuries on Friday when the van he was driving struck a utility pole.

State police report that John T. Keller, 33, was traveling westbound three-tenths of a mile from Skipper's Point Road when he swerved to avoid hitting an animal. He failed to negotiate a left turn and ran off the right side of the road, striking the pole. He was cited for failure to drive in a single lane.

Keller was taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad.

Two people were transported to GCMH Wednesday after an accident on Sand Flat Road, report police.

The accident occurred at 1:51 p.m., two miles off U.S. Route 219, and the patients were transported by members of the Southern Garrett Rescue squad.

Deer Park firefighters were also called to the scene. Further details were not available.

Sex Offenders Sentenced In GC Circuit Court

Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer ordered a pre-sentence investigation after accepting a guilty plea to the charge of second degree rape from Robert D. Smith, 22, Oakland.

Smith originally pleaded not guilty to the charge which stemmed from an incident occurring in December 1989 involving a 14-year-old female. He was at that time charged with second degree rape, third degree sex offense, and assault and battery. Smith changed his plea to guilty to the rape charge, and the other charges were not prosecuted.

After the PSI was ordered, Judge Thayer revoked Smith's bail, and placed the defendant in the custody of the Garrett County Sheriff.

Smith was represented by Robert C. Hesson.

In a separate case, George E. Garrett, 19, Accident, was found guilty of one count of child abuse merged with one count of third degree sex offense, according to the case document.

After a pre-sentence investigation, Judge Thayer sentenced Garrett to three years in the Maryland Department of Corrections, and then suspended all but time already served. He ordered three years of supervised probation and counseling.

Garrett's charges stemmed from a December 1989 incident involving a 4-year-old female.

playing basketball, sewing and reading when time permits.

The first runner up is Peggy Sue Evans, the daughter of Gary and Linda Evans of Route 3 Oakland. Peggy will help the queen with activities during the week.

Melissa will travel to Timonium to take part in the state Farm Queen contest at the Maryland State Fair on Sunday, August 26.

Also taking part in this year's Farm Queen contest were Amy Lynn Bernard and Jamie Leigh Porterfield.

During their on-stage interviews, the four contestants told the judges and the audience about their farm responsibilities and future plans. Each contestant drew a "fish-bowl" question and gave an immediate answer.

Melissa's "fish-bowl" question concerned safety precautions on the farm. In her answer, Melissa said that many accidents on the farm involve children, and that children should be trained to avoid accidents and watched so that accidents can be prevented.

Rebecca DeBerry, 1989 Farm Queen, gave her farewell address, thanking the Farm Bureau for the opportunity to represent agriculture during her year as Farm Queen.

The judges for the event were: Susan Alvarez, teacher at Southern Middle School; Dr. Franklin Custer, Christmas tree farm owner and former state veterinarian; and Mrs. Steve Kisner, of the Oakland FFA Alumni.

The new Farm Queen has started her dutues at the fair, and says she is "very happy." When her name was announced as winner of the contest, Melissa said: "At first it just didn't sink in. Then it was overwhelming, and I'm very happy."

Grantsville Man Continues Battle Of Forest Fire

Grantsville Forest Ranger Owen Handwerk, along with 19 other firefighters from Maryland, continue to battle the "snowshoe fire" at Malheur National Forest in Oregon this week, according to Bernie Zlomek, Forest, Park and Wildlife project forester and public information officer.

While there were 2,000 acres burning out of control last week when the Maryland crew arrived, there are now some 11,000 acres burning in that area with no estimated date for containment.

There are 49 crews of 20 men each battling that particular fire. "With strong winds and dry lightning prevailing, the situation is only getting worse," said Zlomek.

There were 360 new fires reported in western states over a 24-hour period as of Monday. Over 20,000 firefighters are battling blazes in those areas. More than 900,000 acres are currently burning.

Zlomek said that there is explosive fire behavior in northern California and he expects that a second crew from Maryland is likely to go to California.

This year, so far, there have been 45,000 fires that have claimed three and one-half million acres.

A BANNER IDEA — The Maryland State Highway Administration and the C & P Telephone Company Community Relations Team (CR) and the Communications Workers of America, No. 2109 (CWA) have been working for several months in a joint project to place banner poles in Oakland and the surrounding area (U.S. Route 219, north of Accident; U.S. Route 219, north of Oakland; Md. Route 39, west of Oakland; Md. Route 135, east of Oakland; and Md. Route 42, south of Friendsville). The purpose of the poles which are located on state property is for various groups and organizations to display banners promoting special community events. The poles were donated by C & P, while C & P employees donated their time to work with the State Highway Administration in placing the poles. Any organization wishing to use the poles must obtain a permit, which contains specifications pertaining to the use and hanging of banners, from the Maryland State Highway Administration, P.O. Box 3347, LaVale, Md., 21502. Pictured, left to right, are William C. Gypsy Moth Task Force Gives Season Report; Announces Program Changes

At its August meeting, the Gypsy Moth Task Force reviewed its 1990 aerial spray program and outlined a plan for a similar program for 1991.

The task force recommended an aerial spraying program using the insect growth regulator, Dimilin, as the control agent. The Board of County Commissioners allocated $300,000 to the project as the County's share and contracted with High Tech Applications of Elkins, West Virginia, to do the aerial spraying.

The program was open to any landowner in Garrett County and the resulting 798 applications represented blocks as small as one acre to blocks as large as 2,000 acres. Many applications represented multiple landowners as many residents, especially those with small blocks, contacted adjacent property owners and worked to sign up whole neighborhoods. Six towns in the county also participated in the program. Spraying began May 25 and ended June 25. Total acres sprayed by the county cost share program was 63,920.

An aerial survey conducted soon after spraying was completed showed a vivid contrast in sprayed versus unsprayed areas. There were many acres completely defoliated by this year's high population of caterpillars. Although many areas have since leafed out again, this puts additional stress on the trees. Owners should expect about a 30% mortality after one year of defoliation, 60% after two consecutive years.

The task force recognized that this year's successful program was the result of cooperation of the Garrett County Extension Office staff, the ASCS Office staff, Garrett County Assessors Office staff, TCI for providing a recordkeeping program and computer support as well as the many landowners who worked to sign up their neighbors and the professional work done by High Tech Applications.

"The weather in Garrett County is often a factor in any project undertaken here," said Jim Simms, Garrett County Extension Agent. "This project was no exception. An early warm spell accelerated the Gypsy moth hatch and in some areas of the county caterpillars hatched before the oak trees had developed leaves. Spraying these areas was especially difficult as caterpillars devoured leaves as fast as they developed. Wind conditions also limited helicopter flying time. In spite of these problems, landowner response to the program was positive and the task force has decided to follow through with a similar program for 1991."

Two changes have been made in the sign-up procedure to help facilitate the application process. The application period will begin much earlier with advertising beginning now in an effort to inform the county's many seasonal residents of this cost share opportunity. An earlier application period will also allow the aerial applicator more preparation time. The second change was moving the entire application process to a single office. Landowners MUST mark an aerial photo of their property in order to apply. Last year this was done at the ASCS office. This year maps will be available at the Gypsy Moth Task Force Office along with application forms so all paperwork can be completed in one place.

In deciding whether to apply for spraying next spring, landowners should survey their property for new egg masses. These are oval in shape, about 1" in diameter, tan in color and contain 500-1,000 eggs. These can be found on tree trunks, under branches, fence rails, rocks, house eaves and any protected place. Be sure to distinguish this year's newly laid masses from last year's. Also consider egg mass populations and neighboring property and prevailing winds. Small caterpillars can travel great distances by "ballooning" on the wind. Landowners with large woodlots may wish to consult a professional forester regarding a long-term management plan that may include spraying and timer harvesting.

The sign-up period for 1991 spraying will be September 1 through October 27, 1990, at the Gypsy Moth Task Force Office, Room 1, Garrett County Extension Office, 202 S. Third Street, Oakland, Md., phone number 334-1983. (Please do not call the Extension Office for Gypsy Moth information). The Gypsy Moth Task Force office will be open only on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. and on Saturday mornings from 8:30-noon.

To sign-up, landowners must complete and sign an application, mark an aerial map and pay their share of the cost of spraying. As mentioned above, aerial maps will be available at the Task Force office. Although tax maps and other maps are helpful, they do not replace aerial maps and this step must be completed. (Landowners who signed up last year and do not wish to make any changes can use last year's maps which will also be available at the Task Force office).

The fee for 1991 is $70.00 for less than 10 acres, $7.00 per acre for 10 or more acres. In general, at least half the fee is required with the application, with a minimum required deposit of $70.00 and a maximum of $2,500. The balance of the fee is due April 1, 1991. Spraying will be done mid-May to June, 1991.

As with last year's program, landowners with 10 acre blocks or less are urged to work together with their adjacent neighbors and sign up as a group. This is more economic for them and is also more efficient for the spray applicator.

overlook the old stand-by: a toll bridge? Since it is heavily travelled, the revenue should come in rapidly. So, come on and get with it and let's see you earn your keep.

When it comes down to it, we, the taxpayers, are buying a bridge. So, we should have a say in the quality of bridge we buy. And who guarantees the bridge and pier? And who is going to pay for it when any part of it fails? I know, the taxpayers again. So, the new bridge and pier plus alignment will cost five million dollars. You say your're saving us 1.6 million dollars. I don't think so. If the center pier fails, it will cost the taxpayers the cost of removal of the wreckage plus the cost of rebuilding.

To answer Mr. Montgomery's remark on the Casselman Bridge, we are not interested in the Casselman Bridge.

Come on, people, let's do this thing right.

Sinerely,
William L. Taylor

Truly Free . . .

Madalyn Murray O'Hair, probably this nation's best known atheist, is off on a new tangent in her quest to remove from American society as many elements of Christianity, or any belief in a supreme being, as possible. Her latest project has been to collect 27,000 names on a petition demanding the cessation of all religious services, prayer, and music from radio airways. Her petition, which also calls for the banning of Christmas programs in public schools, has been presented to the Federal Communication Commission. A number of churches are now organizing a "counter attack" by encouraging parishioners to write to the FCC, indicating their opposition to Ms. O'Hair's petition.

The effort that made O'Hair the infamous character she is today was her fight against prayer in public schools, a fight which she ultimately won. While we certainly have no desire to identify with Ms. O'Hair, we agree with the Supreme Court's decision banning prayer in school for several reasons. First of all, things such as morality, values, and religion cannot be force-fed by law. Secondly, a truly free society requires total separation of church and state. Thirdly, one of the cornerstones of our constitution and our nation is freedom of religion, which says that this right is guaranteed for all American citizens, whether they believe in God, in some other supreme being, in a rock, or in nothing at all. If public money is involved, such as in the public school system, then no taxpaying citizen should have to be subjected to the beliefs of one religion.

However, concerning this most recent petition of Madalyn O'Hair, it appears that she is attempting to circumvent the Constitution. While radio stations must obtain licensure and a frequency from the FCC, a government agency, in order to legally be on the air, most stations are owned not by the government, but by the private sector or by non-profit corporations (public radio). In effect, Ms. O'Hair is attempting to deny the right of free speech of private citizens, which also smacks in the face of the first amendment. To Ms. O'Hair we say, you can't have it both ways.

Incidentally, for those who wish to contact the FCC to oppose O'Hair's latest petition, the address is: Federal Communication Commission, 919 M Street, Washington, D.C., 20054.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

We've been hearing a great deal about fiscal responsibility from our commissioners lately. But what kind of fiscal responsibility is it to spend millions on two important projects when the end result is that both of them will be satisfactory?

The wrangling over the renovation at Southern High School was one of the most appalling spectacles I have ever witnessed. Without going into who did what and to whom, when the dust settles we're going to wind up with a bare-bones renovation that has been described as "barely adequate" to do the job. I had wanted, and voted for, the best possible school for my children — but that is not to be.

Now I'm hearing the same refrain over the renovation of the Glendale Bridge. Virtually everyone agrees that the best solution is a new bridge built parallel to the old one. But for want of 1.6 million dollars we're going to spend 3.5 million to put a new roadway on the old piers. What kind of fiscal responsibility is this?

We have to drive our children to a pick-up point for the school bus because the bus cannot negotiate Toothpick Road. Yet this is the very road, along with Rock Lodge and its famous hair-pin turn, that is expected to carry the traffic routed away from the bridge. I cannot imagine the disasters waiting for those people in campers trying to pass cars with boat trailers. The roads department says it is going to upgrade and maintain these roads, but there is no mention of how much money is being budgeted for this. Is this being included in figuring the real cost of the bridge.

The "dozen people" that went before the commissioners were there to represent many other people. Those businesses are going to lose a great deal of money, and some people may lose their jobs. This will certainly result in lost revenue for the county. Has this been figured into the real cost of the bridge?

Up to now, heavy trucks have not been allowed to use the bridge. Will trucks, including those from the quarry, be allowed to use the new one? What will those trucks do to the old piers over the years?

Deep Creek Lake is the centerpiece of Garrett County. It is what brings in all those tourists and relieves them of all those dollars. It is my understanding that the revenue from the lake funds a major portion of the county budget. But when it comes to putting some of that money back into the lake area to maintain it, the commissioners are unwilling to spend any more than is absolutely necessary. This is not a neighborhood issue. Every Garrett Countian should realize that it is in his/her own best interest to maintain this gold mine in the best possible manner.

Our children will be boarding a school bus at 6:20 a.m. this year to accommodate the split schedule. They will be on that bus for about an hour, each way, because they have been routed away from the Glendale Bridge. I would be much more willing to put up with this double whammy handed to my family except that the end result is going to be a second-rate school and a second-rate bridge.

To the Editor:

Each year for the past twelve years we have been receiving increases in our tax bills. The property tax increases on old homes, fifty to one hundred years old, the same as on three to four year old homes. Any building fifty or more years old naturally does not increase in value, but the assessments have been raised just the same. Tax bills have increased along with the increased assessments.

In case it is farm or timber land, the assessments have been increased even if the timber has been cut and sold. The land assessments have been raised the very next year by as much as TEN DOLLARS per acre. Does it make any sense?

Further, the new people coming in and building new homes have resulted in substantial property increase valuations. The tax base has more than doubled. Yet our taxes on old and new properties have DOUBLED in the twelve years that this Board of County Commissioners has been in office.

In addition the county debt has increased under this Board of County Commissioners. I will publish the amount at a later date.

And to make it worse, while increasing property taxes, they reduced the tax on beer and liquor. More than two years ago, they stated that they lowered the county tax on alcoholic drinks in order to entice more drinkers into the county. In addition, they have had Delegate Edwards pass a bill to raise their own salaries and provide increases for travel, etc. If there is any denial of this statement, I will publish the bill by Edwards.

At this time they are tearing down a solid, well built bridge over Bear Creek. Only through letting contracts for new bridges, new additions to new school properties, and buying new machinery, can some public officials satisfy their ambitions to spend the people's money.

Under the present county roads administrator, appointed by the county commissioners, they have gone out of the county to Hagerstown and bought several hundred thousand dollars worth of big, big Mack trucks equipped to the hilt and standing so high that it requires big, big dirt shovels to reach high enough above the dump beds to load their contents into the dump beds.

Other counties are using ordinary size Ford and Chevrolet dump trucks for county road work. Nor did they go out of their own county to spend their county roads money. Our commissioners fired the county roads engineer and went out of the county and hired a person who, in so far as I can find out, is not an engineer and never built any roads. If he had any experience, let the commissioners come out and say so. The taxpayers of Garrett County ought to know.

Too much of our county gasoline tax money is being spent to build and maintain roads through the state owned forests, while some of our county roads are being neglected.

The National Association of Civilian Conservation Corps Alumni (NACCCA) is extending an invitation to all former CCC members, families and friends to attend and enjoy the festivities of the first National NACCCA reunion at Pigeon Forge, Tennessee, September 27-29, 1990.

It is a known fact that many former CCC members reside in areas serviced by your publication.

Pigeon Forge and nearby Gatlinburg are twin tourist attractions and Gateway to the Great Smokey Mountain National Park, which the CCC helped to build during 1933-1942.

The NACCCA is a young and growing organization with 152 chapters throughout the nation and more are in the planning and development stages. One of its major objectives is to have the CCC reactivated.

Anyone interested in the Organization and Pigeon Forge reunion may write the NACCCA Headquarters, P.O. Box 16429, St. Louis, Missouri, 63125-0429, for more information and literature.

To the Editor:

From time to time I have voiced the need for stabilized economic growth in Garrett County. When compared to other counties in Maryland I believe we would have to take a backseat in this regard and the overall outlook into the future is dismal. A certain party said it is one thing to complain about it and another to do something about it. So, I figure the least I can do is to state what I believe needs to be done in the hope I can generate some thinking and ideas by others and possibly some action. Perhaps you may not agree or may have a better way of improving our economy. If so I challenge you to bring it forward for discussion. Here is what I have to say:

The expanding tourist industry is important to our economic well being. To continue with such expansion it must be accomplished on an orderly well planned basis so as not to degrade the desirability of our area. If we are not careful we might kill the goose that is laying the golden eggs. To further enhance and perpetuate our county as a tourist mecca careful planning, supported by in-depth environmental and economic analysis is required. Consideration must also be given to its impact on the well being of all citizens in Garrett County.

In addition to the tourist industry we must expand to other industries. The kind of industry that will provide year around career type jobs and a decent livelihood. The kind of jobs that will keep our young people in the county. Just to be a tourist servant to the metro ruling class is not the total answer if we expect rise above the lowest per capita income county in the State.

Spending millions for industrial parks complete with infrastructure and then offering tax incentives with the hope that industry will come to Garrett County doesn't work. This we know after fourteen years of building two industrial parks and a third underway. The Oakland Park with two industries employing 34 people and the Accident Park with one industry employing 42 people is not good enough. It shows we can't sit on our hands and wait for industry to come to Garrett County.

Here is what we must do. First let me state Garrett County is rich in natural resources, i.e. timberland, farmland, coal, and gas, all within easy reach to the great metropolitan area of the east. We have good banks, the Linked Deposit Financing Program, and the Tri-County Council Revolving Loan Fund Program. We have a good educational system, available state job training programs and the Garrett Community College ready to educate to meet the specific needs of industries. The quality of living in Garrett County is a premium asset. Most important of all is our human resources. A high calibre workforce of people ready to adapt and serve the specific needs of selected industries. With the means and talent available in our county we need to correlate and carefully evaluate these assets and determine the specific types of industry most adaptable to our region.

Once the specific industries most adaptable to our region are determined we must proceed with feasibility studies, cost analysis, market surveys, and financing plans. These must be incorporated into a prospectus for each of the selected industries. Then, with proper leadership and direction from county officials and participation by ancillary organizations, we can energize and assist local entrepreneurs to create the new industries selected for the overall benefit and growth of our economy.

In other words we must do for ourselves and not expect others from out of the county to come in and do it for us. We have the means and talent within the county and with proper leadership we can do it.

The following letter was also submitted to the Secretary of Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Dr. Torrey C. Brown; Assistant Secretary, Capital Programs, Michael J. Nelson; and Assistant Secretary, Forest, Park and Wildlife Service, Donald E. MacLauchlan.

From the tenor of letters printed in the local newspapers, it comes to my attention that a controversy is developing over the intended use of certain public lands in Garrett County.

In general, I am dismayed to learn that extensive commercial logging is permitted in state-owned forests, especially the old sections. Logging greatly disturbs the aesthetic and fragile eco-system. A uniform, manicured stand of trees is not an appealing sight to a naturalist, and a lost species is lost for eternity. Even if restoration was possible, centuries would need to elapse before another comparable old forest eco-system would avail itself.

Granted, a society might possibly survive without the availability of an ancient forest, but only as a social community not availed to ancient culture might seem to survive. Either condition would be a loss of vague proportions and evade the routine awareness of many persons, but such a condition would pose a most ominous spectre to the more contemplative folk.

The study of ancient places and cultures yields scientific knowledge or wisdom. The process requires periods of contemplative retreat into preserved places for the study or inspiration. Likewise, other persons find solace, scientific knowledge, or redemptive insight from visiting a place like a primordial forest. In this regard, the recessitude of such a forest deserves respectful consideration, in that its remarkable stasis and ambience is not of our making or management.

A commercial forest is a different kind of forest. It addresses the needs of an industry. The private growers are quite competent in this regard. They do a great job of supplying the nation with wood products. However, our children also deserve to inherit a diversity of biology and aesthetics provided by the total resource of an unaltered forest.

Thus, to conclude, I urge you to defend our few pristine forest areas and resist persuasions for alteration which are based upon the expediency of utilitarian purpose.

My commentary is from the perspective of being a twenty year resident of Garrett County and parent of three grown children raised here.

Respectfully,
Edmund Wawzinski

To the Editor:

"Something worth doing is worth doing (well) right." That lesson has been valid throughout time. Yet, our County Commissioners seem to have forgotten (or never learned) this when it comes to the Glendale Bridge project on Deep Creek Lake.

No, they have not yet officially voted on the final proposal for this project. These veteran politicians have learned certain lessons when it comes to taking a stand on issues when election year politics are in the air. What they do, is to put up plenty of smoke that few can see through, in the form of their own, and not independent, bridge engineer. That made for a great media day of pro-commissioner rhetoric without anyone taking an official stance. I wonder why our elected officials neglected to invite concerned property owners and business people who, just two weeks earlier, had expressed a variety list of objections.

Our commissioners are getting so good at orchestrating a media event that they even had their engineer step outside or his supposed field of expertise and address impacts on our community, with his comments in the July 10 issue of The Republican. I feel Deep Creek Lake is worth an additional $1.6 million investment. Even more strongly, I doubt the quality of those detour routes available, especially when time of response is so critical for various emergency services.

Common sense dictates that to spend $3.5 million and to put the result on top of an early twentieth century bridge pier will eventually lead to throwing more good money after old bad money.

So come on guys — learn your lesson. Give Deep Creek Lake the right bridge for the right money.

To the Editor:

Yes, I'm harping on the Glendale Bridge project. It doesn't sound too safe putting a new double-wide span on an old center support or pier. The limit is 12 tons now and they (Commissioners, Mr. Montgomery, etc.) are doubling the lanes of travel. They're for doubling the traffic and the tonnage. It doesn't sound like a safe decision to me.

Mr. Montgomery said the state "program" bridge substructure is already 60-65 years old, leaving 35-40 years left. Weather has caused some parts of the center pier to fall off and repairs to be made. That makes me feel real safe.

Elwood L. Groves II stated "We recognize it is preferable to go with a new alignment and bridge." Commissioner Gregg wants the lake area to be a class act. Well, fellas, let's do the "class" thing and the right thing and go with new alignment and everything. It's our money anyway. Our tax money to the county, our tax money from the state. So spend our money on an all-new bridge.

If you're wondering about the rest of the money, there are ways to get it . . . float a loan, raise taxes until such time as the bridge is paid for (and there is money here at the lake in property owners and businesses), and how could you

The Mind Wanders

Has anyone out there moved across country using a rental truck lately? If you have, you should know not to get mad at the drivers of such trucks if they don't seem to know what they're doing on the highway.

I just recently moved to this area (back home) from Chapel Hill, North Carlolina (far away), and the experience was more mind-boggling than I could have possibly conceived. I shall never again scowl at the driver of a U-Haul, Ryder, Jartran, or any other of those rental company trucks as he passes on the right or cuts me off while merging or weaves scarily in and out of his lane.

I know what he's going through.

It all started when I realized that I'd have to tow my car behind the truck. But I didn't let it worry me. It can't be that hard, I thought.

I called the rental agency where I had reserved my truck and told him that I also wanted to tow my car.

"Is your car front-wheel drive?" he said.

"Yes." So far so good.

"Well, then, a tow bar won't work. You gotta use a tow dolly." Dolly, I thought. Why do I need a fake baby to help me with my car? Must be spelled differently: maybe it's dollie.

"Okay," I said. "I'd like to rent a tow dollie with my truck."

"Sorry," he said. "Ain't got no tow dollies. You'll have to try in Raleigh."

Raleigh is just far enough away from Chapel Hill to be inconvenient.

On the way there I realized that Raleigh and dollie are pronounced the same way. By this time I was getting amused with the whole situation, so I decided that it must be spelled daleigh.

When I got there, I was surprised to see what I was getting. It was this strange two-wheeled thing, oddly shaped, with the inscription "Speed Limit 45 MPH" on each of the fenders, printed backward. I hooked my daleigh up and headed back to Chapel Hill.

It was at that point that things started to really go awry. I picked up my truck and drove it home, and immediately realized that I didn't really know how big this thing was. There was a sticker on the dashboard that read, "Truck clearance 11 feet," but I didn't know how long or wide it was. I discovered the length the moment I backed into the tree.

I had known the tree was there, of course; it was in my yard. But as I backed toward the front door, I wondered why it wasn't appearing in my side mirror. And then, WHAM! I was thrown against the back of the cab.

Oh, fine, I thought. There goes my $80 deposit. I pulled forward and tried again. This time I got just past the tree, but as I cut the wheels, I heard a loud SSSCRAPE! I had sheared off a marker light, as well as a great deal of bark from the side of the tree.

Finally, I got the truck positioned correctly, after SSSCRAPE!-ing the tree several more times and SSSCREECH!-ing the front stoop, too, and loaded it up.

As I was trying to attach the daleigh to the back, and my car to the daleigh, I realized that the directions they gave me seemed to have no bearing on the object I was dealing with. It didn't have chains; it had straps. It didn't have a twist-lock; it had a ratchet. And the book didn't say anything about why it said "Speed Limit 45 MPH," backwards.

After I finally had everything ready to go, my wife and the cat packed into her car and myself packed into the truck with the daleigh on the back, we fired up our walkie-talkies and were ready to go. We soon found out that our walkie talkies only worked when we were both stopped at a stoplight, one behind the other. At all other times, there was so much static we could hardly make out what the other was saying.

We got on the road, and I soon realized that 99 percent of the time, I could not see the daleigh, or my car, at all. Except, during the ten percent of the time that I could see it, the words "Speed Limit 45 MPH" flashed in my side view mirror. I looked at the speedometer. I was doing 65.

This is like Alice in Wonderland, I thought. Ever since that damn daleigh came into my life, nothing has made sense. Backward printing, strangely shaped objects, disappearing trees...

I then realized, it must be spelled Dali.

After a few hours, my wife called to me as we were pulling up to a stop. All I could hear over the static was, "Dali...going crazy...all over the place..."

This sent fear shooting through my spine. Oh, God, I thought. Something's wrong with the Dali. It's coming loose or something. "What?" I said. "Something's wrong with the Dali?"

"What? (static, static)", she said.

I said, "Is there something wrong with the Dali? It's going all over the place?" By this time, we had come to the stop.

"No, Molly. She's going crazy; she's all over the place. On my lap, around my feet...I can hardly work the pedals."

Molly is our cat.

As I drove on at 65 miles and hour, over twisty, two-way roads, past huge tractor-trailers that seemed to know what they were doing, I realized again and again that I didn't. I was in a surreal dream world, and it wasn't over until I got rid of that Dali. That's what started all my problems.

So if a rented truck passes you on the right, or cuts you off while merging, have patience. He probably doesn't know the dimensions of his truck, he probably doesn't know the correct spelling of his equipment, and he may be traveling in another dimension from your own.

By the way, if you're a Sherry Frantz fan, don't worry. She's still here. She's just busy this week playing editor, while Don Sincell is walking around in Florida with mouse ears on his head.

County Commissioner
BRENDA'S OPINION
More Issues of Concern
Recycling — Why weren't we on top of this issue years ago? Why did we wait until the state mandated that we have a program? In my opinion we have a lack of leadership in the commissioners' office. In the early '70's, I helped to organize a glass recycling project for the Junior Woman's Civic Club. We were successful and the response was excellent. Eventually we needed more manpower and trucking equipment. Because we were a volunteer organization, we had to drop the project. I attended a meeting in January 1990 that was to explain recycling in the county. Paul Shockey represented the commissioners. At that time, it was evident that the state had mandated that we have a program. Garrett County had done very little to implement the program. All across the country recycling programs are working. Why did we have to wait to be "hit over the head" by the state to realize we can't live with our own trash? We could have been a leader with this movement.
Battered Wives — Yes, I have heard from your volunteer workers. I am concerned that the Family Crisis Center was closed. It is my understanding that very little of county money was being used for your program. I agree, if you have a crisis, Cumberland is too far to look for help. As a commissioner, I would work hard to get a new program started in the county.
We need new leadership in the commissioners' office. We need someone who has the time and ability to plan for the future. I feel the incumbent has had 12 years to shape up; it is now time to ship out.
IT IS TIME FOR A CHANGE!

"This is expected to the biggest and best meeting ever for the CCC, and you are bound to have a good time sharing past experiences with buddies of long ago," said Cherry. "Pigeon Forge and nearby Gatlinburg are twin tourist attractions . . . it is a vacation land of unbelievable variety."

Cherry noted that over 5000 reasonably priced hotel and motel rooms would be available near the reunion site, as well as over 1,500 campsites.

Information can be obtained and reservations may be made by calling 1-800-251-4444.

For other hotel and campground information call the Pigeon Forge Department of Tourism, P.O. Box 1390 CCC, Pigeon Forge, Tenn., 37868; or call 1-800-251-9100.

Six CDS Cases Heard By Judge In Circuit Court

A Garrett County couple pleaded guilty to controlled dangerous substance charges in the Garrett County Circuit Court on Thursday.

Michael A. and Phyllis M. Inglese were charged with several offenses after a police raid which occurred on Dec. 29, 1989. The raid occurred at the Backbone Mountain Inn, located between Red House and Gorman on Rt. 50. The Ingleses were found with varying amounts of cocaine at that time, as well as several firearms.

Among the several charges given the Ingleses at that time were possession of cocaine, possession with intent to distribute, maintaining a public nuisance, and wearing, carrying, or transporting a firearm.

Following a plea agreement, Mr. Inglese's plea of guilty to possession with intent to distribute and Mrs. Inglese guilty plea to possession of cocaine were accepted by Judge Fred A. Thayer. He then ordered a pre-sentence investigation, due in twenty days.

Mrs. Inglese's bond was revoked, and she was remanded to the Garrett County Sheriff. Mr. Inglese was released, apparently to care for the couple's children.

Another PSI was ordered by Judge Thayer in a separate case. Laura B. Cardinell, 33, Oakland, pleaded guilty to one count of distribution of cocaine, and two counts of possession of cocaine.

Cardinell was charged following a Maryland State Police narcotics sting operation occurring in June and September of 1989 at the Oak Grove Tavern, Crellin.

Cardinell's bail was revoked, and she was remanded to the custody of the Garrett County Sheriff. Defense counsel was Richard F. Green.

Steven J. Boldman, 25, Terra Alta, was sentenced to three years in the Maryland Department of Corrections after pleading guilty to one count of distribution of cocaine.

Judge Thayer had ordered a PSI and had revoked Boldman's bail before sentencing him on Aug. 9.

Atty. Jack Price represented Boldman.

Judge Thayer sentenced William W. Reall, 25, Mountain Lake Park, to a total of two years, six months in the Maryland Department of Corrections. Reall will be given credit for time served, and the court recommended his sentence be served in the Garrett County jail.

Reall was found guilty of two counts of distribution of marijuana, which merged with possession of same. The six-month sentence was given for one count of common nuisance.

Reall was arrested in July 1989 at the Backbone Mountain Inn on Rt. 50 following a sting operation.

Defense counsel was Deborah A. Lawson.

Shirley A. Jarusek, 25, Swanton, was sentenced to the Maryland Department of Corrections for a total of two years and thirty days by Judge Thayer on Aug. 9.

Jarusek pleaded guilty to counts of cocaine possession and distribution and possession of marijuana, the charges stemming from September and October incidences occurring at local taverns.

The Judge ordered credit for time served, and suspended all but one year of Jarusek's total sentence.

Representing Jarusek was Robert E. Watson.

In a separate case, Robert L. Wilt, 24, Oakland, was sentenced to the Department of Corrections for six years, two years suspended.

Judge Thayer sentenced Wilt on charges of storehouse breaking and entering and felony theft. The charges stemmed from an April 19, 1989 incident when the defendent allegedly broke into a Somerfield Cable TV warehouse and stole several items.

Wilt was also ordered to the restitution of $1650 to Garrett Video Productions.

Defense counsel was John R. Toston.

22 Signs Stolen From Route 42 In Blooming Rose

Maryland State Police report the theft of 22 road signs on Route 42 in the Blooming Rose area, according to police records at the McHenry barrack.

The missing signs, including ten stop signs, a speed limit sign, and seven white and yellow bridge markers, were apparently removed from their signposts using a wrench by an unknown suspect between Blooming Rose Road and the Pennsylvania state line, sometime during the night of Wednesday, August 8.

Police report the total loss at $733.78.

Also reported this week by state police was the theft of a Kenwood AM-FM stereo from the 1980 Audi owned by Edward H. Wiskman.

Wiskman's car was broken down on Rt. 48 near Negro Mountain Saturday morning when it was broken into and the stereo was taken.

The Citgo station in Accident was burglarized sometime during the night of August 11-12, and $70 in cash was stolen, reports W. H. Frantz and Sons, owner of the station. State police are continuing investigations.

Police arrested a Kitzmiller woman for carrying a concealed weapon after stopping her for driving while intoxicated, reports say.

Rebecca A. DeWitt (age not available) was stopped by Officer Moore at 3:30 a.m. on August 12 and a subsequent search produced a set of brass knuckles.

A 1987 Chevrolet Celebrity was reported missing when Freda Mae Labbe woke on the morning of August 8 and discovered it was not in her driveway where she had left it.

Rene D. Labbe, 59, Swanton, to whom the car belongs, reported that the car was stolen sometime between 6:10 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. the night before.

Beacon Program To Add Course To Curriculum

A new course in Garrett Community College's Beacon Program, designed for the adult learner seeking self-enrichment has been added to the fall schedule of classes, according to Joan B. Crawford, director of enrollment development.

The Appalachian Plateau, the Land and its People will be offered on Thursday afternoons, September 6--November 1. Scheduled to meet from 3-5 p.m., the classes will involve more time some weeks because of field trips to various locations within a 55-mile radius of McHenry.

The first class meeting will be held at 3 p.m., September 6 in Room 154 of the McHenry Campus.

Coordinated by Mary Love, with guest lecturers and speakers, the course will focus on the natural resources that have attracted people to this area and the ways in which people have appreciated and developed these resources.

The course will deal with land formations, waters, climate, vegetation, and methods man has used to harness the natural resources for his own productivity.

Among the trips being planned are visits to the Arthurdale community near Kingwood, W.Va., the dam and power plant at Deep Creek Lake, a cider mill and Amish farm near Springs, Pa., the Cranesville Swamp, the Blackwater Canyon, and the castle at Mt. Savage.

The course is being offered for one college credit, or as a non-credit option. Persons 60 years of age or older are eligible for waiver of tuition.

For further information about the course, persons may call Joan Crawford at the college at 387-6666.

Students may register at the Registrar's Office weekdays from 9 a.m.-5 p.m., or may call the college at 387-6666 to reserve a space in the class.

POS Funds Approved For Friendsville Park

Governor William Donald Schaefer recently announced Board of Public Works approval of $45,342 from Program Open Space funds to develop a park in Friendsville.

Chaired by the governor, the Board of Public Works also is comprised of Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Treasurer Lucille Maurer. The board is empowered by the General Assembly to approve major construction and consultant contracts, equipment purchases, property transactions, and other procurement actions.

"The development of these parks is a good example of Program Open Space's ability to increase opportunities for Maryland's citizens to enjoy the outdoors," said the governor.

The 18.2 acre park in Friendsville will have two ball fields, one restroom, two pavilions, eight picnic tables, and playground equipment. Friendsville Community Park is off Old Selbysport Road in Friendsville.

Program Open Space funds come from a one-half of one percent tax on all real estate sales in Maryland. After being appropriated by the General Assembly, the funds are used to purchase land for public parks and recreational facilities.

Southern Band Has Successful Camp Despite Renovation Upheaval

by Mary S. McEwen

Sounds of percussion, woodwinds, and brass echoed through the halls of the Southern Middle School last week as the Southern Garrett Marching Band labored through their six-day band camp. The camp's purpose is to ready the band for their 1990 marching season. The band members practice their music and learn their marching show for the year during a somewhat grueling week of 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. rehearsals.

Due to the renovation at Southern High, much cooperation and compromising had to take place between Southern Middle and Southern High in order for the camp to take place at the Middle School. Much of the high school's materials are currently being relocated to the middle school, in preparation for the split-shift scheduling.

"As the first 'casualty' of the renovation, I think we've done quite well," said Margorie Clever, band director at Southern Middle. "I know everyone here (at Southern Middle) felt somewhat leery about the high school band camp happening this week, but the staff has just been super. Everyone has cooperated so much."

Mr. Richard Clever, band director at Southern High School, said he was "very, very pleased" with the week's work. Clever, who is in his 25th year of directing Southern's band, says he is looking forward to this year's marching season. Practice time for the band will certainly be different this year, he says, due to the split shift. He hopes to have approximately an hour or more each day when the schedules will overlap enough for a group practice.

"We've been working all summer this year, and it looks like we'll have enough time during the school day for a solid practice." He added that he has asked the students to "leave Tuesday evenings open," however.

Southern's show will have a religious flavor this year, as they perform several pieces inspired by the contemporary religious artist, Sandi Patti. The opening selection will be Kalinnikov's "Symphony No. 1, The Finale," followed by a drum solo arranged by drum instructor Blair Glass entitled "O Magnify His Name." The rest of the show will be a production medly of "Amazing Grace" and "Make His Praise Glorious." The music for the band was arranged by Pete Spadaro, of Pittsburgh.

Band members memorize all the music used in the show. Much of that memorization occurs at band camp, as members are expected to know the music by the end of the week.

The drill design (the marching show) for this year was created by Phil Madden, also of Pittsburgh. Each band member receives a copy of the drill, which is drawn on graph paper, showing each member where to move at each part of the field show. This helps the students have an overall understanding of what is going on everywhere on the field, Clever explained.

The colorguard is being instructed by Karen Morton, visual coordinator, from York, Pa., and Tina Winters, Oakland, rifle instructor. Amy Barnhouse, Oakland, is the silk instructor.

Blair Glass instructs and arranges for the percussion section, and is assisted by John Thorhauer, Gary Reams, and Mike Friend. Marching instructors are Robby Johnson, Aaron Cropp, and Melanie Barr. Clever noted that most of the instructors and assistants are alumni of the Southern band.

The band will have a "mini-camp" on August 24-26, and Clever said there will be a show for the public on Sunday, Aug. 26, beginning at 7:30.

The Southern Garrett Band will be competing in a Maryland marching circuit this season as well as one in Pennsylvania.

Youth Soccer Registration To Be Held Today

The Mountaintop Youth Soccer League will hold its first registration today from 3-6 p.m. at Southern Middle School. Those born in 1980, '81 and '82 will enter the Midget Division and those born in 1977, '78, and '79 will enter the Junior Division. The league will be co-ed and the fee for each registration is $10.00.

The league will be in session from the first week of September until mid-November. Practice will be held twice each week with games on Saturdays beginning in late September. The location for these events will be on the fields of Broad Ford and Southern Middle Schools and inside the track in Southern High School.

According to a spokesperson, support from the community is needed in the form of coaches, assistant coaches, spectators and various levels of sponsorship. Team sponsors are currently being solicited for a donation of $250 which will purchase uniforms and a team ball. Other sponsorships can be in amounts of $100, $25, or $10.

Even though final registration will be held in early September, all interested youth are urged to register at Southern Middle School today, in order to have team uniforms ready for the first game. Additionally, all registrants will receive information on the basics of soccer and suggestions for training exercises. Soccer videos are planned for the three-hour registration. Checks are payable to: Mountaintop Youth Soccer League (MYSL).

Additional information or requests for registration by mail may be obtained from Tom Peterson, president, at 334-8367; Rick DeLoach, league coordinator, 387-9595 or Ned Holloway, head coach, at 387-5844.

MISS MARYLAND RECEIVES GIFT — Kim Grimm was presented with a pair of sunglasses from Bausch & Lomb plant manager Rick Schick at last week's 69th Annual Western Maryland Tennis Championship, held at the Mtn. Local Student Named To A/B Volleyball Team

Kim Hinebaugh, Friendsville, has been selected as a member of the Alderson-Broaddus College Women's Volleyball Team for the upcoming season, according to Volleyball Coach Gloria Stewart.

Kim, a 1989 graduate of Northern High School, will be a sophomore majoring in sports medicine at A/B.

Coach Stewart said the 15-member A-B squad is one of her largest, with the anticipation of losing six seniors. She states, "A-B should still be in the race for the conference title this year." She looks for the team to finish within the top three in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference this year.

The Lady Battlers open their 1990 season at the Marietta College tournament, September 7 and 8.

Alderson-Broaddus College is located in Philippi, with an enrollment of approximately 750 students. The college is beginning its 120th year of service.

Numerous Theft; B&E Cases Noted By Sheriff's Dept.

Numerous cases of theft, destruction of property, and breaking and entering were reported by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department this week.

A loss of approximately $900 in stolen goods was reported by William W. Kemp, Glen Burnie. Kemp is reportedly building a cabin on Raccoon Drive in the Youghiogheny Mountain Resort area. Sometime between Aug. 5-8, an unknown person or persons removed several building items, including amp breakers, claw hammers, saw blades, and a carpenter's apron.

Virgil G. Hall, Ridgely, W.Va., reported a breaking and entering incident that occurred at The Timbers development, located off of Rt. 39 in Oakland.

Two tractor trailers owned by Potomac Edison were parked in the development over the week of July 26 to August 2. During that time, the locks on the trailers were pried off, and four 25-pound rolls of bare copper wire were stolen.

The monetary worth of the wire has not yet been determined, according to Sheriff's office personnel.

An incident of destruction of property occurred on August 6 at the Blakeslee Development near Deep Creek Lake.

Alan L. Friend, Accident, reportedly parked his Ford truck in the driveway of a vacation home owned by Mark A. Aloe, Pittsburgh. Friend was working in the development. After leaving Aloe's driveway, Friend discovered that his right front tire and left rear tire had been severely damaged, punctured by spikes.

Upon an inspection of the driveway, spikes known as "jack rocks" were found. Jack rocks are spikes made for puncturing tires. The damage to Friend's tires amounted to $200.

Officers are continuing an investigation.

Ray L. Mosser, Oakland, reported the theft of a chainsaw from a machine shed on his property which occurred sometime between August 8 and 11.

Cpl. L.E. Gnegy is investigating the incident.

A "Bundy" saxophone owned by DeVincent's Music Co., Morgantown, W.Va., was reported stolen from the home of Clarence M. Savage in Mountain Lake Park.

The saxophone was at the Savage residence for repairs when the theft apparently occurred. According to reports, Savage alleged that a person came to his door on July 25 selling coupons. While the seller was talking with him, Savage said he was distracted from the seller momentarily. Upon his return, Savage found that the subject had gone, and that the saxophone was missing.

The worth of the instrument was reported to be $600.

Olin O. Harvey, Oakland, reported an incident of destruction of property to the Sheriff's office on August 8. According to the police report, she had left her 1983 Chrysler parked along Rt. 135 east of Oakland. Upon her return, Harvey found the back window shattered.

Dep. D.L. Crossland investigated the incident and reported that the back window had apparently been broken by a beer bottle, which had possibly been thrown from a passing car. An investigation is continuing.

Hyndman had taken a 1-0 lead in the top of the first when Bobby Kendall was hit by Jim Farkas's pitch and took second on a walk to Rich Stiffey, scoring on a two-out single by Logsdon.

Neither team scored again until the eighth, when Grant Crawford began the Hyndman rally with a leadoff walk. Crawford was brought in by Logston's liner to right field, which skipped past the right-fielder on the wet grass. The game was tied at 2.

Kyle Martz walked and Scritchfield hit a single to center to score Logston and give Hyndman a 3-2 lead. A two-out infield error gave the final two runs to Hyndman.

Oakland's Farkas allowed six hits, and fanned six. Hyndman's Hosselrode allowed five hits and struck out six.

Oakland ended its season at 15-7.

Donald Frantz Notes Retirement From U.S. Navy

AG1 Donald L. Frantz, Eglon, W.Va., retired August 15, 1990, after 20 years service in the U.S. Navy. He was a meteorologist.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Petty Officer Frantz joined the Navy in June, 1970. After completing basic training at Great Lakes Naval Training Center in Illinois, he was ordered to the USS Enterprise aircraft carrier. While on board, he did four tours in Vietnam.

He then transferred to Lakehurst, N.J. to attend Class A Weather School. Upon graduating, he was transferred to Naval Station, Long Beach, Calif.

Frantz later spent three years in Bainbridge at the Naval Training Center as a security officer. He then received orders to Naval Weather Service Detachment in Keflavik, Iceland.

He is married to the former Neva Harsh, daughter of Melvin and Roseina Harsh, Eglon, W.Va. They are the parents of three children. Frantz is the son of Raymond and Hilda Frantz, Eglon.

Frantz also spent time in Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va.; Chanute Air Force Base in Ill.; and Naval Air Station in Ill, where he was the leading petty officer for Naval Oceanographic Command Detachment.

He received five good conduct medals during his service and also received awards for outstanding unit, marksman, National Defense medal, Vietnam Service medal, Vietnam campaign medals, two meritorious unit commendation awards, 12 letters of appreciation and six letters of commendation.

Mr. and Mrs. Frantz will be moving back to Eglon to enjoy retirement. He stated, "Getting used to civilian life will take time and I will probably go to work to keep busy."

Marine Cpl. Jeffery P. Henderson, son of Paul Henderson Jr., Swanton, recently reported for duty with the 3rd Force Service Support Group, Okinawa, Japan. Henderson joined the Marine Corps in July 1987.

RE-ENLISTS IN U.S. NAVY — EM2 Michael W. Brantner, crew member of the U.S.S. Thomas S. Gates, CG51, re-enlisted in the U.S. Navy in May for five more years of service. He is currently stationed at the Naval Base in Norfolk, Va. He was also recently promoted from the rank of EM3 to EM2. Pictured above, right, is Brantner receiving his certificate of re-enlistment from his commanding officer. Brantner was scheduled to ship out yesterday morning, August 15, 1990, for the Persian Gulf. He told his family he is ready to serve his country. He is the son of Bill and Leona Brantner, Kitzmiller.

Board Of Ed.

with the suggestion.

The board approved the contractors to proceed with the actual work in the school. They have been notified, and will begin on August 15.

A re-bid on the heating, ventilation, and air conditioning system (HVAC) at Southern will take place on August 21. According to Ryscavage, the board needs to know what the new cost of the HVAC will be, in order to re-work the budget and attempt to cover the existing $550,000 deficit.

Education Now

Dr. Ryscavage opened a discussion concerning membership in Education Now, a state-wide coalition with the goal of achieving equity in funding for all public schools in Maryland.

As the situation stands at present, the more affluent schools in the state ultimately receive more funding than the poorer ones, which means higher salaries for teachers in the wealthier areas, more state-of-the-art educational materials, and better schools.

Education Now is striving to adjust the system so that all schools have equal funding. Dr. Ryscavage traveled to Baltimore earlier this year to testify in front of the Linowes Commission to voice his support of the goals of Education Now. He proposed to the board members at Thursday's meeting that the board join the coalition by offering monetary support. The board deemed it a low priority for the 1991 fiscal budget and voted the membership down.

Computer Installations

Albert Ringer, Assistant Superintendent of Schools, Curriculum and Instruction, presented a proposal for Chapter II funding involving the installation of computers in Garrett County schools.

The board approved the proposal, the goal of which is to have adequate computer classrooms in all of Garrett County's public schools. The proposed number of computers per school is a minimum of 20 computers, or the same number of computers as there are students in the largest class.

According to the program description, the Garrett County Public School System is in the fourth phase of providing computer classrooms. Northern and Southern High have computer classrooms for thirty students. Red House, Bloomington, and Broad Ford schools are among those in need of several more computers to meet the goal of the project.

Field Trips

The issue of field trip experiences was discussed during which time Dr. Ryscavage voiced his concern "about the way in which we are utilizing our time in the classroom, especially with the new goals we are going to be expected to achieve with the Maryland Performance Plan." He provided a draft document of guidelines which listed several changes in the planning of school trips.

The draft states that principals will be responsible for ensuring that all field trip activities provided by their school are integrated with the curriculum currently being taught. Ryscavage stated that this is in the interest of using time in the most educationally efficient manner.

The draft also stipulates that long distances to be traveled have to be a consideration. Along with the recent rise in gas prices, Ryscavage is concerned about the effect of long distances on younger students. He included a table in the draft, showing the maximum mileage (one way) and the maximum number of field trips per grade: pre-K to grade three, 120 miles and one trip per year; grades four to eight, 200 miles and two trips per year; grades nine and up, 225 miles and three trips per year.

The draft also advises that only those field trip activities which have a direct relationship to the curriculum are to be scheduled on school days. Trips to amusement parks, movie theaters, ice capades, or other recreational areas are to be scheduled on holidays or weekends. Snow skiing trips are to be limited to one such opportunity during a student's middle school learning experience.

The issue of school trips will be discussed further in later board meetings.

See separate story concerning a public hearing planned to discuss the possible re-districting of the Western-port school district.

Man Sentenced

possession and distribution of untaxed liquor, according to district court records. Trooper John R. Thomas reported that William D. Mahaffey, 35, sold "suspected homemade liquor (moonshine)" to him on July 19 and August 18, 1989. Following analysis, the substance was found to be ethyl alcohol.

Mahaffey was found guilty and sentenced to 90 days and a $100 fine.

A conviction of disturbing the peace was handed down last week to Gregory D. Sayre after he allegedly tried to sleep in the lobby of the Wisp Resort Hotel, McHenry, in January. Sayre, 25, Oakland, was intoxicated, according to an employee of the hotel, and became abusive when he was asked to leave. The employee said he offered Sayre a room in the hotel but Sayre refused, using loud and vulgar language.

Sayre was given a suspended sentence of 30 days and six months probation, and the case was placed on the stet docket.

David C. Wilburn, 34, Grantsville, was found guilty last week of violation of probation on earlier charges of assault with intent to murder and assault with a deadly weapon.

McDaniels Joins Staff At Garrett Counseling, Inc.

Garrett Counseling Inc., recently announced the addition of Les McDaniels to its staff.

Les, a graduate of Southern High School, attended the University of Maryland where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in education. He then received a Masters degree at Frostburg State University in guidance and counseling.

During his seventeen years of employment with the Garrett County Board of Education, Les has taught elementary school, for nine years and counceled for eight years.

Counseling at the elementary and secondary school age level and working with emotionally disturbed youth and their families have helped him gain expertise in child and adolescent counseling and family consultation, stated a spokesperson from the Garrett Counseling group. Crisis intervention, sexual orientation and career counseling are other areas in which he has training and experience.

Certified by the National Board of Certified Counselors and licensed by the Maryland Board for Professional Counselors, Les continues training in many areas, such as addictions and grief counseling.

He, his wife, Lynn, and their two sons, Jeff and Tim, live in Oakland.

MOVING IN FOR A WEEK AT THE FAIR — Packing to spend a week at the fair is much more complicated than packing to go on a vacation or to summer camp. As these two photos show, packing for the fair also involves all the grooming equipment, feed, and "clean-up-after-them" equipment that it takes to care for a 4-H of FFA animal project, whether it be a beef steer, dairy cow, sheep, goat, hog, or horse. For parents with more than one child, the amount of baggage and the number of trips to the fairgrounds with truckloads of equipment just multiplies. For the 4-H and FFA members, fairweek is an experience that teaches everything required of them throughout life: responsibility, courage and endurance. These children pictured unpacking, and all other 4-H and FFA members showing at the fair, will end the week tired, but with a feeling of accomplishment that will, already, have them looking forward to next year at the fair.

Other Concerns

The commissioners also met this week with Garrett County Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Garrett County Health Officer, Dr. Rex Archer, and Garrett County Department of Social Services Director, Robert Shaffer, to discuss ongoing concerns of youth not currently being adequately served by the county's educational, social services and health services.

The board also met with Phyllis Trickett, Maryland Commission For Women chairperson, who approached the board concerning the possibility of establishing a Garrett County chapter of the organization.

Arrests Made

Maynardier Ridge Road was the scene of another DWI arrest on Aug. 9. Bruce A. Knox, 54, Grantsville, was found in his vehicle, which had recently been dented in on the front, on the roadway by Officer R. Shaffer. According to the report, Knox was slumped over the steering wheel when the police officer arrived, but then exited the vehicle and attempted to leave the scene.

Officer Shaffer detained Knox and charged him with DWI, resisting arrest, and leaving the scene of an accident.

Patricia P. Kelly, Terra Alta, W.Va., was arrested for DWI on Monday. Kelly was stopped at 1 a.m. on Rt. 39, west of Oakland.

Dep. J. Murphy was the arresting officer.

Kimberly A. Smith, 21, Turtle Creek, Pa., was arrested on the strength of a bench warrent after she failed to pay fines issued by the Garrett County District Court amounting to $480.

Smith originally faced charges of driving under the influence and various CDS charges. She was released Friday after posting a $680 bond, according to the Sheriff's office.

An Oakland man was charged with fourth degree sex offense stemming from a late July incident involving a 15-year-old female.

Lawrence W. Ford, Sr., 31, was arrested on the charge by Dep. C. Feller.

James M. Thomas, 20, Oakland, was charged with battery. Thomas was arrested following an incident that occurred in L.A.Joe's parking lot on August 3.

Another battery charge was brought against Ernest Ray Kisner, 24, Oakland. The arrest stemmed from an incident occurring on or about August 7 on Liberty Street, Oakland.

Duane A. Garlitz, 21, Oakland, was arrested on a bench warrent for violation of probation. He is being held in the Garrett County Jail on $20,000 bond.

Garlitz was originally charged with assaulting a police officer after he allegedly threw a bench from the Sheriff's office at Dep. D. Welch earlier this year.

James Leroy House, 28, Friendsville, was arrested early Wednesday after he was stopped for a traffic violation by Dep. J. Murphy.

House was charged with possesion of a controlled dangerous substance, possession of drug paraphernalia, and driving while his license were suspended.

According to reports, varied quantities of marijuana and cocaine were confiscated by police at the time of arrest.

House is being held in the Garrett County Jail on $15,000 bond.

Clarification

In last week's edition of The Republican, it was reported that Dep. D. Welch witnessed Timothy W. Beeman, 27, kicking Woodrow H. Tasker, 45. It should be noted that Dep. Welch did not witness the actual dispute between the two Mountain Lake Park men, but arrived at the scene the following day.

bureaucracy and making the program more expensive to administer."

Commissioner Groves also stated, "As county commissioners, our main goal is to make this situation the most palatable to the Garrett County citizens. Many of these issues are still being debated at the state level so some of these recommendations are somewhat open-ended as we continue to monitor the stiuation at the state level."

He continued, "We would expect wetlands to continue to be a controversial issue of diverse proportions in the upcoming General Assembly session."

Garrett County Humane Society

Members of the Garrett County Humane Society, Inc., also met with the Garrett County Commissioners this week to request financial assistance for a spaying/neutering program.

Executive Director Bernadine Friend stated that, while such a program is already being administered by them, "the organization has financed this program for the past six years. But with the increasing demand for spaying/neutering, the financial burden can no longer be carried by the Humane Society alone."

According to Friend, the board of commissioners acknowledged the problem and will begin exploring potential financial assistance.

Commissioner John G. Braskey stated, "We've asked the Humane Society to investigate other county programs and to check with local veterinarians about their participation. We would like to see another program first before we establish one here."

SPICY CARROT MARMALADE FOR GAME
Four to five ½-pint Jars
4½ cups coarsely ground raw carrots
3¼ cups sugar
about ¼ cup fresh lemon juice
¾ teaspoon finely grated zest of lemon
½ teaspoon ground ginger
½ teaspoon ground cloves

Trim and scrape carrots, run them through the coarse knife of a food grinder. Put them in a heavy enameled kettle, add the sugar, spices and salt. Warm or roll on a hard surface two lemons (to make them easier to juice, but do not cut: the next step is to grate off the thin yellow skin of the rind, taking care not to get any of the bitter white portion. Add the grated zest to the ingredients in the kettle. Halve and juice the lemons, add the juice to the kettle. Over low heat, and stirring, bring the mixture to a very slow boil, and cook for about 30 minutes or until it is thick. Pour into hot ½-pint jars, leaving ¼ inch of headroom; cap with clean hot lids. Process in a Boiling-Water Bath for 10 minutes. Remove; complete seals if necessary. Makes 4 to 5 ½-pint jars.

With a food processor: Either quarter the carrots lengthwise and stand them upright in the feed tube against the grating disc, or cut them in pieces and chop — a small amount at a time — with the steel blade. Remove carrot pieces and dry the processing bowl. Peel the lemons very thinly; start the steel blade, drop in the curls of zest and immediately add 1 cup of the sugar on the whirring blade; pulse on and off, add the remaining sugar, process for 15 seconds, and combine with the carrots.

"No man is an island," said the poet. Yet, in a real sense, every person is an island. And life is the process of building bridges from one island to another.

From the first cry in the delivery room, to the last whimper on the death bed, we are in the life-long process of building bridges to other islands (other people).

Your place of worship will give you tools for building bridges, not only to other people, but to the One who created you in His image. And building bridges is exciting, enabling you to cross-over into new lands of real living.

Let God's House be your bridge this week.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHO'S THE WISE GUY?

August 19, 1990

Background Scripture: James 1:1-8; 3:1 through 4:12.
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 40:1-11.

Recently, while we were vacationing in Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, I was looking for a particular program on satellite television. By chance, I picked up a program from the USA featuring a well-known television evangelist ministry. The host of the program was in the process of introducing a man he described as "a very learned, knowledgeable and wise scholar of religion." I decided to linger on this channel for a few moments to hear this man. The speaker, a distinguished man with several important academic degrees, read a passage of scripture and then launched into a tirade of abuse directed at the followers of some other religious groups and persuasions. He seemed to delight in finding obscure passages from the Bible upon which to skewer these people, their beliefs and practices, which he scorned.

HOW LEARNED?

So, when I read the designated passages from the Epistle of James, I couldn't help remembering this man and his billing as "a very learned, knowledgeable and wise scholar of religion," for he seemed to violate everything that James says. For example, this man completely overlooked the good things that were done by those whom he criticized.

James wrote: "Every good endowment and every perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of lights..." (2:17). It is one thing to be critical of what others say and do, but to write them off as worthless in God's sight is a dreadful mistake. One cannot be all that wise if he or she cannot recognize good in whomever and wherever it may appear. To do so would be to deny the presence of God in this world. As James says, God is the source of all good.

The Apostle James also gives us another guideline: "Who is wise and understanding among you? By his good life let him show his works in the meekness of wisdom" (3:13). If a person's "wisdom" is arrogant and haughty—as ours so often is—then it cannot be true wisdom. If anyone is truly wise, then they will be meek and humble. True learning does not puff us up with what we know, but makes us humble in the face of what we realize we do not know. That doesn't keep me from thinking that I have discovered something, so long as I don't assume I have discovered it all and that you have discovered nothing. Once again we measure a person's wisdom by the way he or she treats other people.

REALLY WISE

James goes on to make it even clearer: "But the wisdom from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, open to reason, full of mercy and good fruits, without uncertainty or insincerity" (3:17). The wise person is one in whose relations with other people are manifest the qualities of peacefulness, gentleness, reasonableness, mercy and good works toward others. No person, regardless of how many degrees he holds, can be wise unless this wisdom is manifest in a spirit of reconciling love. When wisdom divides people and sets them against each other, it is not wisdom.

"And the harvest of righteousness is sown in peace by those who make peace" (3:18). That's the difference between the wise guy and the person who seeks God's wisdom.

Higher Education Commission Schedules Additional Hearings

Additional public hearings on improving higher education in Maryland will be held in September, Secretary of Higher Education Shaila R. Aery announced this week.

The hearings, which are being conducted by the Maryland Higher Education Commission, were called to hear public testimony on more than 50 proposals by the secretary to make the state's colleges and universities more responsive to Maryland's economic and education needs.

Aery presented her recommendations — published as "Statewide and Regional Policy Initiatives and Implementation Strategies (1990-1995)" — to the commission in June. Public hearings began in July.

"The Commission is very pleased with the high level of public interest in the initiatives and stategies for Maryland's higher education and welcomes the input we have received from the public and academic community," Dr. Aery said. "The more input we receive, the better able we will be to address the state's higher education needs."

Aery said that the commission's Finance Policy Committee will hold an additional hearing on September 5 on all initiatives except student financial aid. The committee will vote on all education policy initiatives on September 7, and the full commission will vote on the statewide plan on October 9.

The Education Policy Committee has already scheduled an additional hearing next month, to be held on September 7. The committee will vote on initiatives on September 21.

The Education Policy Committee meets next on August 22, when it will accept public comment on the following recommendations.

The commission staff will make its initial presentation on the following recommendations, with public comment scheduled for September 7:

•Strengthening teacher education.

All hearings will be held in the fourth floor conference room of the Jeffrey Building, 16 Francis Street, Annapolis, beginning at 10 a.m.

Trophies will be awarded to the top three performers in each category. All entries must be of a Christian nature.

Many Recreational Property Owners Have Mid-Range Incomes

Many of the nation's recreational property owners tend to be middle-aged and generally have middle-range incomes, according to a vacation and second home survey sponsored in part by the National Association of Realtors.

"The American Recreational Property Survey: 1990" found that more than half the owners surveyed had annual household incomes ranging between $20,000 and $59,999. In comparison, only 13.3 percent had incomes exceeding $100,000. The median income of the participants was $46,500.

The survey estimates there are 7.2 million owners of about 6.3 million recreational properties in the United States, with an aggregate value of about $892 billion. Although the majority of the owners do not split ownership, some own interests in the same property. NAR, the American Resort and Residential Development Association (ARRDA) and the International Foundation for Timesharing jointly sponsored the study.

"Wealth is not a requisite to own a vacation home," said NAR President Norman D. Flynn. "It is a purchase that can be as accessible as it is desirable for people below the upperincome brackets."

The survey, involving more than 5,600 recreational owners and prospective owners nationwide, was taken during March. The single largest percentage, 17.6 percent, had incomes from $40,000 to $49,000, while the next largest percentage, 16.8 percent, had incomes from $30,000 to $39,999.

According to Flynn, the survey results suggest many recreational properties are being purchased by people during the peak income-earning point of their careers, still several years away from retirement. The median age of owners was 48. Nearly half - 49.9 percent - of the survey participants were aged between 35 and 54.

"A second home offers a mix of business and pleasure. It is a prudent investment as well as a place to relax," Flynn said. Nearly two-thirds of the respondents said vacation use was the reason behind their purchase, but, 37.5 percent of those surveyed said they bought the property for investment or income reasons.

The report attributes growth in recreational property ownership primarily to the increasing number of households in the nation.

The number of households owning recreational property has increased by about 50 percent, or 2.4 million households, since 1973. At that time, a separate, privately sponsored study found that about 4.8 million households owned recreational property. However, the percentage of owners relative to the U.S. population has remained constant.

Nine out of 10 vacation property owners are homeowners. Single-family homes or cabins are the most widely held recreation property; 42 percent of the survey participants own detached houses or cabins as vacation property. However, this percentage is down from 50 percent in 1973. The percentage of condominium and town house owners has surged, rising from 3.0 percent to nearly 16.0 percent since 1973, showing a sharp increase in the number of those units built during that time, the study says. About 15.6 percent of the participants owned one or more timeshare weeks. Forty-eight percent of those purchasing recreational property since 1973 own timeshares.

The South contained the largest share - 39.1 percent - of recreational properties of all the regions, primarily due to a high concentration in Florida. The Sunshine State, with 15.3 percent of the nation's vacation homes, was the top location spot. Following Florida was California, with a 7.5 percent share. However, year-round, warm climates did not dominate all the property locations. This reflects a desire by some owners to vacation in the same region in which they live, Flynn noted. Pennsylvania and Michigan tied for third place for property location, each with a share of 5.3 percent.

The majority of the respondents have owned their property between three and 10 years, but nearly 29 percent have owned 11 years or longer. "People with second homes buy for the long-term, which is the smart way to approach all real estate investments," Flynn said. According to the survey, the average price paid for recreational properties was $47,266. The median price was $13,000, reflecting a volume of timeshare purchases. The average current market value was estimated by owner to be $108,810 per property; the median value was estimated to be $45,000.

Among prospective owners, the survey found that households aged 30 or younger feel they have the greatest chance, at least 50-50, to purchase vacation property in the future. This may be due, in part, to a "growing expectation among young people that 'good life' includes recreational property," the study says. Nearly three-quarters of all respondents with a desire to own a vacation home do not expect to buy for at least five years.

"If only half of those expressing interest in buying recreation property do so, it is not inconceivable that by the year 2000, the industry would double," said ARRDA Senior Vice President Tom Franks.

Copies of the study are free to the media and can be obtained by calling one of the contacts listed above.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, is the voice for real estate, representing nearly 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

Receives Grant FY91 Approval

The New Horizons Program of Garrett Community College has received approval of their 1990-91 grant from the Maryland State Department of Vocational/Technical Education, effective July 1, with funds provided to serve single parents, homemakers, and displaced homemakers.

The New Horizona Program, located at the McHenry Campus of GCC, provides career counseling, peer counseling, career assessment, career testing, skills indentification, job skills preparation in the areas of resumes, interviewing and dressing, vocational training with tuition assistance in both the non-credit and credit divisions of GCC, child care and/or transportation assistance, and job assistance to eligible program participants.

The following categories are served by New Horizons:

A. Single Parent (working or non-working) who is unmarried or legally separated from a spouse, and has a minor child or children for which the parent has either custody or joint custody.

B. Homemaker who is an adult, and has worked as an adult primarily without pay to care for the home and family, and for that reason has diminished marketable job skills.

C. Displaced Homemaker, one who is separated, divorced or widowed.

According to Barbara Frey, director of New Horizons, this funding year $7,500 will be available for tuition and books assistance for eligible participants of the New Horizons Program in both the credit and non-credit areas of vocational training, as well approximately $1,900 to be used for child care/transportation expenses while program participants are enrolled in training programs.

To determine eligibility for the New Horizons Program, interested persons are asked to call 387-6666, ext. 171, weekdays between the hours of 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. to schedule an appointment to learn more about the program.

Cathy Podewell likes role's gradual change

J.R.'s wife keeps naivete in tact

By Mary Ann Townsend

How time flies. It's already been two seasons since country bumpkin Cally Harper came bounding into J.R. Ewing's highfalutin life on the CBS nighttime drama Dallas.

The character has gone through a nice, gradual change, according to Cathy Podewell, the actress who will be playing Cally for the third season beginning this fall.

From being an unrefined hillbilly throughout most of the first season, to wearing the shoes of a Texas oilman's wife, Cally has retained one basic trait, Podewell said.

"It's been nice because, even married to J.R., she hasn't lost her real sense of innocence and sweetness," Podewell said.

Podewell understands Cally's naivete, and, in fact, experienced it herself a few years ago.

"My eyes were opened a lot when I moved to Los Angeles, and I think that Cally's were when she moved to Dallas. I empathize with her—the people she was meeting and the changes she was going through—as her eyes were becoming wider and wider. I think I'm a little bit less naive than she is, she still has a ways to go, but she's learning," the actress said.

Although the storyline will be focusing on others such as newlyweds Bobby and April (Patrick Duffy and Sheree Wilson), Cally is by no means hidden in the background. As J.R.'s wife, she is the only one who can decide whether or not to release J.R. from the insane asylum he checked into for a business scheme last season. She is also pregnant with J.R.'s child.

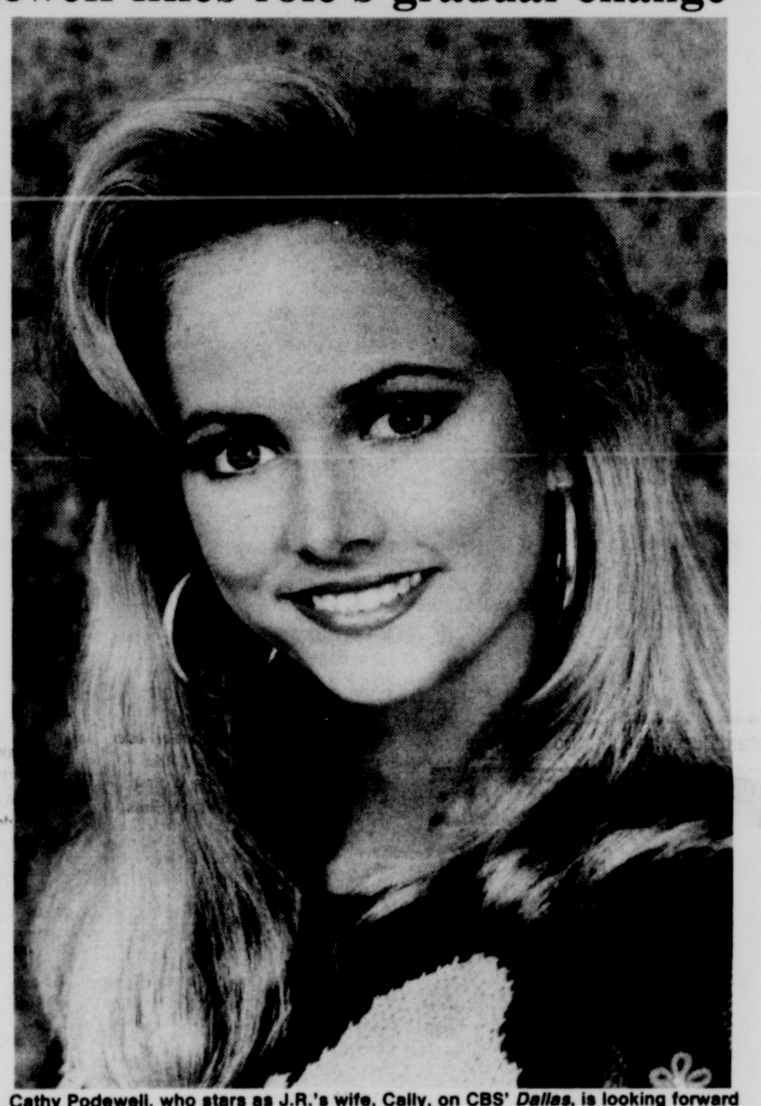
The role has been a departure for Podewell, who had guest starred on a variety of sitcoms, and who had, admittedly, not ever watched a full episode of Dallas prior to being cast.

"I never watched it," Podewell said bashfully. "It's funny because when Dallas started I think I was in seventh grade. And then, you know in high school I was a cheerleader and it was on Friday nights. On Friday nights I was out cheering in the game. But my mom, who doesn't watch TV much, watches Dallas and the news. She just about died when I called and told her, 'Guess who's playing J.R.'s wife!'"

And just as her character has become more well-rounded from spending two years in the hoity-toity lifestyle of Dallas, the experience has been an education for the actress, as well.

"I never even thought about Dallas because I was in so many comedies that I just assumed that that's what I would do, I would be a comedy character actress—and it's like 'J.R., Dallas, I got this series?'" she said she asked herself. But she soon adapted.

"I've had a lot of crying scenes, a lot of mad scenes, so I've worked on a lot of different emotions that I never really got the opportunity to try out in comedy." Then echoing her earlier sentiments about her character's evolution, she said, "I've definitely developed I think, and I have a lot more to go, but hey, that's life." © TV Listing Inc



Cathy Podewell, who stars as J.R.'s wife, Cally, on CBS' Dallas, is looking forward to more gradual changes for her character this fall. It seems the question is, will her naivete win out or will her newfound feistiness get in the way?

Chicago DJ stretches wings in NBC deal

Jonathon Brandmeier branching out

By Mary Ann Townsend

Spontaneous is definitely an understated description of Chicago morning disc jockey Jonathon Brandmeier, and his antics have gotten him noticed for another medium-television.

This season Brandmeier will be moving into nighttime television in a variety of projects, beginning this week when he fills in for the vacationing host on Later With Bob Costas, and when he's featured in a one-hour special airing in place of Friday Night Videos. During Thanksgiving week he will co-star with Mary Tyler Moore and Tony Curtis in an off-beat holiday special, and plans are in the works for Brandmeier to produce and possibly host other prime-time specials for NBC.

On the spur of the moment, Brandmeier has been known to jam with musicians like Elton John and B.B. King on his radio show, or to hand a mobile phone to comedian Howie Mandel for man-on-the-street interviews. He knows the hosting duties for Costas are going to show quite a different side of him.

"I like to get people into situations that they're not used to," he said. "Just weird, bizarre things—not just a straight ahead interview, which is what Costas does so well."

"I gotta tell you they're only getting a small percentage of what Jonathon Brandmeier can do," he said of his upcoming stint on Costas' show. "I'm just sitting in for him and you're just going to see Jonathon Brandmeier," he lowers his voice, "the interviewer."

Jonathon Brandmeier, the unpredictable DJ from Chicago, will spread his television wings as he fills in on Later With Bob Costas, this week on NBC.

Rick Dees travels Into The Night on ABC's crazy weeknight talk show that features celebrity interviews and a musical star spotlight.

Rick Dees rocketing into the night

Talk show blends comedy, music

By Anne Wheeler

Talented comedic performer Rick Dees has enough enthusiasm and energy to wake a slumbering city, and to keep them up. That's exactly what he does on Into The Night With Rick Dees, weeknights on ABC.

The show features comedic bits, songs, chats with celebrities and a spotlight on one of the hottest contemporary musical acts on the charts.

Among the oddball assortment of recurring characters on the show are a head of security who finds bizarre talent to feature, a man-on-the-street reporter and a group of four older women who have ordinary lifestyles, but unpredictable and uninhibited views on a myriad of issues.

Raised in Greensboro, N.C., Dees began his broadcasting career on a dare from a fellow student who challenged him to audition for a local radio station. He did, and got the job and has been on the air ever since.

Since 1984 Dees has enjoyed history making Arbitron ratings for his show on Los Angeles' KIIS-FM. He is also a familiar voice on Rick Dees Weekly Top 40.

He even has his own star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame, and in 1976 he wrote and recorded "Disco Duck," which became an unexpected runaway hit, selling more than four million copies and winning a People's Choice Award.

But broadcasting is merely the beginning of Dees' talents. He played Ted Quillen, the young man who helped launch Richie Valens' career in La Bamba, and plays Rocket Rick in this summer's Jetsons: The Movie. © TV Listing Inc

James Woods performs as the host of Saturday Night Live, this week on NBC.

Fred Rogers presents the repeat of Mister Rogers Goes To School, this week on PBS.

Barbara Eden portrays an overprotective mother in Your Mother Wears Combat Boots, on NBC.

Frank (Joe Regalbuto) investigates the rumors of romance on Murphy Brown Monday on CBS.

John Lithgow and Isabella Rossellini battle poachers who illegally slaughter elephants for profit in The Last Elephant, Monday on Turner Network Television.

Pat Riley takes the helm of NBA coverage on NBC

By Jeff Thompson

It will be Pat Riley, who guided the Los Angeles Lakers to four National Basketball Association championship titles as its head coach, serving as studio host of NBC's coverage of the NBA beginning next season. In his role as studio host, Riley will anchor the network's NBA regular-season and playoff pre-game show and half-time segments. He will also report on NBA news throughout the year. Coverage of the NBA will begin on Saturday, Nov. 3, 1990.

CBS Sports and the John Hancock Bowl have agreed to change the date of the 57-year-old football classic, which has been played on the last Saturday in December, to New Year's Eve, Monday, Dec. 31. CBS Sports has broadcast the annual contest since 1968, when it was the Sun Bowl. It has been sponsored by John Hancock Financial Services since 1986.

In other news, CBS Sports has reached an exclusive deal to televise the PGA Championship, beginning in 1991, that could cost as much as $4 million per year over the next four to five years. TBS SuperStation has signed on as cable partner, and will provide complete early round coverage of the golf tournament as well as partial weekend coverage. ABC has telecast the PGA Championship since 1965 and ESPN cable has provided coverage since 1982.

Kevin (Fred Savage) and Winnie (Danica McKellar) make a decision on ABC's The Wonder Years.

Catherine (Ann Magnuson) goes on the warpath in Anything But Love, Wednesday on ABC.

British comedian to become 'Head Of The Class'

By Steven Alan McGaw

ABC's Head Of The Class bids farewell to Howard Hesseman, who is leaving to pursue other things. British comedian Billy Connolly will make his American series debut when he assumes the role of the high school teacher in charge of the honors program students. Incidentally, Head Of The Class is not on ABC's fall schedule, but went into production Aug. 2 to reappear at mid-season...

Belated condolences to the family and friends of courageous TV newsman Paul Wynne, a broadcaster who already had an impressive list of credits when he was diagnosed with the AIDS virus. Rather than retire from his work (and, perhaps, the world), Wynne turned the camera on himself, hosting a show called Paul Wynne's Diary, an honest chronicle of dealing with the disease. Here's hoping that others may learn from Wynne's courage...

If you're a fan of actor Keanu Reeves (and like to remember that the handsome Canadian is capable of more than Bill And Ted's Excellent Adventure), you'll want to know that he just started work on a film titled Riders On The Storm, co-starring Patrick Swayze and Gary Busey. James Cameron is executive producer, with Kathryn Bigelow in the director's chair. Sounds good to me...

Finally, plans are afoot for a film titled My Mother-In-Law Is Hitler. What more can I say? © TV Listing Inc

Ted Danson plays Sam, the macho former baseball player, in Cheers, Thursdays on NBC.

Linebacker Mike Singletary of the Chicago Bears, meets the Los Angeles Raiders, Friday on NBC.

Yvette Mimieux seeks success behind cameras these days

By Polly Vonetes

Q: In H.G. Wells' The Time Machine there is a girl that Rod Taylor falls in love with; I believe her name is Yvette Mimieux. I was wondering what became of her, if she was in any more movies and what she is doing today. —Bill Weiss, Round Mountain, Nev.

A: Yvette Mimieux has become a television triple threat: actress, writer and producer. A star of numerous feature films, she now produces and writes movies. In a recent interview she said, "I've never lost my love for acting, but I also get enormous satisfaction from writing and producing. I hope to do a lot more work behind the camera in the future."

Q: I would like to know what William Conrad's middle name is and is "William Conrad" his real name? —V. Velasco, Anchorage, Alaska

A: William Conrad was born "William Conrad" on Sept. 27, 1920, in Louisville, Ky. His father was a theater owner who soon moved his family to Southern California, where young William attended Excelsior High School. I am sorry I do not have his middle initial.

Q: I would like to know more about Michael Landon. What is his real name and age? And where can I write him to tell him we really enjoy his shows? He just cannot make any bad shows. —Connie B., Gadsden, Ala.

A: Michael Landon was born Eugene Orowitz in Collingwood, N.J., on Oct. 31, 1936. Write to Landon c/o The Flynn Company, 11100 Hortense Street, North Hollywood, CA 91602.

Q: I really enjoy Zorro on The Family Channel. Do you have some background information on Duncan Regehr, personal and professional? I understand the show is filmed in Spain and will continue on The Family Channel. Do you have an address that Duncan and the other actors can be written to? —M. Wise, Anchorage, Alaska

Yvette Mimeux

A: Duncan Regehr was born Oct. 5, 1954, in Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada, and reared on Vancouver Island. He had his own television talk show when he was 14. He became an actor after pursuing careers as a figure skater, Olympic heavyweight boxing hopeful and an artist. He played a variety of dramatic roles at the Stratford, Ontario, Shakespeare Festival, did voices for cartoon characters and starred in films and a Canadian TV series before arriving in Hollywood in 1981. He and his wife, Catherine, a writer, are happily married and make their home in Sherman Oaks, Calif., when not filming in Spain. Write to Duncan Regehr, c/o Zorro, The Family Channel, 1000 Centerville Turnpike, Virginia Beach, VA 23463.

By C.C. Clark

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
Domestic problems could arise if you continue to be so demanding. Don't make the mistake of alienating loved ones just because you don't agree with their choices.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Take care of those little details this week and your life will run much smoother. Make sure you know where your money is going and how it is getting there.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Influential people will play an important role in your life this week. You'll make a good impression by being yourself and not falling into the trap of self-importance.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
You can have good fortune opening up your own business. Certain matters in your personal life need more attention now than others. Be aware of what is going on.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Romance is in the air for you. You may be heating up some dying embers of an old relationship or you may be burning a whole new fire. Challenge yourself to be creative.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
You become impatient with a new project involving your talents, but an unexpected source offers much-needed support. Don't fret too much.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
You need to pay close attention to detail in your work environment this week. Don't let emotion get in the way of making a serious decision. Thinking clearly is the key.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
This may be the time to take on a leadership role. You can make a great impression on those higher up on the corporate ladder by successfully overseeing your department.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
You will be independent and determined to get what you want, no matter what the consequences might be. Be careful not to lose loved ones while fighting your inner battles.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
If you've been putting off making your home more comfortable, now is the time to get with it. A few pictures and colorful pillows might do wonders.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
There is a possibility for some quick travel plans in the near future. Your schedule will continue to be hectic, so make sure you get plenty of rest to maintain your health.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Phone Pioneers Launch Pioneer Tutoring Program

The Telephone Pioneers of America council serving Garrett and Allegany counties recently installed new officers who pledged to help tutor Maryland youths.

LeAnn Rice, newly named president of the Pioneers' Mountain Council, said the group will raise funds and recruit volunteer tutors throughout the coming year to support "Camp Basic." The camp is an educational and recreational retreat sponsored by the Pioneers.

Throughout the state, elementary school administrators and teachers are being asked to nominate fifth graders who need an academic boost. Those who are selected are invited to attend a one-week session of camping, swimming, hiking, and learning programs at the 4-H camp in Garrett County.

Following the camp experience, Pioneer tutors work with the students throughout the school year.

"The Telephone Pioneers are proud of our organization's history of helping others," Rice said. "We see an educational need that we can fill, by working with the school system, parents and students. We believe Camp Basic will be a worthwhile program for all concerned."

In addition to tackling special projects such as Camp Basic, the Telephone Pioneers regularly visit nursing homes and hospitals, provide aids for handicapped children, establish scholarship funds and conduct environmental clean-up activities.

Nationally, the Telephone Pioneers of America membership exceeds 850,000, making the Pioneers the world's largest industry-based community service group. Members are active and retired employees of the telecommunications industry.

Heavy Vehicle Use Tax Returns Due August 31

Owners of large trucks and buses, in use on public highways since July 1, and weighing 55,000 pounds or more, must file Form 2290, "Heavy Vehicle Use Tax return," by Aug. 31.

A tax is imposed each year on the use of heavy highway motor vehicles. The tax period for highway use vehicles begins on July 1 of each year and ends the followig June 30.

If each truck or bus is 55,000 pounds or more, owners generally can file one Form 2290, covering all such vehicles in use during July.

Owners must also pay a partial year tax on taxable vehicles put into use for only part of the year and file an additional Form 2290 on the last day of the month following the first month of use.

Heavy vehicle owners and operators interested in more information on which trucks, truck tractors, buses, etc., are subject to the tax and how to figure the tax, should call the IRS at 1-800-424-3676 to obtain Form 2290 and Publication 349, "Federal Highway Use Tax on Heavy Vehicles."

Local IRS offices are open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. for walk-in help with the form, or taxpayers with questions can call (301) 962-2590 in Baltimore, (202) 488-3100 in Washington, D.C., Montgomery and Prince George's counties, or 1-800-424-1040 elsewhere in Maryland.

Health Planning Agency Meets In Grantsville

The Governing Board of the Western Maryland Health Planning Agency met recently in Grantsville, Maryland. Ms. Noelle Floreen (Carroll County), President, presided.

Kathryn Cannan, director of the Agency, reviewed the proposed work plan for FY1991. The work plan outlines what functions and projects the Agency will carry out during the course of the year. It is also a requirement by the state and county governments who contribute to the funding of the Agency. The work plan components involve planning, implementation, and statement of local health care needs and priorities.

Active participation in the development of the State Health Plan will continue to be a core Agency activity. In addition, the Agency will continue activities that ensure the formulation of a meaningful Western Maryland consensus on planning issues affecting the region as well as a two-way flow of information between the Commission and Agency volunteers, elected officials, providers, and consumers.

The core iplementation activity for WMHPA will continue to be active participation in the certificate of need (CON) process. Staff will continue to promote the development of services identified as needed in the State Health Plan, to provide technical assistance to applicants proposing projects in the region, and to conduct an Agency review of local projects.

The next meeting of the Governing Board is scheduled for November 8 in Washington County.

New Horizons "Caring" Program Receives Funding

The New Horizons Program of Garrett Community College, which operates The Caring Connection, has been notified of grant approval to continue the program's operation for the 1990-91 funding year.

The college will receive a $20,000 grant again this year to continue operation of an Adolescent Single Parent Model Program for the fiscal year 1990-91. The grant is provided by the Division of Vocational/Technical Education, Maryland State Department of Education, according to Barbara Frey, Director of New Horizons and The Caring Connection.

The funding will be used to continue a model vocational program for adolescent single parents, ages 14 to 19, which includes outreach, recruitment, career counseling, interest testing, personal development workshop participation at both Northern and Southern Middle and High Schools, vocational exploration and training in both credit and non-credit areas at GCC, and job awareness assistance through The Caring Connection Program.

The Carl Perkins Vocational Education Act defines the term "single parent" as an individual who is unmarried or legally separated from a spouse and has a minor child or children for which the parent has either custody or joint custody; or pregnant teens.

Part of the grant will be used for tuition assistance for vocational training at GCC and to provide child care assistance to enable program participants to complete their education.

Adolescent single parents will be encouraged to complete their high school education if still enrolled in school, obtain their GED if they have withdrawn from high school, and enroll in vocational training at GCC in preparation for employment. For those seeking employment, job awareness training will be available and a job referral program may be used to find employment.

A self-awareness series of workshops has been developed utilizing the "Choices" format, or "Life Skills" curriculum and has been coordinated for those still attending middle or high school, and will continue to function this funding year. Similar arrangements will be made for those who have graduated or received their GED who may be interested in this self-awareness series.

Interested persons, ages 14 to 19, who meet the eligibility qualifications, may call New Horizons/The Caring Connection at Garrett Community College's McHenry Campus Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 387-6666, ext. 171, for more information or to schedule an appointment to meet with the program counselor.

County Population Increases Over Ten-Year Period

According to the Maryland Office of Planning's estimates released this week, Garrett County's population grew by 1,702 during the ten year period from 1980-1990, raising the total number of county residents from 26,498 on April 1, 1980 to 28,200 on April 1, 1990. This represents an increase of 6.4 percent.

Maryland's population increased by more than 525,000 people during the decade, a gain of 12.5 percent, from 4,216,975 to 4,742,500. In the previous period, from 1970 to 1980, the state grew by only 7.5 percent, representing only 293,000 additional Marylanders.

Most of the state's growth occurred during the second half of the 1980s, rising by 72,000 persons per year as compared with the first half when the yearly rate was only 33,000.

"Slightly more than half of the recent grow this due to immigration, and the rest is attributable to higher birth rates. Maryland has not seen population growth of this magnitude since the 1960's," said Ronald M. Kreitner, director of the Maryland Office of Planning.

According to the estimates, every political juristdiction in the state gained population during the reporting period except Baltimore City and Allegany County.

Baltimore City witnessed a population decline of nearly 43,000 from 1980-1990, representing a 5.4 percent drop from its 1980 population of 786,775. Allegany County lost 6.5 percent of its population, dropping from 80,548 in 1980 to 75,350 in 1990, a loss of nearly 52,000 people.

Howard County registered the largest percentage increase in population growing by 53.3 percent. Montgomery County gained the largest number of new residents, increasing by 141,447, while Dorchester County recorded the smallest gains with 77 new residents, representing an increase of three-tenths of a percent.

The Maryland Office of Planning 1990 estimates are based on U.S. Bureau of the Census population estimates for 1988 and building permit data through 1989. The final 1990 census population count for governmental units will be released by the U.S. Bureau of the Census in early 1991.

The first year fireworks were used to celebrate the Fourth of July was 1826.

SIDEWALK DECOR — It has become somewhat of an annual summer tradition at the Ruth Enlow Library to have "little readers" decorate the sidewalks in front of the library. The theme for the artwork this year was dinosaurs and, in the photo above, Rachel Sincell, left, and Molly McGowan, take chalk in hand and sketch creatures that appear to be a member of the diplodocus family.

Oil Company Price Increase Testimony Heard

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein testified before the General Assembly's Special Joint Committee on Energy Pricing in Annapolis August 13, noting that price increases of up to 13 cents per gallon since August 1 were imposed by all major oil companies doing business in Maryland. "Price increases appearing at the retail pumps were supplier price increases — not increases tacked on by wholesalers or retailers," he said, noting that legislation requiring open supply contracts or Public Service Commission review of price increases might be considered by the legislature.

The comptroller said he has contacted all major oil companies and brokers requesting an explanation of the sudden and significant price increases.

Goldstein said he is notifying the oil companies and brokers that his office will begin requiring monthly inventory reports "to help us more accurately track supplies as they move the state of Maryland.

"We know that supplies have been adequate . . . we also know that sales volumes have been declining for both major oil companies and brokers during much of the past year. This presents us with an unusual situation, namely excess inventory and declining sales. I know that under those conditions you have a sale and lower the price — you don't raise the price."

Goldstein said his initial investigations "showed a pattern that smacked of abuse," as retailers and wholesalers were notified of price increases of up to 13 cents per gallon in two waves — August 2 and 3 and August 5 and 6.

He said he would analyze the responses to his request for explanation from the oil companies and cooperate with Governor Schaefer and Attorney General Curran and the legislature committee to determine if there have been violations of state consumer protection or antitrust laws.

Noting that the choices for legislative action are as yet unclear, Comptroller Goldstein told the committee that two options could be considered for possible action.

"First, you may want to consider legislation that would open up the supply of petroleum products in the state of Maryland," he said. This would permit wholesalers and retailers to purchase cupplies at the best price from whatever supplier they choose. This would replace the current system of tying retailers and wholesalers to branded suppliers. The state of Virginia recently considered similar legislation, and we have copies for your consideration. Our constant quality inspection program and our testing laboratory at Jessup will continue to guarantee the quality of all product sold in Maryland, no matter what the supply source.

"Secondly, you may want to consider legislation that would place the oil companies under the control of the Public Service Commission process of hearings and technical support would provide some measure of consumer protection through open participation in the pricing process. This type of legislation is being considered in the state of Washington," he said.

Garrett Forestry Board Meets In Hagerstown

The Garrett County Forestry Board met August 1 to discuss some of the issues that had been brought up at a meeting of representatives from the four Western Region Forestry Boards in Hagerstown. Carroll DeWitt, Accident, reported to the Board on the meeting.

Jim Allen, Grantsville,reported that Garrett Community College is to have a non-credit course this fall entitled "Introduction to Forestry." The course is designed for high school students interested in pursuing a career in forestry, or for landowners interested in managing their woodland. Interested parties may enroll through the Continuing Education Office at Garrett Community College.

The 1990 Forestry-Conservation and Natural Resources Week is scheduled for Camp Hickory, near Accident, August 12-18. Forty-eight students from across the state were selected to attend by the twenty-four forestry boards in the state, based on their interest in pursuing a career in a conservation-related field. Instructors and counselors from various such fields will provide the students with insights into the different careers available.

Discount Card Available For Senior Citizens

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging now has a Senior Discount Card available for Garrett County residents over 60 years of age.

Along with the card, seniors are given a list of merchants who offer a discount to them.

ERROR NOTED

The information given regarding Par-Matt Lanes is incorrect, according to a spokesman from the Agency. It was previously stated that seniors would receive a discount of $.80 per game, Monday and Thursday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Actually, Par-Matt Lanes charges seniors $1.25 per game, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Agency apologizes for its error and any inconvenience this may have caused.

Citations Issued By Lake Police

The Natural Resources Police conducted a SWAMP (Safer Waterways Through Alcohol Monitoring Patrols) operation on Deep Creek Lake on August 4, from 2-10 p.m. The operation was a success with five citations and 23 warnings issued, according to DNR Sgt. Donald H. Simmons.

Violations ranged from equipment and safety violations to speeding in restricted areas. There were two boating accidents reported and investigated during the detail. No alcohol-related incidents were reported, and Simmons stated, "This was hopefully due to our enforcement efforts. The primary mission for this operation is to target drunk boaters and make Maryland waterways safer."

Incidence Of Rabies In Cats Continues To Rise In Maryland

Rabies in cats continue to outnumber the disease in dogs by eight to one in Maryland, according to the Maryland Veterinary Medical Association. There were 16 reported cases, versus only 2 rabid dogs, in 1989, the last full reporting year.

Four cases have been reported in cats so far this year while there have been no reported cases in dogs.

Maryland has one of the highest incidences of cat rabies in the Mid-Atlantic States where the disease has been spreading northeastward for the past eight years in wild animals, particularly raccoons and skunks, from Virginia, through Maryland, into Pennsylvania and now has reached into New Jersey. There were 389 reported cases in all species of domestic and wild animals in the state in 1989.

Pennsylvania, however, reported 66 rabid cats and four dogs in 1989. Of the 183 cases of cat rabies reported in the continential United States last year, Maryland and Pennsylvania reported nearly half.

The increase in cat rabies, according to the veterinary association, has been noted in the last three years and a number of reasons are suggested for the surge. Perhaps the most important is that cats are less likely to be vaccinated against rabies than dogs, although a Maryland law passed in 1985 requires cats as well as dogs be vaccinated. Less than 60 percent of cat owners take their animals to a verterinarian for care or vaccinations, the Association reported as it prepared to observe September as National Cat Health Month. This compares with more than 80 percent of dog owners who seek regular care for their pets.

Moreover, national statistics estimate that only 31 percent of cats are vaccinated against rabies. Other reasons advanced for the increase are that cats are nocturnal and prowl at night when skunks and raccoons also are roaming and that, unlike dogs, cats are not supervised while outside the house.

The Association points out that cats generally don't show signs of illness as easily as dogs and that regular veterinary examinations and vaccinations are necessary to safeguard cats from rabies as well as other common diseases such as panleukopenia, pneumonitis, calcivirus and rhinotracheitis. A significant step in feline health care in recent years was the development of a vaccinaton for feline leukemia, a potentially fatal disease which attacks a cat's immune system.

The veterinarians also remind cat owners about the "curious cat syndrome," problems that can develop when active cats get into potentially harmful situations around the house. Most accidents can be prevented by "cat-proofing" the house, including locking up poisonous products as parents do to protect children.

REVIVE ROCK & ROLL "MEMORIES" AT THE FAIR — Don Gabriel & The Memories will perform tomorrow night, August 17, at 8 p.m. and again at 9:30 p.m. on the 4-H stage at the Garrett County Fair in McHenry. The group was formed in the winter of 1985 to go back to the roots of Rock & Roll of the 50s. The band plays their music with the spirit and enthusiasm reminiscent of times when the country was full of youthfulness and innocence. They play tribute to the late Roy Orbison, wail out "Johnny Be Good" by Chuck Berry, do their own version of the "Shirelles live from Las Vegas" and a tribute to the "King of Rock & Roll," Elvis Presley. Gate admission to the fair is $5 (pay-one-price) per person, and includes parking, all entertainment, all race track events and carnival rides.

College Financial Aid Available For Child Care Career Options

Marylanders preparing for a career in child care may be eligible for up to $2,000 a year in state financial aid for college studies leading to a degree in child development or early childhood education or to professional accreditation, according to sources at the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

Scholarships awarded under the Child Care Provider Program require recipients to work in the child care field after graduation or upon certification.

Following approval of the program guidelines by the Maryland Higher Education Commission, Secretary of Higher Education Shaila R. Aery said, "Maryland needs more child care professionals, and this program will help make it possible for students to go to college or receive the professional training they need to enter this growing and important field."

The program is open to Maryland residents with a high school diploma (or equivalent) enrolled in an associate or bachelor's degree program or a program leading to a Child Development Associate Credential from the Council for Early Childhood Professional Recognition.

Aid is available to part-time students who are employed at a child care center or as a family day care provider. The maximum one-year award is $2,000 ($1,000 for part-time), up to $8,000 per student. Scholarships are awarded on the basis of grade point average.

The scholarship carries with it a service obligation which requires recipients to work in Maryland as a senior staff member or director at a child care center or as a family day care provider, one year for each year of assistance.

The program was enacted last year by the General Assembly. The FY 1991 state budget includes $100,000 for the scholarships.

For more information, interested persons are asked to contact Jeffrey R. Welsh at 301-974-2971.

Good Forest Management Is Needed To Deal With Gypsy Moth Problem

by Jonathan Kays
Natural Resource Specialist
University of Maryland

Summer is here and the defoliation of oak forests by the gypsy moth is again very widespread. Despite large scale spray efforts (163,900 acres in Maryland in 1989) gypsy moth populations and defoliation continues to grow and its range is expanding into surrounding states.

Defoliation in Maryland has averaged 60,000 acres per year since 1984, with resulting oak mortality that has meant an economic loss of millions of dollars in sawtimber, not to mention wildlife, ecological and aesthetic consideration. In western Maryland alone, (Fredrick, Washington, Allegany, and Garrett counties) about 80 million board feet of timber, worth $6.4 million dollars, were killed between 1982-1988, a portion of which has been salvaged.

Spraying has been, and will continue to be, a valuable tool in fighting the gypsy moth. However, it alone is not a long-term solution to protect the forest resource. Besides being costly the effects are short term (1-4 years). Spraying large acreages is hampered by logistical problems of poor weather, equipment needs, and a short amount of time when spraying will be effective. Besides possible environmental effects, regular spray programs do not let gypsy moth populations establish a natural cycle that includes high and low levels.

What is needed is an integrated pest management approach that utilizes spray programs in conjunction with sound forest management at key times in the life of the forest, to lessen the susceptability of the forest to defoliation and mortality.

Up until now, forest management has been mostly reactive in dealing with the problem. Commonly, when forests are defoliated and trees killed, woodland owners and managers will contact a professional forester and ask them what they can do. Unfortunately, outside of some salvage cutting, little can be done. Oak trees, once dead, will not grow a new sprout that can develop into a tree. The resulting forest is many times composed of species with less value for timber for wildlife.

What is needed is a proactive approach. This requires integrating forest management practices with spraying to reduce the long-term susceptability of woodlands to defoliation and mortality by gypsy moth in three main ways. First, thinning forests can reduce the percentage of trees that are preferred host spieces, such as oaks, as well as increase the growth and vigor of remaining trees. However, any thinning operation puts remaining trees under severe stress for the next 3-5 years and exposes them to possible mortality from even a minor defoliation. This gives the tree a chance to resprout and grow into a new tree. Spraying prior to a thinning operation can reduce the gypsy moth population for years and provide the remaining trees time to recover. After this, the trees can exhibit renewed vigor that would help them resist damage from gypsy moth. Second, harvest operations can remove slow-growing and old trees that would likely be killed by a heavy defoliation. This gives the tree a chance to resprout and grow into a new tree. Spraying can also be used effectively to protect older forests that have timber and non-timber uses.

Lastly, when tree planting is called for, species not preferred by gypsy moth should be used. Yellow-poplar, ash, and pines are native species not preferred, but can produce quality wood products and other forest benefits.

Some of the stragies for dealing with gypsy moth require the harvesting of trees. This creates a problem for some people who do not understand the long-term benefits of forest management. However, when used correctly, forest management can be effectively integrated with spraying to protect our valuable forest resource for the long term, while improving wildlife habitat, recreation access, and other forest benefits.

What can you do? As a woodland owner you can have your woodland inspected by a professional forester to determine how susceptable your trees are to gypsy moth. A good place to start is your county forester from the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service. He/she will provide free management planning services and a list of registered forest consultants to help you in implementing a forest management plan. The number is found in the blue pages of your telephone directory under "Department of Natural Resources-Forestry."

As a regular citizen, you can contact your county officials in charge of public forests to ask that forest management practices be considered to deal with gypsy moth.

Financial Aid Coordinator At GCC Named

Crystal Filer-Ogden, a native of Frostburg and a resident of nearby Hoffman, was recently named to the position of coordinator of financial aid at Garrett Community College.

She is a graduate of Beall High School and Allegany Community College. She also graduated from Frostburg State University where she earned a bachelor of science degree in business administration with a minor in accounting and computer science. She is currently working on her MBA at Frostburg.

During her college years, Ms. Filer-Ogden worked as head designer for Harvey's Florists, Frostburg, then as financial advisor for Allegany Molding. Prior to coming to Garrett, she was a community living assistant in a residence for mentally disordered adults in Frederick.

She is currently involved in a number of community activities, including the Hoffman Community Association, the Frost Elementary School PTA, where her son David is a student; and she participates in Fire Prevention Week each year with the local volunteer fire department. Each year she also does volunteer income tax returns for low income and elderly persons.

Concerning her work at Garrett Community College, Ms. Filer-Ogden says she likes dealing "one-on-one" with students.

"I like the atmosphere here," she said. "It is different from a larger institution — more like one big happy family."

Ms. Filer-Ogden replaced Cissy VanSickle who left the college to take a position with the National Public Information Center in Cumberland.

HOW FAR INTO THE NEXT CENTURY?

Some thoughts on our accomplishments and goals may be appropriate when one considers that children born within the last few years will be in high school and college after the turn of the next century. That fruit trees planted now will reach full production after the year 2000 and that larger investments in family, home, farm and equipment will still be pertinent after the turn of the next century. In other words, the beginnings of the third century have been laid. Our decisions and actions now will decide the quality of the next fifty years. It is not by accident that we at this time seriously look at cleaning up our environment. We still have ten years to really make a difference, on ourselves and the world around us.

"Progress" as described relentlessly goes forward and it is up to us to make it positive or negative. Have we done this wisely? Could we do better? Only one thing seems certain — we must each do our part, all help together, the outcome of rejecting a one many, one party rule.

What should be a goal for the future? Many aspects are important, but two above others would be healthy nutrition for a fair price that will leave soil and water in good condition beyond the next generation. And we must also aspire peace security within families and groups. A safety zone for stress reduction, rejuvenation for the human spirit and human relationships that build strength and enthusiasm to grow and reach out. How much do we know about the value of families? Maybe we had to lose some to see more clearly what it accomplished. Socializing the young was (is) its most generic function. Teaching difficult-to-measure values: love, ambition, endurance, responsibility, positive self-concept, are some specifics.

In working and communicating with thousands of people every year, I come to the conclusion that most of us know what is needed, what we want for ourselves, our families and communities. Hopefully, we desire at least one aspect enough to become involved in making a difference. This ground work could be laid before the year 2000. Like the trees we planted last week, what we do today will bear fruit in the next century.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

Maryland Energy Assistance Program To Hold Hearing

The Maryland Energy Assistance Program of the Department of Human Resources announced this week that it will hold a public meeting in Garrett County at the Flowervale Senior Citizen Center in Accident, Wednesday, August 22, at 6:30 p.m. to discuss the accomplishments of the FY 1990 program and the proposed program requirements of 1991.

The hearings will give the public the opportunity to comment on MEAP program changes. One of the major changes is designed to reflect the differences in fuel type usage. In addition, other changes provide for an improved process for fair hearings, crisis assistance, outreach and increase in ongoing public participation.

"This year's hearings are very important in view of President Bush's National Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program budget proposal of $1.05 billion," said Executive Director Frank Blanton of DHR's Community Services Administration. "That figure translates into $16.8 million for Maryland in fiscal year 1991. We received $22.3 million in fiscal year 1990 and more services are needed now," he said in closing.

Citizens interested in obtaining copies of the public hearing document should call 1-800-352-1446.

COMPUTER SYSTEM AT WORK AT FAIR — This year, for the first time at the Garrett County Fair, all 4-H and FFA entries are being made on computer. This year's "test run" will pave the way for all fair entries to be made on the computer next year. The pre-entry information was fed into the computer last week by two 4-H members, Jamie Porterfield and Wendy Miller. In addition to entries, the computer system will handle the judges sheets and do much of the paper work now done by hand. The system is also expected to generate checks for all exhibiters this year. Volunteering on the fair computer is Charles Teets, (left) independent computer consultant, and Kevin Bass, of Garrett Community College. The system is intended to save time and aggravation for everyone involved — this year and in years to come.

KEEP FOOD SAFE WHEN YOU'RE "POWERLESS"

Those thunderstorms so common during the summer months can do more than spoil a Fourth of July picnic. Heavy winds, excessive rain and lightning all can wreak havoc with utility lines, causing power failures that leave consumers without electricity for hours or even days.

Although you may be powerless to prevent such incidents, you can take actions to ensure the safety of your food supply when the lights go out, according to Dr. Mark A. Kantor, a nutrition and food safety specialist with the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service.

"First of all, purchase thermometers for the freezer and refrigerator so you can keep track of the temperature in case the power fails," he says. "The thermometers should be sturdy and designed specifically for this use. Many hardware stores and supermarkets carry them."

If your electricity is off for only a few hours, you don't have to take any special steps to protect your food supply . . . except to avoid opening the refrigerator and freezer doors. But a longer power failure will require some extra precautions.

If you're lucky enough to have a full freezer, Kantor notes, you can expect food to remain frozen for two days. A half-full freezer will keep food frozen for about one day, although you may be able to extend this time by grouping packages together so they retain the cold more effectively.

You also can help keep food frozen longer by adding dry ice to your freezer when the power goes off. Twenty-five pounds of dry ice should hold a full 10-cubic-foot freezer below freezing for three to four days. If the freezer is half full, the same amount of ice will keep it stable for two to three days.

"If possible, find out where you can get dry ice before you need it," advises Kantor. "Utility companies often distribute dry ice free of charge during extended power outages. Listen to radio announcements (on a battery-powered radio) regarding distribution points. You can also check the yellow pages in the phone book for dry ice suppliers."

If you do purchase dry ice, make sure you handle it properly.

"Never touch it with your bare hands," Kantor stresses.

"It can freeze your skin quite badly. Instead, transport it in a cardboard box that you can place directly in the freezer, or wear heavy gloves and use tongs when handling it. Keep the dry ice away from food items or place a piece of cardboard between the ice and food so items doesn't stick to it."

When dry ice vaporizes, it drives out the surrounding oxygen, so don't stick your head into the freezer and breathe the vapors.

After a power failure, food will usually keep for four to six hours in a refreigerator, depending on how warm your kitchen is. If power will be out for longer than that, you may want to add block ice to the refrigerator. Don't use dry ice; it can freeze refrigerated items.

You can help insulate your refrigerator and/or freezer by covering it with a blanket, which will help prevent the loss of cold air. Just make sure you don't cover the air vents in case the power comes back on.

Once power has been restored, it's time to assess the damage. The following guidelines will help you decide which items to keep and which to throw out.

If ice crystals are visible on frozen food and its temperature has remained at 40F or below, it is safe to refreeze, although the quality of some items may suffer. If the food has thawed completely, but still feels cold, cook it right away and then serve or refreeze.

In the case of meat, Kantor recommends using it in a recipe that allows for well-done rather than rare preparation. For example, cut a roast into thin strips and stir-fry, or use ground beef for spaghetti sauce rather than rare hamburgers.

Some foods can tolerate less time/temperature abuse than others. For example, fresh meats, poultry, lunch meats, hot dogs, eggs and milk should be discarded if they have been subjected to temperature of 40F or higher for more than two hours;

Fruits and vegetables, on the other hand, can be cooked and served as long as there is no yeasty smell, sliminess or evidence of mold. Juices can be used, provided they look and smell acceptable, and well-wrapped hard cheeses, butter and margarine can be kept unless mold or rancid odors develop.

MASCD Holds Annual Meeting At Wisp; Tackles Non-Tidal Wetlands

Top priority was given to the functional value of non-tidal wetlands on agricultural land and the need to compensate farmers for land lost to non-tidal wetland restrictions at the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts (MASCD) summer meeting held the week of July 16 at the Wisp resort in Garrett County.

According to MASCD Executive Director Lynn Hoot, important discussions took place at the summer meeting on many topics. Among those was a discussion on the 1990 farm bill with David Owen of the USDA providing a breakdown on the bill's progress which Hoot said was "very informative."

Perhaps the hottest topic of the week, according to Hoot, was the non-tidal wetlands law and administration of that law, as well as the federal wetlands delineation manual which defines a wetland. Farmers in attendance from all over the state told Tom Filip, from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, and Philip Cristensen, state conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, that the law was wrong and the manual unfair.

Royden Powell, president of the MASCD, explained that the opportunity for input provided by the meeting was badly needed.

"Early in June, the agencies involved in developing the federal wetlands delineation manual (the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Soil Conservation Service, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Environmental Protection Agency) met to begin to wrestle with the problems associated with administering the program," Powell said. "Out of that meeting came the realization that they needed some input. They wanted to go out in the field and see how that manual was affecting policy and how that policy was administered on the land."

Of that June meeting, Christensen stated that two issues were made clear. "One," he said, "was the concern about effects on agriculture and the second was that the public was very confused."

At the MASCD meeting, Christensen and Filip passed out stickers, one red dot and four green, to each farmer in the crowd — well over 100. Farmers' concerns about wetlands were then acepted by the pair, who listed them on a large sheet of paper. The farmers were asked to put the red dots beside the concerns they felt most important and the green dots beside other concerns they felt strongly about.

This list was later taken by Filip to a meeting with the EPA in Philadelphia.

The concern receiving the most red dots was how to assure that the function and value of wetlands be studied and defined in a more rational way.

"What you're saying is that we need to make wetlands decisions based on an assessment of value," Christensen said.

Confusion was another concern, in that some agencies say that one criteria, soil, is used to delineate wetlands, while other agencies say that three criteria are used — hydrology, plant life, and soil. "You need all three," Christensen responded.

Further discussion brought out the fact that the agricultural community, as well as other property owners, were not given a chance to provide commentary into the writing of the manual. Filip answered that the agencies were not legally required to have a public comment on the manual because it involved changes to a document that already existed.

"Two courts have already ruled on that issue," Filip said.

Steele Phillips, a Dorchester County farmer, pointed out a concern that the wetlands law is scaring developers away from wetlands and is placing increasing pressure on prime farmland.

"The federal 'no net loss of wetlands' policy and the no net loss of trees program put forth by the governor is putting a lot of pressure on A-number-one farmland," Phillips said. "If we do not let some development into these wetlands, we'll lose more and more top farmland."

Given top priority, based on the number of red dots they were assigned, were the consideration of the functional value of non-tidal wetlands on agricultural land and the need to compensate farmers for land lost to non-tidal wetland restrictions.

During the summer meeting, MASCD also approved a resolution calling for an amendment to Maryland's Program Open Space (POS) law to provide funds to MASCD.

Currently the law provides funds to state agencies and subdivisions to acquire outdoor recreation and open space areas and to develop outdoor recreation facilities.

According to the proposed wording of the bill, the MASCD resolution would make changes to provide the organization funds to "expedite preparation and execution of soil and water conservation plans for private and public lands."

Funding for the MASCD would be derived from funds created by the state transfer tax, which is levied on all land transfers. The proposal states: "The soil and water resources grants program administered by the MASCD shall be funded by July 1 of each year in the annual amount of either five percent of the total funds available from the state transfer tax or $2.5 million, whichever is greater."

This is primarily to ensure greater revenues for MASCD. Executive Director Hoot supported the move and said the membership of the organization would have to get behind the bill for it to be successful.

"We'll need each individual district to talk to their delegates (to the Maryland General Assembly) and get them behind the bill," Hoot said. She suggested that there would be some opposition to the bill from the governor and the Department of Natural Resources because it could affect some of the funds going into their budgets.

Other resolutions passed included one which calls for changes in the review and payment process for the state's agriculture cost-share program. The association stated that changes should speed up the process and thereby increase participation.

Also passed was a resolution supporting the recycling of household wastes. The association supported the recycling effort because new landfills reduce agricultural land and recycling reduces the need for landfill space.

An effort to speed up the permit process involved in obtaining permits for stream crossings on farms was also adopted.

During the MASCD awards program, Garrett Soil Conservation District Assistant Treasurer David W. Thomas was presented an award for Outstanding Contributions by a New Supervisor. This award is given to supervisors who have served two years of less, and has made unique and/or outstanding contributions deserving of special recognition. Thomas has both a bachelor's and a master's degree in agriculture, is a former extension agent in Dinwiddie County, Virginia, is a Certified Maryland Wastewater Superintendent, and presently is the environmental coordinator for Matikki.

Thomas became a voting member in 1988 after serving on the district board as an associate member for approximately five years. District Chairman George Bishoff reported that Thomas' "professionalism and expertise in environmental matters is a tremendous asset to the District. He represents the District well at meetings and conveys a very positive image of soil conservation programs to the public," Bishoff said.

Executive Director Hoot said that "overall, the meeting went very well. We have really strengthened relations with the Maryland Department of the Environment. Created a truce. Carried the olive branch," Hoot said.

The meeting was well attended by 95 out of 120 state supervisors, with a total attendance of approximately 200.

Over Half State's Field Corn Has Reached Dough Stage

By August 12, 58 percent of Maryland's field corn acreage was in the dough stage of phenological development, ahead of last year's 44 percent and the five-year average of 55 percent. An average of 3.3 days was suitable for fieldwork according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Across the state, no top soil was very short of moisture, while 15 percent was short, 40 percent was adequate, and 45 percent was surplus. Subsoil moisture ended the week as follows: none very short, 10 percent short, 65 percent adequate, and 25 percent surplus. Field corn, soybeans, and tobacco were in good condition across the state. Apples, oats, and pasture were in fair condition. Peaches were in fair condition. Hay supplies were adequate.

Maryland's progress for the week ending August 12, in percentages for year to date this year compared to year to date last year are as follows:

Crop Stage: Corn silked, 93, 81; Corn dough, 58, 44; Corn dent, 32, 15; Soybeans bloomed, 74, 62; Soybeans setg. pods, 42, 39.

Crops Harvested: Oats, 72, 73; Alfalfa 3rd cut, 44, 45; Other Hay 2nd cut, 70, 58; Other Hay 3rd cut, 12, 6; Potatoes, 76, 52; Snap Beans, 81, 74; Sweet Corn, 65, 59; Apples, 10, 8; Peaches, 64, 54.

WEATHER

Maryland weather for the week ended August 10, was cool with showers. Precipitation averaged 2.74 inches, ranging from 0.23 at Hagerstown, 4.86 inches at College Park. Western and North Central Maryland averaged 0.42 inch and 3.34 inches, respectively. Southern Maryland west of the Bay and the Eastern Shore averaged 4.09 inches and 2.40 inches respectively. Temperatures averaged 73.4 degrees, 2.3 degrees below the normal of 75.7 degrees for August 4-10. Minimum temperatures were mostly in the high 50's to low 60's, except in extreme Western Maryland where lows dipped into the mid 40's. Maximum temperatures were in the high 80's to low 90's for a week.

Maryland Land Values Continue To Climb

Since 1987 Maryland farmland values have moved steadily upward. In 1990 at $2,512 per acre, we near the peak reached in 1981 of $2,530 per acre. The total value of Maryland farmland and buildings, at $5.8 billion is at a record level and 1 percent more than the value in early 1989. In the 48 contiguous states land values average $693 per acre. This average represents a 4 percent increase over 1989.

DEEP CREEK REALTY

OFFER THE OPTIMUM!

Selling your home? If you plan to ask a REALTOR® to represent you, be prepared to enter into a partnership with that individual, one in which you, as well as the REALTOR®, play an active role.

The part you play will center around providing what are known as "optimum selling conditions". Although the REALTOR® will be responsible for creating a marketing plan to attract potential buyers to your home, those buyers must have ready access to a home that is priced fairly and in mint condition. Providing such a home will be your role in the partnership.

First, provide your REALTOR® with "ready access" to your home at all reasonable hours. Give the REALTOR® your permission and encouragement to show your home at the convenience of potential buyers. This means you bear the responsibility for keeping it neat and attractive at all times — beds made, dishes washed, etc. Serious buyers — those motivated to act — are not likely to return to a home which was not available when they wanted to see it. Price your home fairly. This does not mean that you must offer a bargain price to attract buyers. On the contrary, a home that is "fairly" priced often tends to attract full-price offers made by serious buyers.

Finally, provide a home in mint condition. All repairs and improvements should be completed before it is offered for sale. To be attractive to buyers a home should bear the message "Pride of ownership is practiced here!" It should look, smell and feel like new — an inviting home to visit, and a wonderful place to live.

You, as the homeowners, hold the key to providing a marketable home. Your REALTOR® understands the procedure for locating and attracting the right buyers to your door. Working together, the sale of your home can take place quickly, at the best possible price and terms, and with the least amount of inconvenience to you and your family!

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 387-5303, or come by our office located in McHenry, MD.

Alan Roth Wins W.Va. FFA Ag Mechanics Award

Alan Roth, of Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., was named the West Virginia State FFA Agricultural Mechanics Proficiency award winner. Roth, a member of the East Preston FFA Chapter, received a $100 check at the state FFA convention which was held at Cedar Lakes in Ripley, W.Va. Roth will now compete against other state winners in his region. One person will be selected as a national finalist.

Each of the four regional finalists will receive a plaque, a $250 check and travel expenses to the national FFA convention in Kansas City, Mo., in November. The national winner will be selected from this group. He or she will receive an additional plaque, $250 check, and the opportunity to participate in the International Travel Seminar.

The award program recognizes outstanding agricultural education students for developing mechanical knowledge and skills spplicable to agriculture/agribusiness. Twenty-nine National FFA Proficiency Award program areas recognize FFA members for achievement in activities leading to careers in agriculture.

The agricultural mechanics award program is sponsored by Case IH as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

FFA is a national organization of 397,115 students in 7,705 local chapters preparing for agricultural careers. FFA activities and award programs complement instruction in agricultural education by giving students practical experience in the application of agricultural skills and knowledge gained in classes. Developing agricultural leadership, cooperation and citizenship are FFA's major objectives.

Roth recently received his welding certification and will begin diesel school this fall. He is the son of Willard and Dorothy Roth of Horse Shoe Run. His vo-ag instructor is Terry Hauser.

At a recent FFA gathering, Advisor Hauser recognized the following for their generous contributions which made it possible for students to attend the Washington Conference Program: The Terra Alta Bank, Orville and Mary Evans, Lewis & Burge, Elizabeth Swantek, Truman and Deborah Wolfe, Miners & Merchants Bank, Shillito Insurance Agency, Aurora Dairy Queen, Edward Grose, One Valley Bank, Aurora Ladies Auxillary, and the Terra Alta Park Commission.

Weeds On ACR Cropland Must Be Controlled

One of the requirements to qualify for 1990 farm program benefits is acreage conservation reserve (ACR) maintenance. ACR is cropland removed from production to meet acreage reduction requirements.

Kenneth Bachtel, chairperson of Garrett County ASC Committee, said program participants must follow their contract regarding maintenance of ACR land to be eligible for full program benefits. "Once producers have established adequate conservation protection on these acres to prevent wind and water erosion, maintenance procedures must begin," Bachtel said.

Producers cannot neglect ACR land and allow it to grow into weeds or to become a harboring place for insects and rodents, he said.

Approximately 24,329 acres of Maryland cropland were diverted from crop production under the 1990 farm programs. "We are checking to see that these acres are properly maintained." Bachtel said. He pointed out that weed control is a very important program requirement and farmers who fail to do so will be out of compliance and could lose program benefits.

The acreage reduction program contract also prohibits harvesting ACR land. Grazing is not authorized between May 1 through September 30, 1990.

"It would be unfortunate at this point for a producer to be found out of compliance because of failing to maintain ACR land." The ASCS official said most farmers want to do what is best for their land, and have made conservation practices an integral part of their farming operations.

WISH WE WERE THERE — "Did you know that the cows from the farm just down the road got to go to the Garrett County Fair this year?" Bessie (the Holstein standing at right) asked the others. "Wish we were there, too," said another cow. "It's boring here," she added. "Yes," the first cow continued, "at the fair, we'd be getting all that extra attention — spending the week in that new dairy barn, special feed, interested people watching us being milked, all that grooming, and strutting around in front of a judge. Maybe even bringing one of those blue ribbons home with us." "Sounds great," they all agreed. "Maybe next year!" Photo taken in Pleasant Valley by Susan Cupler.

Farm Bureau Tells Pres. Bush That Agriculture Is Slighted On Wetlands

The American Farm Bureau Federation is "deeply concerned" about the administration's wetlands policy and last week urged President George Bush to give farmers and ranchers from across the country the opportunity to speak out at upcoming public hearings.

In a letter to Bush, AFBF President Dean Kleckner reminded the president of his vow to Farm Bureau members at the January AFBF annual meeting that the administration "would not take any action that would harm the productive capacity of American agriculture." Copies of the letter were sent to White House Chief of Staff John Sununu and Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter.

The administration's wetlands policy "stands to damage our farm productivity. To make matters worse, we feel we're being denied the opportunity to speak out on the issue," Kleckner said.

The president's wetlands policy committee is holding six public meetings from August 17 to Sept. 17 on wetlands issues and the administration's policy of issues and the administration's policy of "no overall net loss." Farm Bureau has been informed there will be an agriculture panel of speakers at only one of the six hearings to be held in Bismarck, N.D.; Peoria, Ill.; New Orleans, La.; Olympia, Wash.; Anchorage, Alaska; and Providence, R.I.

"The interpretation of what is a wetland and what constitutes a wetland varies tremendously from one region of the country to another," Kleckner said. "What is critical to a North Dakota wheat grower has little bearing to a Florida fruit grower, a Maine Potato farmer or a Texas rancher. Farmers throughout the country want the opportunity to describe the impact overly rigid and arbitrary regulations will have on their farming operations and their communities," he said.

Farm Bureau requested that a panel be devoted to agriculture at each of the hearing locations and requested additional hearings be held in the Southeast and the Rocky Mountain areas.

"The issue of wetlands policy has been a major concern in Farm Bureau," Kleckner said. "Few issues have galvanized the will of the farm community."

Dairy Farmers To Discuss Milk Marketing, Prices

Over 70 dairy farmers will learn about the current daily situation from Bob Yonkers, Penn State Ag Economist, and the profitability of dairy products in the supermarket dairy case from Scott Higgins, Mid-East UDIA General Manager and potential over-order premiums from Bob Jacobson, Ohio State Ag Economist.

This all takes place at the first delegate meeting of the Producers' Equalization Agency (Agency) held on Thursday, August 23, at the Ramada Inn, West Middlesex, Pa. The meeting will begin at 10:30 a.m. and adjourn at 2:30 p.m.

"The purpose of the meeting is to inform dairy farmer delegates who represent dairy farmers throughout eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania what they can do to improve their net returns. During the last three years, net returns to dairy farmers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania have been the lowest in the nation. Dairy farmers can improve their net returns but they need to become involved in pricing their milk," says John Siglow, General Manager of the Agency.

Siglow adds, "Dairy farmer delegates and guests are urged to attend the Agency delegate meeting. This is an opportunity for dairy farmers to improve their livelihood but they need to take the first step and become involved in pricing their milk."

For further information interested farmers may call 1-800-875-2250.

ASCS Will Accept late Filed Reports

Late-field reports will be accepted, Bachtel says. Kenneth Bachtel, chairperson of the Garrett County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said late-filed crop and land use acreage reports will be accepted as long as the farmer pays the cost of verifying the acreage report, and there is physical evidence of the crop or land's use.

"Some producers have not filed a crop report this year," Bachtel said. July 15 was the deadline for farmers to report their 1990 planted acres.

Crop reports are used by ASCS to determine program compliance and to document crop acreage bases. Before receiving price support loans, deficiency payments and other benefits, farm program participants must report crops and acreage planted, the uses to be made of these crops, and cropland acres devoted to conservation uses.

"This report is mandatory for farm program participants because without it, they are not eligible for benefits on their 1990 program crops," ASCS official Bachtel said. The acreage report governs the level at which farmers are eligible for program payments and other benefits.

Preliminary certification results indicate that most farm operators in Garrett County have reported their acreage and are eligible for 1990 farm program benefits.

Yough Lake Fee Revisions Noted By Army Corps

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers recently published proposed revisions to its Shoreline Management Program fee schedule in the Federal Register. This begins a 45-day public review period that will end September 23. The proposed fee schedule will apply to Pittsburgh District lakes which have existing shoreline management programs, including Youghiogheny River Lake, located partially in Garrett County.

The proposed revisions will increase the cost of shoreline management permits to current and future permit holders, enabling the federal government to recover a greater portion of the actual cost of issuing shoreline management permits.

For current permit holders renewing permits, the proposed schedule establishes a periodic fee (inspection fee) of $15 per year, payable in advance for five-year increments. In effect, this increases the cost of current permit holder from $30 to a total of $75 for five years.

The proposed shoreline management fees are as follows:

—New facility: a one time fee of $400 plus $15 per year periodic inspection fee (payable in advance for five-year increments).

—New owner: a one time fee of $200 plus $15 per year periodic inspection fee (payable in advance for five-year increments).

—Facility modifications: a one time fee of $100 plus $15 per year periodic inspection fee (payable in advance for five-year increments).

—Facility renewal: a $15 per year periodic inspection fee (payable in advance for five-year increments).

—Vegetation modification, such as mowing (new permit): a one time fee of $200 plus $15 periodic inspection fee (payable in advance for five-year increments).

—Vegetation modification (new adjacent land owner): a one time fee of $100 plus $15 periodic inspection fee (payable in advance for five-year increments).

—Vegetation modification (permit renewal): a $15 periodic inspection fee (payable in five-year increments).

The current fee schedule, which will remain in effect until further notice, has not been revised since it was put in effect in 1974.
